Varsity Loses to Lebanon Y.M.C.A.

The Varsity basketball team was defeated for the first time this season last Saturday evening on the Lebanon Y. M. C. A. floor by the Y. M. C. A., 29 to 15. The game was the last contest preliminary to the regular college season, and Lebanon Valley supporters need not feel disappointed over the outcome nor over the prospects for the coming season which opens on Wednesday with Temple University on our floor, for in order to try out several new men Coach substituted regardless of the score and most of the Varsity men were taken out of the game early.

The game was played under national rules, and was necessarily rough and slow from start to finish.

PROF. ARNDT ARRIVES

As students we are glad to welcome Professor Arndt into our faculty as head of the Biology Department.

Mr. Arndt graduated from Lebanon Valley with the class of 1914.

During his Junior and Senior years he was assistant to Professor Derickson. After graduation he went to Perdue University where he was assistant to Dr. H. E. Enders, class of 1897. Dr. H. E. Enders was also professor of Biology at Lebanon Valley College for several years. Mr. Arndt obtained the Degree of Master of Science from Perdue University June, 1916. He gave up his position as Professor of Biology at Ellsworth College, Iowa Falls, Iowa, where he has been since September, 1916, to fill the temporary vacancy caused by the illness of Professor Derickson. We are sure he will receive the hearty co-operation of the student body.

In the degree that you keep young in thought will you remain young in body. And you will find that your body will in turn aid your mind, for body helps mind, the same as mind helps body.

L. V. Represented at I. P. A. Convention at Lexington, Ky.

In the heart of the blue grass region of Kentucky 700 students from 125 colleges of 25 different states, came together on Dec. 28th for the National Intercollegiate Prohibition convention, which lasted for four days. Prominent speakers from all over the country addressed the convention on the various solutions of the many phases of the liquor problem. The object of the convention was the "Answering of the Challenge of the National Prohibition Movement." The enthusiasm and "pep" of the anti-liquor forces of the en-

LIBRARY NOTES

Miss Helen D. Subers, Library Organizer, of Ashbourne, Pa., and Miss M. Rebecca Lingafelter, Cataloger, of Philadelphia, with the assistance of the student librarians, are reorganizing the library.

This has been a long-hoped-for improvement, which we feel sure the students will appreciate. The library is intended for the use of the students and anything which makes it more useable is indeed welcomed.

Students who have not been accustomed to using the library are urged to form the library habit. Although the work, at the present time, is incomplete, you will find that a great amount of material has been made accessible that previous to this time was unusable.

In order that the best service may be given to all, the following rules have been framed:

I. Reference books and current magazines (monthlies, 3 mo., weeklies, 2 mo.) may be taken from the library from 8.30 P. M. to 5 A. M.

II. Other magazines, in limited number, may be taken out for one week only.

III. All books not "Reference" may be kept for two weeks and renewed once for two weeks.

IV. Any reference book or current magazine returned later than 8 A. M. of the day it is due is subject to a fine of ten cents.

V. Other books and magazines are subject to a fine of two cents for every day (except Sunday) that they are kept overtime.

VI. The privilege of using the library will be withheld from every student whose fines remain unpaid for more than two weeks.

Third Star Course Number

On Saturday night, The Savranoffs, a trio of Russian players will furnish the third star course number for this season. Each member of this company is an individual artist and they present a program filled with life and enthusiasm. The program includes piano, violin, 'cello and vocal solos as well as ensemble numbers—in all covering a period of about one hour and thirty minutes.

The company is composed of Mr. Savranoff, a graduate of the Imperial Conservatory of Music of St. Petersburg; Mrs. Savranoff, who is the accompanist and vocal soloist; and Russell Chilinski, a Russian by birth and a man who has studied the cello under some of the best teachers in his native country and the United States.

Single admission tickets can be secured at the College Book Store for thirty-five cents. The reserve seat chart will open and ticket sale begins Thursday. For any who may care to purchase tickets for the remaining three entertainments in the course, tickets can be secured from any member of the committee for seventy-five cents.

JOINT SESSION.

The new year of Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. activity was started very well Sunday afternoon when both associations met in Joint Session. The meeting was marked by a good attendance and a most excellent program. The leader of the meeting was Miss Miriam Oyer, who presided in a very able manner.

After a few spirited songs, prayer and Scripture reading by the leader, Mr. Edwin Zeigler, gave an interesting talk on "Home Missions." The speaker gave some facts and figures showing how this country in some sections is almost entirely without the gospel. Only 36% of the population is church; in one county in Colorado there are 15,000 to one church; in Chicago in the foreign section there is one church to as many as 55,000 people. A challenge to service for college students was thrown out and emphasized.

The second speaker of the afternoon, Mr. Lefever, gave a summary of Foreign Missions. He urged the importance of missions, and how prayer avails much in the work. Not only should we pray for the whole world, but we should pray definitely for a particular part of the world. We can travel around the world in spirit each week, praying for a definite portion of the world each day.

The music by the male quartette was appreciated by all present.

The editor solicits contributions and items of interest to the College from the students and Alumnae. All articles for publication should be given or sent to the editor not later than Saturday evening.

With the proximity of Semester examinations and the accompanying close of the work for this half-year, the query should naturally arise in the mind of each student: "Have I done all in my power to make a success of my work during this time?" Few, if any could answer this with an absolute affirmative because very few have been taking advantage of one of the best and most practical roads to success as it is considered in a College career.

In the words of Bacon, the great philosopher we have "Reading maketh a full man, * * * and he who reads little must need have great cunning to seem to know that which he doth not." A glance at the Library attendance here would lead one to believe either that L. V.'s students are exceptionally intelligent or that they flatter themselves with the possession of an unusual amount of cunning.

The two reasons most often given for the neglect of the Library have been that it is small and inefficient, and that the student's time is so taken up he has no time for supplementary reading. The Library, in point of number of volumes, is small but as regards quality it ranks above the average of its size and far above the average in the number and quality of periodicals offered. As to its efficiency, this is being vastly augmented by the work of recataloguing and reorganization now nearing completion under competent hands.

Concerning the question of time, one of the foremost educators has said "A College Education consists in the reading of the best books on the subject's the most important." The student who really wishes to make a success will not be satisfied merely with his text books but will read in addition everything of value available on a subject.

A good resolution for the New Year would be to make a freer use of the Library facilities, and with the carrying out of this resolution is bound to come a realization of its possibilities, resulting ultimately in a broader conception of education and life generally.

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY, ADOPTED BY THE MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION OF LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE.

Whereas, Almighty God in his infinite wisdom has called from labor to reward the father, of our brother and fellow student J. Paul Hummel,

Resolved, That we humbly bow in submission to God's will, knowing that He doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we extend our sympathy to our brother and his family, and commend them to the loving comfort of the Holy Spirit.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, and that they be published in the College News.

GEORGE W. HALLMAN,

RAYMOND HEBERLING,

CLYDE LYNCH,

Committee.

Whereas, God in his all-wise Providence has seen fit to remove the father of our brother, Mr. Hummel, be it resolved;

That we extend to Mr. Hummel and family our feelings of sincere sympathy in this hour of their bereavement;

And be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be placed upon the Minutes of the Society, and that they also be published in the College News.

Fraternally,

EDWIN H. ZEIGLER,

MARK WINGERD,

HERBERT R. SNOKE.

I. P. A. CONVENTION AT LEXINGTON, KY.

tire country were there in full sway. Needless to say every individual at the convention felt the horror of the devastating and disintegrating liquor forces of this nation. Every soul there was lifted up to Him who is the maker of us all, in an earnest prayer for strength for consecration of lives in the solution of this problem. Among the many statesmen, professors, doctors and ministers who gave addresses are: William J. Bryan, Dr. Edwin E. Sparks, of Penn State, Dr. D. L. Colvin, National I. P. A. President, Daniel A. Poling, 1st. Vice President of the I. P. A.; Dr. W. Garfield, of Center University, Kentucky; Rev. Elmer L. William, the fighting parson of Chicago; Hon. Eugene N. Foss, Ex-Governor of Mass.; L. C. Reimvan, all American football tackle of Michigan; S. R. Walkingstick, of Dartmouth; Prof. Chas. Scanlon, Gen. Secy. of Temperance Committee of Federal Council of Churches; Virgil G. Hinshaw, (George Irving, Editor, N. A. Student) National Prohibition Chairman and Dr. Ira Landrith, recent candidate for Vice-President of Prohibition party. From these men of prominence and talent came the appeal for a pure and dry America. Not the appeal for partial Prohibition but entire annihilation of the Liquor forces.

In the next two years it is the purpose of the I. P. A. to ask the students to give 10,000 men and women to whom the settlement of this question shall be a primary object in their lives. The following pledge was suggested: "It is my purpose, God helping me, from this time forth in whatever calling engaged to give the liquor problem a primary place in my life program.

It is furthermore the purpose of the I. P. A. to raise the sum of $50,000 a year for the next four years in order to have sufficient means to carry on the work of the association. At one of the meetings pledges on the four year basis amounting to about $10,000 was raised. The greater part of this was pledged by the officers directly associated with the organization. There are eight or ten officers of the I. P. A. who during their term of office, have not received a cent of payment, but on the contrary have spent their money as well as their lives and energies in this noble work. Among these noble, sacrificing men are Dr. D. L. Colvin and Harry S. Warner, the editor of Social Welfare and General Secretary. If these men can thus nobly give their lives and money surely others can at least give their prayers and money.

Surely the people of Lexington deserve creditable mention for their kindness and hospitality, for it was thru them that we were able to hold the convention in their beautiful city. The majority of delegates had their rooms in private homes of the city and many took all their meals with the kind and generous people of the hospitable south.

The two delegates from our own college surely wish to express, as far as possible, their sincerest appreciation for the kindness of the faculty, students and friends of Annville who made possible our wonderful trip to Lexington. We cannot bring to you all that we received, but we feel that what part we cannot give directly to L. V. C. now, will follow us thru life and leave its impression upon our lives and will have a direct bearing upon our future. Among the following are a very few of the sayings and thots taken from various addresses.

Cheerfulness, looking always on the bright side of things, determined always to stand in the sunshine rather than in the shadow—this it is that makes life, with its knotty problems, continually easier. It's the "oil of gladness" that helps in doing the work.

CLIO PROGRAM.

The program on Friday evening was very interesting but rather short, owing to fact that it was given three days after our return and vacation is supposed to be a "forgetting time." Miss Bossard, who appeared first on the program displayed splendid technique in her piano solo. Miss Carter's account of the customs of new year revealed to us many practices which we did not know existed. As usual the sketch was clever in that it gave us the interpretation put on passing events, and gave us a new insight into the girls' sense of humor. The closing number was the Olive Branch in which the girls saw themselves as others see them.

PHILO PROGRAM

Last Friday eve, at 7.15, Philo had its weekly meeting in Philo Hall. The program was well prepared and well rendered. The first paper, "Vacational Happenings" by John A. McGinnes was characteristic of its author, short and spicy. His "Happenings" were peculiarly thrilling and adventurous. "Brief vom Housebarrick," by Harry Kaerman was distinctly "Pennsylvania Dutch" and delineated its actors very well. The debate, Resolved, That the President of U. S. should be replaced by the Popular Vote. The affirmative speakers, Harold White and Hubert Snoke, according to the judge's decision outclassed the negative, Paul S. Wagner and Ross Swartz, in their arguments.

The "Trombone Duet," by John Herring and John Berger, was a new number on the program and was greatly appreciated as evidenced in the applause for an encore. The Parody on the "Blue and Gray," by Orville T. Spessard was clever and humorous. "Lord George and his Policy" was given in detail by Evan Brunner in a very instructing and pleasing manner. Clyde Lynch's "Autobiography" was truly humorous and characteristic of so great a personage.

Among the visitors to enjoy the rendering of this splendid program was our alumnus and fellow-Philo David J. Evans. Under "Remarks" Dave gave us a very good talk on loyalty and expressed his sincere regrets that he can't be with us oftener.

ALUMNAE NOTES.

Edward H. Smith, '14, was appointed one of the editors of the Dickinson Law Review, a representative paper of the Dickinson Law School where he is at present a student.

David J. Evans, '16, who is engaged in Y. M. C. A. work at Kannapolis, N. C., visited his Alma Mater for a few days and gave quite an interesting talk in chapel.

KALOZETEAN.

Every person taking part in the literary program last Friday evening must have received special enthusiasm over the vacation period for every number was full of animation and gusto. The first number, a paper entitled "Vacation Memories," read by Dale Garber, was indeed a very minute review of the chief events of the writer's vacation. Mr. Garber must have had a very exciting and lively vacation judging from the happenings which he related.

"Social Life in the Colonies" was the subject of a very comprehensive paper read by Paul Shannon. The paper took up the customs and manners of the social side of the early colonists, treating each custom in a very interesting manner. The vocal solos by Raymond Keim were well chosen, very well rendered and greatly appreciated by the audience.

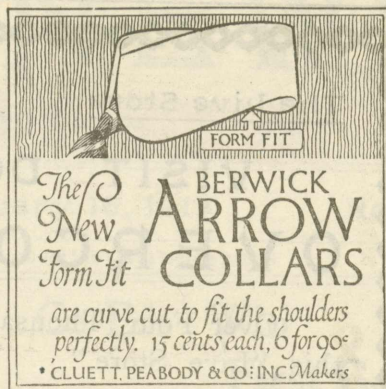

As an extemporaneous number, Paul E. Hilbert was given the subject "My Trip to Lexington." Mr. Hilbert gave a detailed account of the trip, relating many amusing occurrences which came to the notice of his partner and him. Henry M. Gingrich read an interesting paper on "China, America's Silent Partner." The subject matter was of the very latest facts on this great empire, how China looks to America to help her and how we can help China.

After a spirited chorus by the society, R. W. Williams gave an essay which he titled "True Success, or The Effort is Virtuous. The keynote of the paper seemed to be scounded in one sentence: "Failure after all our efforts have been put forth is more virtuous than success attained with no effort whatever."

SOCIAL NOTES.

Miss Evelyn Snively returned to college on Sunday after spending the holidays at her home in Danville.

Mr. David Evans has returned to North Carolina after visiting his brother and friends in Annaville.

Mr. Walter Loser was the guest of some friends in Annaville on Sunday.

The Misses Helen Ziegler, of York, were the guests of Miss Mabel Diehl on Sunday.

Miss M. Rebecca Lingenfelter, of Philadelphia, is assisting in the work of reorganizing the library.

Misses Katherine Ruth and Dorothy Lorenz spent the week-end with Miss Katherine Harris at her home in Harrisburg.

Miss Neva Nihiser spent Sunday as the guest of friends in Lebanon.

Miss Mary Lutz is confined to her room in South Hall on account of illness.

Professor Arndt and some members of the Biology class went fishing for turtles on Saturday afternoon and the result of their trip was very satisfactory (?)

Miss Ada Bossard was the guest of Miss Ruth Hughes at her home in York over New Year's Day.

SCRUB DEFEAT SHIPPENSBURG

The Temple University basketball team came here last Wednesday evening with a record for the season of five victories and no defeats, but our quintet proved equal to the occasion by defeating the visitors, 32 to 21.

The game was close and exciting from start to the final whistle, and due to this "see-sawing" of the score the game was unusually rough. Seltzer was given his first real try-out for the centre position, and the results of his evening's work show six field goals. Swartz and Keating played hard, Swartz getting five field goals. Keating played in hard luck thruout the contest, and altho he did not enter the scoring column, he did much to put others there. Loomis and Walter did some close guarding, but the jinx is still following Dannie, for he hurt his knee toward the close of the game. Shetter then ably filled his position. Captain Loomis is to be congratulated for the fine spirit he showed thruout the game under aggravating circumstances, and his attitude could well be imitated in the treatment of a visiting team on our floor.

The Reserve basketball team spent a most enjoyable evening Friday when they downed Shippensburg Normal, 46 to 23. They, (the Reserves), should have scored more points, but the poor fellows were getting out of wind toward the end. Coach Guyer sent a light, fast team on the floor to represent Lebanon Valley, and every one of them proved their worth. Barnhart played exceptionally well, scoring a total of eight field goals and playing a fast floor game. Fishburn, playing guard, was all over the floor. His excellent team work was largely instrumental in running up such a score. The Re-

Students Impression of Bonebrake Theological Seminary

I have completed almost half of my first year in Bonebrake Theological Seminary. My first impression of the institution far exceeded my expectations, even though they were very high. And I can say sincerely that I am pleased more and more with each passing day. I crave for those who are looking forward to the ministry, the many good features which a course in our Seminary offers. In this article I wish to name a few of these features which should attract our young men to our own "school of the prophets."

First, let me say a word regarding the faculty. When President Landis pays his annual visit to Lebanon Valley, in behalf of the Seminary, he generally speaks a word for the faculty, but I was under their teaching only a week when I found that his remarks were very modest and conservative. The United Brethren Church can truly be proud of the men chosen to teach in its Theological Seminary. They are all very proficient and their teaching is marked by its thoroughness. No young man need fear that his intellect will suffer for want of mental nutriment, if he should come to his own church school. If these professors had a greater fund of knowledge, they would have to hold it in reserve, just as they do with much at present. This is not flattery, but the sincere estimate of the writer, Lebanon Valley is represented on the faculty by two of its alumni, a thing which should be of interest to Lebanon Valley students.

THE SAVARANOFFS RENDER SPLENDID PROGRAM.

As is characteristic of all the Star Course numbers on the local stage, the musical number rendered on Saturday evening by the Savaranoffs was splendidly played and greatly appreciated by the large audience that attended. From the start to finish of each number, everyone seemed spellbound by the music and the manner in which it was played. To judge the program by the hearty applause were only to say that "it was the best yet." The violinist proved the master of his situation as did also the cello player. The pianist felt and acted perfectly at home, doing no less than her colleagues in the various solos, duets and combination performances.

Co-Eds Win First Game

SECOND TEAM LOSES TO ANNVILLE GIRLS

The Varsity girls defeated the Chambersburg High School girls decisively in an interesting basketball game in the Alumni Gymnasium Saturday afternoon, 26 to 8.

The first half was close and interesting, and ended with the score 7 to 3 in our favor, but early in the second half Mark Engle and Helen Bubb started tossing field goals, and the result of the contest was no longer in doubt. The playing of Captain Engle was remarkable for the first game of the season, and much will be expected of her this winter. Miss Rupp played her first game for Lebanon Valley and proved to be a worthy partner of Miss Williams, the veteran guard. Miss Houser also participated in the first college game, and did well. Lineup: Lebanon Valley      Chambersburg
Bubb ..... forward ..... Rhodes
Gamble ..... forward ..... Beattie
Engle ..... center ..... Fields
Rupp ..... guard ..... Burgner
Williams ..... guard ..... Durboraw
Field goals—Bubb, 4; Gamble, Engle, 6; Williams; Rhodes; Fields; Eyster. Goals from fouls—Engle, 2 out of 7; Beattie, 1 out of 7; Rhodes 1 out of 3. Substitutions—Lebanon Valley: Houser for Rupp; Chambersburg: Eyster for Durboraw, Durboraw for Fields. Referee—Weirick.

The Reserve girls were defeated by the Annville High School girls in the gymnasium Saturday afternoon, 14 to 5. The game was really decided during the first half, when the high school girls could not be stopped, and the game at the end of this period was 13 to 9 in their favor. The passing of the high school team could not be broken up, and as a consequence the Reserves did not score a field goal. During the second half Annville was out played and out pointed, but the lead was too large to be overcome. Miss Snavelly played a fine game, scoring all of the points for her team. Line-up:

Lebanon Valley                      Annville High

Streavey ..... forward ..... Fencil
Snavelly ..... center ..... Daugherty

Field Goals—Snavelly 2, Newguard 2, Fencil 2, Daugherty. Goals from Fouls—Snavelly, 3 out of 6; Newguard, 3 out of 3; Fencil, 1 out of 4. Substitutions — Lebanon Valley: Houser for Streavey, Schaak for Lerew. Referee—Wenrick.

With the approach of semester examinations comes a nervous tension which is felt through the whole student body. Is this because we have done our best and are just waiting a chance to display our knowledge or rather, is it because our laxity toward study brings an uncertainty as to the outcome of the final test. Let us be sincere with ourselves and confess that we have not lived up to our best but have followed the line of least resistance. Is this the type of a person the world is demanding? Has a person who follows the lines of least resistance a strong, well disciplined mind, stored with the knowledge and experience of the past as well as the present? It is only by doing our tasks well as they are assigned day by day that we achieve the best results. In this way we receive the full benefit of life and not merely a surface knowledge for the time being. In starting the new semester's work let each one of us, realizing our own weakness, resolve, not merely for the sake of making a resolution but for the sake of being just to ourselves and those whom we shall influence in the future, that each setting sun will find its days work nobly done.

"A STUDENT'S IMPRESSION OF BONEBRAKE THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY"

Another feature which one soon notices is that of the deep spiritual atmosphere. One might think it superfluous to make special mention of this, in an institution of this type; yet it is a fact to be lamented that some church schools are sadly deficient in this respect. The almost daily appeals for prayer, coming from pastors thruout the church, bear testimony to the reputation which the Seminary has gained as a place of prayer. Former students are constantly testifying to the spiritual uplift received from the chapel services. So anyone expecting to enter a theological seminary can feel assured that Bonebrake will assist in meeting the spiritual needs as well as any outside force can.

Another very desirable feature, which only our Seminary offers is the contact with the center of United Brethrenism. Here one can feel the great heart throbs of the church as nowhere else. The great problems of the church and its latent possibilities can best be seen and felt by getting in touch with our leaders, the bishops and general officers. Three years' contact with these men will broaden a young man's visions and give him great advantage for larger service in God's Kingdom. The value of association with these broad minded and far sighted men cannot be fully understood from the lips of another but only thru personal experience.

A great deal more could be said on these three items as well as upon others but the space will not permit. It should be a source of deep concern that so few of our preachers take advantage of the splendid opportunities for equipment which our Seminary affords. It is hoped that Lebanon Valley men will appreciate what the church offers in the way of a theological training and will look forward to no other than Bonebrake Theological Seminary.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. held its weekly services in chapel on Sunday afternoon. "The Rainbow and the Pot of Gold" was subject of the talk by the leader, Miss Helen Hoover. The colors of the rainbow she represented by the different virtues, and the pot of gold as ambition, which can be reached by following the colors of the rainbow to the end.

DELEGATES TO LEXINGTON SPEAK AT Y. M. C. A.

The two men who represented L. V. C. at the National Convention of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, held in Lexington, Ky., December 28th to January 1st, were the speakers in the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon. Mr. Paul Shannon made the opening address and in a very graphic manner portrayed to his hearers, many incidents of the trip and the plan of the convention. Mr. Paul Hilbert threw out to his audience many pertinent sayings that he had gathered from the master addresses of the convention. The meeting was extremely interesting thruout and the speakers urged upon the students a hearty co-operation in preparing themselves to rid our country of this monstrous evil.

Next Sunday Coach Guyer will lead. His subject will be, "The Physical Director and His Relation to the Moral and Religious Life of the College and Community."

SOCIAL.

Miss Mildred Dunkle, who spent a few days at the college last week, returned to her home in Lucknow.

Miss Kathryn Harris was called to Harrisburg on account of the illness of her mother.

Miss Ruth Hughes has been confined to her room for the past few days on account of illness.

Miss Mary Bergdoll spent the week-end visiting Miss Mable Diehl.

Miss Nettie Showers has returned to Senior Hall, after being the guest of Miss Naomi Hand for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. John MacMorris and Mary Garman, of Harrisburg, visited Mrs. MacMorris' brother, Mr. Chas. Loomis, at the college last week.

Miss Ada Kellar, a former member of '18, attended the Star Course number on Saturday evening.

PHILO.

On account of the basketball game at 8:30 Friday evening Philo met at 6:15 instead of the usual time an hour later.

The first number on the program was a Resume by Warren Martz, in which Mr. Martz gave a clear and concise account of recent national and local events.

Mr. White followed with an extemporaneous address on "The Hope of Prohibition." According to his thoughts Prohibition is not very remote. Ideas which he supported with very logical arguments.

In the debate which followed in regard to the advisability of a Congressional embargo on foodstuffs, conditions relative to this subject and the war in general were discussed both as to how they were of interest to the United States and to foreign countries. The affirmative speakers were Jno. Kretzinger and Edgar Hastings. The negative, Edward Casteller and Harry Katerman. The negative side was given the decision by the judges.

After a short general discussion of the question debated Mr. Jacowick gave a piano solo, very much enjoyed by all.

The next number was on the latest scientific developments, by Mr. Berger. In this was shown some of the most recent wonders of modern science, some of them almost unbelievable, and the impetus the present war has given to such developments.

The final number was "Living Thots," by Editor Baker.

CLIO.

The subjects of last week's program which were of current interest awakened an enthusiasm heretofore not evidenced and showed what we can do when the program is well balanced and contains topics of present day importance. Miss Sebastian convinced us that a literary student is capable of feeling perfectly at home in the realm of music. We have all desired to see ourselves as "ithers see us" and Miss Weidler very vividly portrayed our faults and virtues in a very clever paper. A sweet imitation of bird song by Miss Barder made us feel that Spring would soon be with us again. Although two of the girls who were to have taken part in the debate were unable to do so, yet the ones who did debate, aroused much interest among those who are interested in science and language.

KALO.

The regular literary session on Friday evening, although held at an earlier hour than usual, was well attended. The first number on the program, an Essay by G. N. Keim, was well given. It was interesting throughout and was well worth the attention of everybody present.

Mr. Shiry, in his paper, "The Revolutionary Period of American History," gave a very interesting summary of this critical period in the history of the colonies.

The debate on the question "Resolved that the only way to secure National Prohibition is through an Amendment to the Federal Constitution" was very interesting. C. E. Shannon and A. H. Light on the affirmative side gave good argument. On the negative side, R. Burtner and C. Kleinfelter, put up a very good debate, in fact good enough to secure the judges' verdict in their favor.

After a chorus by the society, Mr. Beidel, Editor of the Examiner, presented a number of that famed periodical. As usual it was enjoyed.

The "Rooky" basketball league started its schedule Saturday afternoon when four teams clashed in the first round of games. Both games were fast and furious and afforded much amusement to the spectators. The "White Wings" were ingloriously defeated by the "Kids," 24 to 19, and the "Gummies" put down the "Rummies," 24 to 22.

The object of the league is to create an interest in basketball, to develop new material in the sport, and to get the gymnasium into more universal use, and it is admirably accomplishing its threefold object.

Varsity Splits Even on Southern Trip

The Varsity basketball five won their first game away from home on last Friday afternoon, when they defeated Mount St. Mary's basketball team 27 to 16.

The game was fast and interesting throughout, but our boys took the lead early in the contest and kept it until the end. The college quintet worked exceedingly well together, their floorwork and passing being the finest that they have shown in any game this season. Our guards Captain Loomis, Atticks, and Shetter were at their best and scored an aggregate of five field goals as against the three caged by the opposing forwards, which shows that these men did much more than simply "follow their men."

Keating returned to his real form and could not be stopped. This victory by the basketball team is a source of much gratification by the students, for they are sure that Lebanon Valley is being this winter represented by a capable and well-balanced quintet. Lineup:

St. Mary's	Lebanon Valley
Rodgers..... forward	Swartz
Hennessey..... forward	Keating
Burke..... center	Selzer
J. Royer..... guard	Atticks
Sheridan..... guard	Loomis

Goals—Keating 5, Rodgers 2, J. Royer 3, Swartz 2, Atticks 2, Shetter 2, Loomis, Hennessey, Burke, Selzer, Cashman. Foul Goals—Selzer. Subs—Cashman for Burke, Crilley for J. Royer, W. Royer for Hennessey, Shetter for Loomis. Referee—Derr, Mount St. Joseph's. Scorer—Mulhearn. Timers—Rice, Mount St. Mary's; Shetter and Loomis, Lebanon Valley. Time of periods—20 minutes.

The Varsity basketball team was defeated on the second and last game of their trip Saturday evening when they went down before the Washington & Lee quintet at Lexington, Virginia, 24 to 14.

As the score would indicate, the

Sudden Death of H. Clay Deaner

Lebanon Valley College lost one of its most loyal and faithful friends on Monday when Prof. Deaner, who after only a brief illness, died at his home on West Main street.

Prof. Deaner was born in Keedysville, Md., about 1853. He attended Lebanon Valley College and graduated in the Class of '79. On graduation he was given the Chair of Latin and served in this position until 1897. During this time he married Miss Ella Rigler, a native of Annville, and a co-ed of the college. In 1897 he became associated with the Annville National Bank, and was holding a position of responsibility and trust there at the time of his death.

Prof. Deaner's face was a familiar sight at all the various social functions, athletic contests and entertainments around school. He had the interests of the college and all its activity at heart. He knew most of the students as intimately as the Professors and gave many encouragement and aid thruout his long and active life.

Nothing could be said that would suffice as a tribute to his memory. We, as students cannot help but feel the loss of this generous and earnest supporter of Lebanon Valley College, and the "News" extends to his wife and relatives the most sincere feelings of sympathy in their bereavement.

Girls Win One and Lose One

The girls' Varsity basketball team added another victory Friday evening in the Alumni Gymnasium when they triumphed over the fast Harrisburg High School team, 17 to 12.

The game was close during the greater part of the time, and not until the closing minutes of play were we certain of victory. The opposing team is coached by "Ike" McCord, captain of the Harrisburg "Independents," one of the best basketball players in the state, and this victory over Harrisburg "Central" is a feat worthy of honorable mention.

The team as a whole played well, the work of Miss Bubb and Miss Rupp being especially noticeable for its effectiveness. Miss Rote, sister of Harry Rote, star quarterback for Gettysburg this fall, played a star game for the visitors, scoring ten of their twelve points. Line-up:

Lebanon Valley	Harrisburg H. S.
Bubb..... forward	Smith
Gamble..... forward	Rote
Engle..... center	Starry
Rupp..... guard	Richards
Williams..... guard	Maurer

Field Goals—Rote 3, Bubb 2, Rupp 2, Engle 1, Smith 1. Foul Goals—Engle, 7 out of 9; Rote, 4 out of 9. Substitutions—Lebanon Valley: Houser for Gamble. Referee—Jaeger. Scorer—Morrison.

Girls' Varsity five of the Hassett Gymnastic School Saturday won over the Lebanon Valley College girls, 12 to 6. Line-up:

Hassett	Lebanon
Burns..... forward	Bubb
Sweeney..... forward	Gambie
Devine..... center	Engle
Cashman..... guard	Rupp
McCarthy..... guard	Williams

Field Goals—Miss Sweeney, Miss Devine, Miss McCarthy. Foul Goals—Hassett, 6; Lebanon Valley, 6.

La Grippe paid a visit to the Conservatory and liked the place so well that some of the boys are still playing the part of host.

It is said that temptation comes to a man both from without and within him. It comes through things he sees as well as through things he hears. Furthermore, it comes through certain people who radiate evil as a stagnant pool radiates fever. Some men inspire us; others contaminate and defile us. But from within our own bosom, also come evil thoughts and desires. Some of the fiercest temptations, we carry about with us, for our fight consists not only of battling "flesh and blood" but against the spiritual forces of the world of darkness."

And this is also true: the bigger the man, the bigger his temptations. Some of us have the idea that a morally small man has great temptations, and that a morally great man has small temptations. What an error! When going into battle, the big man who feels the most fear—and overcomes it—is not apt to be the clod-hopper who has not enough imagination to conceive the horrors of war, but rather the man of refinement, to whom life is speaking with a thousand tongues, and every tongue is telling him how sweet a thing it is to be alive. But into that battle which that soul goes, the man who has the hardest fighting is the man who sees clearest and feels keenest. And the most sorely tempted of us all was he who in the wilderness, hungered—so great was the strain under which he labored that he lost all appetite for food—and who, in the Garden, sweat as it were drops of blood.

But why? Why are men tempted thus? Well it is quite conceivable that God could have created us in such wise as automatically to make us think what is right and do what is right. But had he done so we would not have been men; we would have been only smoothly-running machines. We would not have been persons—we would have been only puppets—obedient actors in a continuous Punch and Judy show. And all opportunity for moral choice and intelligent service, and personal heroism, and self-sacrifice, and self-development, would have been denied us.

There would undoubtedly have been more efficiency in the world than there is at present. The history of the last forty years has made it plain that the way to secure a machine-like efficiency is to entrust all your power to will freely to one man. If you want people to keep off the grass, if you want them to keep their back yards clean, put your directing power in the hands of one man; clothe him with absolute authority; make it a punishable offense even to call in question anything he does. You will have efficiency, then; but you will have paid an awful price. And some people think that the price is too great. There would have been vastly more efficiency, had God created us as mere puppets of men. There would never have been any "Dark Age." Poor old Gableo would never have been tortured and Lyman Abbott would not be called a heretic—never any blot called slavery. Which would have been nobler of God? To create a world of puppets without choice? Or to create a world of men who sometimes refuse to do his bidding; but who, when they did do it, would do it intelligently, and freely, and therefore nobly and gladly? Which were more noble in ourselves? To wish that we might escape temptation, and avoid all necessity of offering resistance, even though we should be deprived of the opportunity to achieve to manhood. Or to say, rather, "Let temptation come, I will fight it, let resistance be offered me, I will overcome it.

After all, is there not a joy, a kind of fierce, wild joy in this battle of the soul? One must be less than a man not to be tempted. And possibly he must be more than a man never to yield. And even as compared with an angel, who would not rather be a man, made in the image of God, exposed to temptation and liable to fall, but able with the help of God who made him, to fight a good fight and to win, in the end, a glorious victory?

Owing to a mishap in the printing office College News was not only delayed but neccitated the reduction in size for this week.

cellent idea of the strong religious principles and prejudices of the time, one of the sixteen characters portrayed being the Rev. Cotton Walker, historically famous as the greatest preacher of his time.

It is not to be supposed, however, that religious thoughts occupied entirely the minds of these Puritans. There is woven into the plot several strong "human interest" stories that greatly add to its strength and which will insure your attention from start to finish.

All of the characters are to wear costumes characteristic of the time, great care being taken to make these costumes very representative.

It is guaranteed that the two hours spent here will be of much more value than if they were spent in a final orgy of cramming for the next day's exams. Remember, Monday at 8 P. M. in Engle Hall. The chart for reserved seats is now at the College Book Store.

KALUZETEAN

Kalo was honored last Friday evening by the visit of a large delegation of the ladies, who were present to listen to the annual musical program of the Society. There was much interest taken in this event and the result was a program of more than ordinary merit.

The program opened with a piano solo by G. M. Greer. It was very well rendered and was greatly appreciated. The second number, a vocal solo by Miles Morrison brought forth much applause. What appeared on the program as a Symphony Trio proved to be an Ocarino Trio. The artists, Messrs. Long, Greer and Ramsey were at their best and gave various selections.

The Quartette composed of H. Ramsey, H. Guyer, L. Walters and P. Hilbert gave an appropriate selection. Then came the sketch! Yes, it was a true-to-life scene in Garber's and Ressler's room in the Dorm. The others, Isaacs and Kleinfelter were also at home in their roles.

P. E. Hilbert was heard in a bass solo, and as usual was given favorable comment. Mr. Beidel in the Examiner, gave a short discourse on Music, and its results. The closing number of the program was a chorus of twelve voices.

PHILOKOSMIAN.

The opening number on the program Friday night was a paper by Mr. Deibler on "Recent Political Developments." This paper was up to the minute and commanded the attention of everyone present.

The reading "Hashimoru Togo" and the "Price of Gasoline" given by Mr. McConel was unusually humorous and interesting, showing what a foreigner thinks of our high prices in this country.

The debate this week was particularly good, the subject debated being that of National Prohibition. The affirmative speakers were Geo. A. Dehuff and C. L. Mackert, and the negative, who were given the decision, were Rufus Lefever and Ralph L. Sloat.

The debate was followed by a very pleasing quartette, made up of D.

T. Gregory, E. D. Williams, W. E. Deibler and J. Zeigler.

Mr. Hess' "Monolog" was as he said "without a name" but that does not mean it lacked interest.

"France in the European War" was Mr. Risser's subject for a paper. He gave a clear outline of the position of that country in the present great struggles in Europe.

The last number on the program was one which considered a subject of great importance to college students. It was a paper on "College Bills." Mr. McLaughlin showed a full and complete knowledge of his subject.

Henry Lawrence Southwick, the distinguished Classic Teacher, Orator and Artist, who is at the present time President of Emerson College of Oratory will be with us, Saturday, Feb. 10. All the old students will remember the special privilege, we had two years ago, in hearing Professor Southwick give his interpretation of "Julius Caesar." For the sake of those who have never heard Mr. Southwick read, let us assure you that it is a treat that you can not well afford to miss.

The three Literary Societies have combined their efforts to secure this entertainment for you. In view of the fact that so many demands of this kind will be made around this time on the financial resources of the student and in order to make it possible for all to attend, it was decided to make the price of admission as low as possible.

VARSITY SPLITS EVEN ON SOUTHERN TRIP

contest was by no means one sided, and as a matter of fact our team scored more field goals during the evening than has been registered against Washington & Lee in any game for three years. The southerners were much pleased with the game, and Lebanon Valley hopes that this basketball game has been the "Alpha" of a pleasant college athletic relationship which will extend to both football and baseball in the future.

The boys enjoyed the trip in every way, and are back prepared to meet Juniata and—MID-YEARS.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting on Sunday afternoon under the leadership of Mr. Edwin Zeigler was a very helpful one. After a spirited song service, Coach R. J. Guyer gave a very instructive and interesting talk on "Athletics, and their Relation to Life." The speaker showed how some of the evils of athletics as they exist in some colleges. He also pointed out how athletics may be used to uplift the men morally by getting into close touch with them. The address was very helpful to all present.

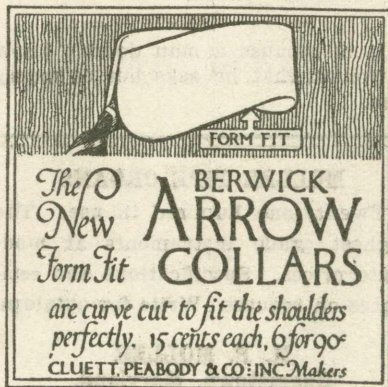

Next Sunday "Charlie" Kelchner, well-known to us thru his position as Athletic Director at Albright, will bring to us the message. His topic will be, "The Game of Life." Mr. Kelchner speaks from a wide experience in collegiate circles and no one can help but receive something worth while by coming to this meeting.

MUSICAL NOTES.

Mr. Jessie Ziegler, '19, was soloist in First Reformed Church, Lebanon, Sunday, Jan. 21, 1917.

A musical treat is in store for music lovers, Tues Feb. 6, 1917, when the New Symphony Orchestra, Damrosch conductor, and Paul Althouse, will be in the Chestnut Street Auditorium, Harrisburg, Penna.

The building of the new three-manual pipe organ in the college chapel is progressing satisfactorily, the heavy, constructive work being practically completed.

Happiness is a normal and natural condition and something is radically wrong with every life where it doesn't play at least a predominating part. Such a life fails also in performing its duty towards its neighbor as it should perform it.

There is no contagion equal to the contagion of life. Whatever we sow, that shall we also reap, and each thing sown produces of its kind.

And in a sense love is everything. It is the key to life, and its influences are those that move the world. Live only in the thought of love for all and you will draw love to you from all. Live in the thought of malice or hatred, and malice and hatred will come back to you.

A part of what we might term the optimist's philosophy is—If you can mend a situation mend it; if you can't mend it, forget it. Is it a good philosophy or is it foolishness?

Happy and strong and conquering always to the end is he who knows the grasp of the Unseen Hand. He it is who all along on God's highway has the equipment for the winning of the best.

Hope and courage and sympathy and trust are great producers, and they are great factors in a man's doing his duty, as well as his having the joy of achievement.

Among the most thoroughly self-deluded people in the world are those who think that in the multiplication of things and possessions happiness or contentment lies.

Each is building his own world. We both build from within and we attract from without. Thought is the force with which we build, for thoughts are forces. Like builds like and like attracts like.

FRESHMEN DEFEAT ANNVILLE ALL-STARS

The Freshies got together a team on Friday evening and succeeded in defeating the Annville Allstars 38 to 23. The Freshmen team, by superior teamwork and excellent passing and shooting, took the lead early in the contest and did not stop their aggressive playing until late in the second half when the game was secure. Barnhart proved himself the individual "shooting-star" caging a total of eight field goals. "Bill" Zeigler helped materially in running up a large score by getting twelve out of seventeen tries for goal from the foul line. Herr played the most consistent all-around game for the Allstars. Line-up:

Freshmen	Annville Allstars
Barnhart.... forward	Herr
Zeigler..... forward	Fink
Baines..... center	Witmyer
Bachman..... guard	Berry
Schwalm..... guard	Schmuck

Field Goals—Barnhart 8, Herr 5, Baine; 3, Fink 3, Zeigler 2, Berry 2. Foul Goals—Zeigler, 12 out of 17; Herr, 3 out of 9. Referee—Jaeger. Scorer—Morrison.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. is always pleased to have the day students take part in its religious services. Miss Elizabeth Gallatin acted as leader on Sunday and had for the subject of her talk "Be Square." "Are we square with ourselves, and with our neighbors?" is a question all of us can think about.

The Y. W. C. A. wishes to announce its annual business meeting immediately after the Clionian Literary Society on Friday evening, January 26th. All the girls are cordially invited to attend the meeting and spend a social hour as guests of the association.

"Charlie" Kelchner Leads Y. M. C. A.

An exceptionally large number were present on Sunday to hear "Charlie" Kelchner, Albright's coach and athletic director, deliver his inspiring address on "The Game of Life." Mr. Kelchner is one of the best authorities in this section of the country on the game of baseball and in his talk he likened one's life history to a player's experience a game of baseball.

He began his remarks by saying that the great game began in the garden of Eden. Two teams were represented in the contest, one captained by God; the other by the devil. Just as surely as we are living we are participants in this game, either on one side or the other. The choice of teams is left to the individual.

Our attention was first called to the score board on which the score of the game is recorded in each inning. He expressed his belief that just as we rejoiced when our college ball team scored, so the angels in Heaven rejoiced when the team of righteousness scored.

Next came the errors which are frequent in the game of life as well as in the game of ball. Also the put-outs, hits and sacrifice hits were made analogous to incidents in life's game. In his discussion of the errors and put-outs, he possibly struck the key-note of his address. He has found in his experience that when a man makes an error, the thing to do is to give encouragement and not censure and ridicule as we are often so ready to do in this great game. In reference to put-outs, they are made only through assists. If we are really in this game to win we must assist our associates when they attempt to put out from their lives some existing evils.

He cautioned us not to forget the practise and training necessary to produce a winning team. We must keep ourselves in the best of condition. We must continually keep in practise by attending all forms of religious meetings and by allying ourselves with such organizations which are promoting spiritual uplift.

The following is a note received by Prof. C. H. Arndt:
Dear Charles:

This is to inform you that a little daughter arrived at our home on Friday, January 12th, at 9.40 A. M. Wife and little girl are well and improving all the time.

With best wishes, I am,
Sincerely,

F. R. KENNEDY, '12.

Varsity Loses to Juniata; Wins From Hasset

The Juniata College basketball five outclassed our Varsity in the Alumni Gymnasium last Tuesday evening when they left with a 44 to 25 victory.

The contest was close, interesting, and fast during the first half, but in the latter part of the game the visiting team, by a great rally, forged ahead and won with a comfortable margin of points. The pace seemed to be a little too fast for our quintet, and the loss of the game may be attributed more to lack of "wind," than to inferior ability, altho it must be said in justice to the Juniata team that they are a fast, perfectly balanced five.

Oiler played a fine game registered six difficult goals from the floor, and these men were ably helped by their team-mates.

Our five had a chance for victory until well in the second half, and the substitutes who were put in the game at the end held their own in scoring. Line-up:

Juniata	Lebanon Valley.

PRESIDENT SOUTHWICK

Final managements have been made for the appearance of President Southwick, in the Engle Conservatory, Saturday night, Feb. 10, when he will deliver a lecture—reading on Shakespeare's "Hamlet." This entertainment will be somewhat different from the one, given a couple years ago, in which he read for us "Julius Caesar."

The three Literary Societies have united their efforts in securing Mr. Southwick. For this reason the price of admission is far lower than has ever been paid to hear President Southwick. You can hardly afford to miss it.

Tickets will be for sale by representatives of the societies, and also at the College Book Store, for twenty-five cents. Reserve seats ten cents extra. Chart opens at D. B. Baseshores, Thursday, Feb. 7.

Juniors Class Presents "Anne, of Old Salem"

The Junior Play is now history! But it is history to be proud of:—something that will always linger in the minds of the Class of 1918. A Junior Play is always a matter of great interest, and this one was no exception, for it leaked out before hand, that this play would be "something different," and because of this, the interest was increased.

It was a large audience which gathered on Monday evening to see what the class of 1918 could do in the line of dramatics, and the audience was not disappointed, for, they were held spell-bound, not only by their interest in the development of the plot, but mostly by the artistic work of the actors.

The play "Anne of Old Salem" written by Clara Batchelder, was in three acts. The scene was Salem, Mass., and the time 1692, the year in which witch-craft trials were most numerous. The plot hinged around the supposed witchery of Anne Elinwell, who was supposed to have cast a charm on the young men, particularly Roger Hardman, and who had given charms to several young girls. The appearance of a Quaker adds complications, which are not cleared up until the last moments of the play. Several of the scenes were especially pleasing.

The cast selected by Miss May Belle Adams, who directed the play was an able one. Each one of the parts was very well played, indeed the acting of the entire play was so good as to call forth favorable comments.

PROFESSOR HENRY CLAY DEANER.

A Tribute.

(Herodotus tells of a custom among the Ethiopians to set the dead bodies of their friends in glazed sepulchres that their proportions might be obvious to the passersby. Howsoever needless that custom was, it is doubtless a most fitting and helpful thing to observe and consider the life of a good and upright man with a view to imitating the graces and virtues he exemplified. The deeds and virtues of a good life are jewels not to be locked up in a cabinet, but to be set forth to view. If Christ would have Mary's name remembered in the Gospel, until the end of time, for the one beautiful deed of pouring the ointment upon his head, we can not imagine that he would have the many pious and noble deeds of his faithful servants buried in oblivion. Indeed we could not bury them if we would. As long as time lasts it will go on distilling sweet fragrance on other lives.)

We have been called together by the sudden and unexpected ending of a beautiful and useful life. Now that it has ended new features of its vigorous usefulness are disclosed to us. When Dr. Chalmers died Dr. Guthrie said: "Men of his calibre are like mighty forest trees; we do not know their size until they are cut down. You can never take the full and correct measure of a man until he is gone. Thus the personal dimensions of our departed brother seem vastly increased now that he has been cut down. I have often observed that much as we admire and appreciate the good and noble and magnanimous qualities of our friends while living somehow we become familiarized with them, and they cease to impress us. Alas! when they are gone we best take their measure. Now that Professor Deaneer has vacated his place in the home to which he was so affectionately devoted, and in the church he loved, in the business institution to which he gave himself in such full measure of fidelity, and in the college and community the welfare of which he had so much at heart—the vacancy itself seems to bring his full and complete character into more definite and distinct view.

"Mark the perfect man and behold the upright." Contemplating the life of the departed what are some of the outstanding suggestions and lessons that we may gather for our profit here today.

This first: His simple and implicit faith in God and in the Lord Jesus Christ. Early in his life he was united to Christ by a living faith; and since then had Christ and His Word abiding in him. Those who stood nearest to him learned from his conversation, and prayers, and from his wife how his life was "hid with Christ in God." In the harassing conflicts of difficult and heavy duties, amid the sufferings of bodily pain and at the bier of his departed ones; the personal present supporting Christ was the only solace and sure hope of his troubled heart. In the realm of perfect consummation and bliss he still is what he has been, and such will forever remain—the trustful believing child of God.

His love of truth especially the truth of Divine Revelation is another lesson from his great life. Professor Deaneer was familiar with God's two great books—nature and revelation. He loved truth wherever he found it. Diligently he sought after the truth expressed in star and planet, in flower and tree and rock; but he was most diligent in his search of the highest form of all truth—that expressed in Divine revelation. No one could come in contact with him without being impressed with this fact. And he not only loved the Word and sought to discover the truth it contained; but as one who knew him intimately for many years has said, "He was the very embodiment of the truth." He translated truth into life and this made his life so beautiful, so complete and potent.

Then, his devotion to his life work, and the consecration of all his powers to the service of God and the uplift of his fellow-beings impresses us. Prof. Deaneer was a gifted man. His magnificent powers he employed in the service of God and for the good of his fellow-men. His loving trustful heart, his forceful and magnetic mind, his manly courage to think, speak and do that which was right and true, can never die. A life like this lives itself into other lives which it teaches and trains. In and through them, and through thousands of others influenced in like manner by them he lives immortally forever. A life like his, consecrated to noble ends and proposes has a dual immortality. It blessed results live on in other lives, its brain keeps on throbbing through other brains, its loving heart loves on through other hearts. "Others" was the motto of his life, and the serving rule of it. He was always helping some one. We can not bury such a life; only the body in which for a season it tenanted.

Our hearts are sad today as we think of his passing into the beyond. We are all mourners. Yet, we are thankful mourners; thankful for his Christian example and influence, for the privilege of coming in touch with him and for his peaceful end. Two facts bring sweet comfort: "He being dead yet speaketh" and we shall meet again in the resurrection morning.

Rev. S. F. Daughter

RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY

Whereas, it has pleased God in His infinite wisdom to call from this earth our benefactor and former member, H. Clay Deaneer, we, the Philokosmian Literary Society, set forth the following resolutions:

Be it resolved, That we express our deepest sympathy to the family of our benefactor in this time of bereavement;

Furthermore, be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be placed on the minutes of the Philokosmian Literary Society, a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, and a copy be published in the "College News."

Y. M. C. A. MEN DO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK

The Lebanon County Sunday School Association has recently adopted a novel means of presenting new ideas in Sunday School Work to the various schools in the county. Students of Albright and Lebanon Valley Colleges have been instructed by State workers in the advanced Sunday School methods and principles during the past weeks. These workers are now being sent out in groups of two to the various schools in the county. Last Sunday twelve boys from our college visited six of the schools of the county and during the next three weeks regular excursions will be made by these men each Sunday. The purpose of these meetings is the presentation of new ideas and methods of Sunday School work; and also boosting the Annual County Convention, which will be held in the College Church on February 22 and 23.

ment from all present. Miss Williams, as Goodwife Ellinwell, did very fine work, as did Miss Case as Anne, and Miss Lorenz as Phyllis. Paul Shannon, as Roger Hardman played his part well as did T. Goulden Foltz as Ezekial Brown, a man in love with all the ladies and ever ready for new conquests. The other parts were very ably played, indeed it is difficult to pick out any one part which did not equal the best.

Contrary to any other Junior Play, the play was in costume, the costumes representing the style and manner of dress of that period in which the action took place.

Too much credit cannot be given to Miss Adams, for her part in makshowed the results of perfect coaching on the part of the director.

The music by the Philokosmian

VARSITY LOSES TO JUNIATA.

The Varsity basketball team journeyed to Harrisburg on Thursday evening and took the measure of the Hasset Club five 29 to 27.

The Hasset Club put an exceedingly fast team on the floor, and it was only after forty minutes of exciting play, during which time the score was tied on four occasions, that we came off victors. "Pat" Reagen, former captain and football star at Villanova played on the opposing team, but his presence could not defeat us. "Bill" Swartz had one of his "large" evenings and caged six goals from field. Several times he succeeded in scoring when it seemed that he was completely "covered."
 The team as a whole played a fast floor game, and could not be robbed of their victory. Line-up:

MATH ROUND TABLE.

Last Wednesday evening, the Math. Round Table had its monthly meeting in Prof. Lehman's. The main number of the evening was "Simms's Holes," by Prof. H. H. Shenk. The theory as it then existed, explained in light of our present knowledge is a most ludicrous one. In main Simms regarded the earth as a cylinder with an opening at the North and South pole, and that if one would go there he could enter the inside which is also inhabited. Our northern lights are no more than the reflection of the electric lights on the inside, etc. After the program the following officers were elected: President, Evan C. Brunner; vice-president, William Martin; secretary, Ella Mutch.

The next meeting will be held on February 28 to which all "lovers of the exact science" are invited.

Y. W. C. A

A very interesting as well instructive meeting was held on Sunday. "The Cry of the Children," the topic for the day was dealt with in a pleasing and helpful manner by the leader, Miss Hilda Colt. A very appropriate song was rendered by Miss Miriam Oyer, "Suffer the Little Children to Come unto Me." A story of a little girl's happiness was clearly shown in a reading of "Was it Chance or Was it God?" by Miss Dorothy Lorenz. The cry of the children was made very impressive by a part of Mrs. Wiggs in the Cabbage Patch, read by Miss Ada Beidler. Showing the poverty of the people in the slums, and how a Christian lady brought cheer and happiness to those who were in need.

Girls' Team Loses to Harrisburg High

Harrisburg High School took revenge upon our girls last Friday evening on their own floor when they defeated our Varsity girls 24 to 7.

It seems that our team could not get used to the large floor, for they never had a chance to win. Captain "Mark" Engle played her usual fine game, scoring all of Lebanon Valley's seven points, but there was no hope of stopping or overtaking the Central girls.

The teams have each won one game and a third would be interesting. Line-up:

Harrisburg H. S. Lebanon Valley
H. Rote . . . . . forward . . . . . H. Bubb
H. Smith . . . . . forward . . . . . M. Gamble
R. Starry . . . . . Center . . . . . M. Engle
R. Richards . . . . . guard . . . . . E. Rupp
B. Maurer . . . . . guard . . . . . L. Williams

Field goals: Rote 7, Smith, 2; B. Maurer, Engle, 2. Foul goals: Rote, 4 out of 9. Engle 3 out of 6. Substitutions, Lebanon Valley, Houser for Gamble. Referee, Ford.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER SECRETARY ADDRESSES CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS.

Those students not in attendance at the joint meeting of the Christian Associations last Sunday afternoon missed a rare treat. Mr. E. M. Poteat, Jr., traveling secretary of The Student Volunteer Movement, brot to us a message that will long be remembered.

The theme of the address was that of the wonderful age in which we are living and the opportunity that the American student has to put his or her life where it will count for so much in shaping the future destinies of many great countries such as India, China and Japan. Modern inventions have made the world a huge neighborhood. There has been a wonderful shrinkage of the world; commercially, educationally and religiously. The present age is the only period during the Christian era that it has become physically possible of going "into all the world preaching the gospel to every living creature." The next thirty years will surpass all other periods, either past or future, in importance. The nations of the East are shaping themselves today and it's up to America to use its influence in helping them to shape themselves according to Christian principles and ideals. All Christian nations are now at war and thus upon America rests the responsibility of evangelizing the world. If it is to be done, America must do it. The fields are white unto the harvest. Work done in the mission fields will exceed in actual accomplishment by 30, 60 and 100 times what the same amount of work will accomplish in the home land.

Varsity Wins One Game and Loses Two on Western Trip

The Varsity basketball team lost the first game on their trip last week to St. Francis College, Loretta 24 to 21 in an exciting game.

The game see-sawed from start to finish, and it was not until the last minute that the score was decided in favor of our opponents. It is not the policy of Lebanon Valley to come forth with an alibi when an athletic team sustains a defeat, but in justice to our team it seems that in this particular game we were not given a fair chance to come off victors. One of St. Francis's own students refereed the contest, and whether or not his refereeing was up to standard, and we have every reason to believe it was not, this is certainly a policy which no college should pursue. However, we were outpointed and the game was lost. "Bill" Swartz played a particularly fine game, caging all of our field goals. Line-up:

St. Francis Lebanon Valley
Leonard . . . . . forward . . . . . Swartz
Dugan . . . . . forward . . . . . Dupes
Denny . . . . . center . . . . . Seltzer
Mayok . . . . . guard . . . . . Loomis
McCreesh . . . . . guard . . . . . Shetter

Field goals: Swartz 6, Leonard, 4; Dugan, 2; Mayok, McCreesh. Foul goals: Dupes, 3 out of 7. Seltzer 6 out of 14. Dugan 4 out of 12. McCreesh 4 out of 14. Substitutions Lebanon Valley. Atticks for Loomis. Referee, Hackett.

In a game which was never in doubt, Juniata College defeated Lebanon Valley 47 to 23, at Huntington.

The game was fast, but too one-sided to be very interesting to the spectators. Juniata has one of the best basket ball fives in in history of the college, and they lived up to the reputation which

Men's Glee Club Opens Season at Jonestown

Last Saturday evening the Men's Glee Club of the College gave the opening concert of the season at Jonestown. The concert was rendered under the auspices of the High School, of which Ray Light, of the class 1916 is principal. For severelyrs the club has opened their season in this town, so the boys realized that they must equal the work done by clubs of former years.

The club was somewhat hindered by the small size of the stage, but this did not interfere with the quality of the work done. The programme was given with a vim and enthusiasm which carried the audience with the boys during the entire program. The audience seemed to be well pleased with the concert, for many expressions of appreciation were heard afterwards.

The concert season this year promises to be one of the best, if not the best of any season the club has ever had. The sterling work done by the clubs of other years, and especially the great success of the club last year places it on an equal basis with any college Glee Club in Pennsylvania. The different towns realize this and also know that the best way to stir up enthusiasm for the school is to have representatives of the school stir up the nethusiasm, so that they bring the club to these towns, not only for this reason but to give the people an entertainment which is worth while. The business manager of the club, Mr. Keim has 17 towns on the schedule this year, which is several more than

"THE TUNEFUL AMERICAN."

The following, taken from an article, written by Albert Spalding, an American violinist, says:

"The love of music in America today is as strong as anywhere else in the world, and our music-loving people are prepared to make greater sacrifices for it than any other people, possibly excepting Russia.

The existence of a very great number of musical societies and clubs thru-out our country and their support by the cultured and discriminating class, the immense number of pianos sold and used, the large sale of classical music, even in the smallest towns, the increasing importance given to the study of music in the state institutions, and, in the matter of phonograph, the perfectly

In the fact that there is a not very remote possibility of our country being plunged into an active participation in the great war in Europe there is ample food for the thoughts of every college man.

It should cause each one to consider carefully his possible fitness or unfitness to engage in such a struggle, because in the event of war, the college man should be among the first to offer his services in defense of his country.

However, the average student in the American college would be of little value in a hurry up call for volunteers.

The Student life makes those living it particularly liable to the habit of insufficient exercise and the result is, that there is a remarkable number of weak chests, drooping shoulders and ungainly carriages in every student body. When such are exposed to the hardships of a soldier's life and become at once immersed in the labyrinth of the numerous commands they will inevitably break down under the severe mental and physical strain.

Recluding the possibility of active warfare it can be readily seen that such men as those described above will be hampered in any of the ordinary walks of life they may adopt. No man who is physically deranged is able to do justice to himself or his work.

There is however, a remedy, simple and sure, that will work wonders in repairing the defects prevalent among a student body and at the same time will greatly enhance the value of each man taking it should be called upon to fight for his country. This is military training for colleges. If the precedent of the larger schools is a safe guide, we should adopt it at once at L. V.

To be sure, to secure military training might cause an outlay of some little time and money but if it were possible to show before and after taking pictures there would be no doubt but that the investment of time and money would pay unbounded dividends.

This question of military training is one we have to meet and decide pro or con. Each student should consider the matter carefully and when he is given the opportunity to give his decision he should remember that he owes a duty, not to himself alone but to the country from which he receives protection to be as physically fit as possible.

The Tuneful Americans

amazing number of superior popular and classical records sold in this country as compared with the number sold in Europe, all attest the interesting growth of music here.

In fact, musical culture permeates the whole country. Bach, Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms and Wagner are reeled off the tongue as familiarly as baseball or movies. And the not remarkable, but little suspected, fact is that most of these people are Americans generations deep. Just go to the metropolitan any "great" night and you'll find that ninety per cent. of the people who've paid the price of admission at a considerable sacrifice and are suffering the inconvenience of standing up are Americans to the core. The people in the boxes and the stalls are, as a rule, not only well up but WAY up in music.

In speaking of the American people as unmusical, or at least as undeveloped musically the superficial observer usually bases his opinion on the taste of audiences that consist very largely of foreigners. The emigration to this country of the poor classes of European introduces perhaps a genuine love of music, but is far from representing the musical taste and culture of any of the nations from which they come. American taste is represented in the cultured audiences one meets with in that most Yankee city, Boston, Chicago, at the symphonic concerts in New York, and the gathering at the Kneisel and Flonzaley quartet concerts. We must judge the chain either by its strong links, or by its weak links. If by the strong ones, then take the really American audience. If by the weak ones, then you must admit that the weakness is furnished by the emigrant.

American audiences are more reserved than European. They prefer to "enull" before they "bite." On the other hand, they show a perfunctory politeness even to "bad stuff." I have heard it remarked that nothing is bad enough not to get applause in New York. But if at times slow to respond, response when it does come has all the genuine flavor of a good American hand-grip. The voice of the people always speaks for the best.

KALOZETEAN.

—O—

The regular literary session of Kalo on last Friday night was very interesting throughout, for the programme was thoroughly and well prepared. "A League to Enforce Peace" was the subject of a paper read by Chas. C. Hartman. The writer gave some very idealistic theories which would be supposed to bring about world peace.

The second number was an historical paper by Ralph Mease. In "The Infant Republic," Mr. Mease gave a detailed account of the development of our own country. The paper was very interesting throughout and showed much research.

The cornet solos by Mr. Ramsey were very well delivered and much enjoyed by all present. In an extempore, C. Kleinfelter gave quite an account of "The Recent Social Tendencies of L. V. C." The speaker proved that he is able to speak without any preparation, for his address was an entire surprise to him.

After a chorus by the Society, The Editor of the Examiner read a very pleasing edition of this most excellent periodical.

PHILO.

The first number on Philos program Friday night was a paper intitled "Don't Worry" coming just at the close of examination week this paper was specially opportune.

Mr. Haverstock's reading. "The Colonels Busy Day" was very humorous and as he rendered it was particularly enjoyable. One could learn from it how easy it is to be misunderstood.

The Debate. Resolved that the U. S. should continue to make loans to belligerent nations" was decided in favor of the negative by the judges. The speakers on this side were Clyde DeHoff and John Herring. The affirmative speakers, Harry Katerman and Mark Wingerd.

Mr. Ziegler followed the debate with a vocal solo much enjoyed by the society.

As a subject for an extemporaneous speech Mr. Ray Wingerd was given "Where did Robison Crusoe go with Friday on Saturday night?" The Society was very glad for the enlightenment Mr. Wingerd gave on this most important questions.

As familiar with the devastating effects of war. Mr. Baker spoke extemporaneously on "When War Comes to America." He showed that while every citizen should feel obligated to respond to a national call, war in itself is a terrible tragedy, one that should be not rushed in to blindly.

While returning from Jonestown, where they had given a concert last Saturday night, the members of the Glee Club had an experience which none of them wish repeated. The auto truck in which the trip was made was traveling up a steep hill at the top of which was a sharp curve. As the truck reached this curve, the driver was also compelled to change gear. He failed to change in time, and the engine stopped. Immediately the truck began to back down the hill and because of the drivers inability to see where to steer, when about halfway down the hill the truck ran aside of the road into a ditch several feet deep nearly causing the truck to upset and throwing Haines and Ehrhart out of the machine. The boys all worked with a will to get the truck on the road again, but it took over an hour to accomplish it. During this time Long played the part of a hero by leading a very much frightened horse past the glare of the lights of the machine. All the fellows say "Never again."

they have been making all year in the game last Friday evening. The Varsity basketball five won the last game of the trip when they de-quintet Saturday evening 29 to 27.

As the score indicates, the game was one of the closest played by our team this year, and it was in the last minute of play that Shetter, playing forward, caged the goal for the basket that decided the game in favor of Lebanon Valley.

With the game being played on the Susquehanna floor the teams were about evenly matched, and altho we were outpointed in the first half 18 to 15, we came back with a rush and soon overcame the slight lead. "Bill" Swartz was again our best man in shooting field goals, with six to his credit. An analysis of the game shows that much credit for the victory belongs to "Jim" Seltzer for with the field goals equal, and with one less opportunity at shooting foul goals, by getting seven out of eight he gave us the margin of two points. ## Varsity Loses Two Games

The Varsity basketball team left last Friday on another trip, playing their first game with Bucknell at Lewisburg. This game, partly through an unfortunate incident, resulted in a 60 to 31 defeat for our five.

During one of the halves the timekeeper made himself conspicuous by his prolonged absence, and as a result this half lasted exactly thirty-nine minutes instead of twenty the regulation period.

The Bucknell floor is much larger than ours, and this fact, together with the added length of the half, was too great a strain upon the lasting powers of our men. The Bucknell management rushed fresh men into the contest towards the end, and the combined circumstances made it comparatively easy for them to run up a high score within a few minutes of the close of the game. Our team played well, and had not the unfortunate incident occurred, they would have stood at least a fair chance of victory. Such an occurrence is certainly out of place in college athletics, and it is hoped that no visiting team shall ever be treated, through accident or design, in such a manner at Lebanon Valley. Line-up:

Lebanon Valley	Bucknell
Keating ....forward.....	Murry
Swartz ....forward.....	Modell
Seltzer ....centre.....	Musser
Loomis ....guard.....	Boyles
Attick ....guard.....	Sipley.

Field goals. Kenting 5; Swartz 3; Seltzer, Loomis, Atticks, Murry, 8; Modell, 10; Musser, 3; Boyles, 3; Gearhart, Foul goals Seltzer 5 out of 11; Boyles 10 out of 20. Substitutes—Bucknell, Gunzet for Murry, Silvestein for Musser, Gearhart for Sipley. Time of halves 39 and 20 minutes.

The second game on the basketball trip was lost to State College, Saturday 42 to 22. State put a fine quintet on the floor, and playing on a strange court was too much for the Varsity. The contest started inwhirrwind fashion and at the end of the first half we were at the small end of a 19 to 6 score. The second half was a replica of the first, and aside from three spectacular long shots by "Bob" Atticks, the game was featureless and uninterested for the onlookers.

The floor at State College is exceptionally large, and due to the fact that our basketball cage is exception

Pres. Southwick Gives Pleasing Lecture-Reading

The Franklin County Club has reorganized, and elected the following officers for the coming term: Pres., Wilbert Peck; Vice Pres., Eldridge Stumbaugh; Recording Secretary, Carrie Miller; Corresponding Secretary, Helen Hoover; Treasurer, Mark Wingerd.

On Saturday evening Dr. Southwick, President of the Emerson College of Oratory, gave a lecture-reading to an appreciative audience, at Engle conservatory. Dr. Southwick chose as his subject one of the most widely read of Shakespeare's plays—Hamlet. He has now presented to us three of Shakespeare's four great tragedies, as he gave Othello and King Lear several years ago.

In his lecture, besides his own analysis of the character, he gave various opinions from critics, scholars, and men of all professions, concerning the character, strength, and purpose of Hamlet. Since, as he told us, more has been written about Hamlet than about any other character in fiction or history except Christ, his lecture gave us the benefits of wide reading and study of the play. While all enjoyed the lecture, some would have liked to hear more of the play read, since his presentation of the characters and scene was so artistic and unusual. His delineation of Hamlet, Claudius, Horatio and Polonius was clear and vivid. The characters seemed to live before our eyes. But quite as wonderful as his interpretation and lecture was his personality which charmed us and held us from the first. To the students who met him personally, he showed again how perfect was his knowledge of, and sympathy with human nature. He has an education such as comes only from a broad study of life.

Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Hynson of the 4th St. Presbyterian Church of Lebanon delivered a most helpful address to the men of the college last Sunday afternoon. The subject of the discourse was that of sin, using as a basis of his remarks the 130th psalm. Sin is a reality and by God only can it be taken away. Novelists of the past have tried to do away with it by the dissolving of a certain fibre of the brain containing the memory of the sin or by taking a sleeping draught and on awakening the memory of the sin remains no more. But Hawthorne in his "The Scarlet Letter", depicts the true process of getting rid of sin—that of confession and restitu-

Girls Win Two Games

The Girls' Varsity basketball team won their first game on last week's trip easy fashion, 20 to 9, from Chambersburg.

Despite the fact that our team won by a comfortable margin, the game was hard fought and exciting from start to finish. The girls played well together, but our usual point getters, Helen Bubb and Mark Engle only caged one field goal between them. Miss Houser started her first game at guard, and out-pointed her opponents.

The team has steadily improved and in this game they showed some of there real strength. Line-up:

Chambersburg	Lebanon Valley
Rhodes .....forward.....	Bubb
Eyster .....forward.....	Gamble
Fields .....centre.....	Engle
Burgner .....guard.....	Williams
Beattie .....guard.....	Houser

Field Goals. Gamble2, Houser2, Fields 2, Engle, Williams, Rhodes. Foul Goals. Lebanon Valley; Engle 8 out of 12. Chambersburg. 3 out of 9. Referee, Jones.

The girls won the second game of their trip in a more decisive manner than the first, when they triumphed over Penn Hall 28 to 16, at Chambersburg.

In this game, with the exception of a field goal by Miss Gamble, Helen Bubb and Mark Engle scored all of our points. Mark proved especially proficient in caging field goals having eight to her credit at the close of the contest. Due to the sickness of Miss Rupp, Evelyn Snavelly was taken on the trip as the "extra man."

Reserves Defeat Manheim

The Lebanon Valley Reserves won an exciting game from Manheim A. C. in Alumni Gymnasium Friday evening, 35 to 25.

During the first part of game the score was always close, but at the end of the first half our boys had a comfortable lead and the game looked easily theirs. However, Manheim came back with a determination to win in the second half, and they did give the home team a scare, but just before the game closed the Reserves "found themselves", and soon put themselves out of danger. Manheim and they proved themselves worthy opponents to our fast Reserves. presented a strong, light, fast team

Man struggles upward from darkness and ignorance to the light of eternal truth. He has often lost his bearings, has often fallen in the race, at times he has failed to understand the laws of his moral nature. He has frequently placed high values upon things which retarded his progress. But still he has struggled upwards, untiringly, undaunted by obstacles, with firm purpose, with unflinching courage, and a compelling force within, which he himself cannot explain. And not only can he not explain it, he cannot compel it to function other than it does. True, he may, for a time, be in doubt or error, but ultimately the truth will dawn upon him with irresistible clearness. He may even then, for a time, resist planting his feet firmly upon the soil of his lower nature, history has proved that man cannot block the path of his own progress or lower the standard of the destiny which he is called upon to achieve. All history bears witness and record that we live in a kingdom of eternal values; that ultimately all questions must be solved on moral ground; that all institutions rise or fall because they either advance or retard our progress.

The world is full of unfortunates that have but one ailment,—undecision.

MILITARY TRAINING AT L. V. C.

The interest shown in the movement to have optional military training at L. V. has been very gratifying those at its head, though no coercion of any kind was used the enrollment paper was scarcely out until it contained almost one hundred signers. At a meeting of these men Wednesday evening Prof. Kirkland was unanimously elected Captain and was given complete charge of all matters. At this meeting President Gossard and Coach Guyer both expressed their hearty approval of the scheme and the hope that it will have the support of the entire student body.

It is proposed to drill two hours each week with a hike and conference each Saturday afternoon. It will be possible for Sophomores and Freshmen to substitute this drill for their required gymnasium work.

The drilling will be under the directions of the men who have Plattsburg training, with the commissioned officers of the Lebanon company cooperating.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. had a delightful meeting on Sunday afternoon in the parlor of North Hall. Miss Carrie Miller opened the service with song and prayer after which she spoke on the subject of "giving". Dr. Bryon of Colgate University told us that one of the greatest perils of the student is that during his college course of four years he receives out of all proportion to what he gives. Let us do a little introspection and see if we are giving anything in return for what we are receiving. Miss Richwine favored the association with a piano selection.

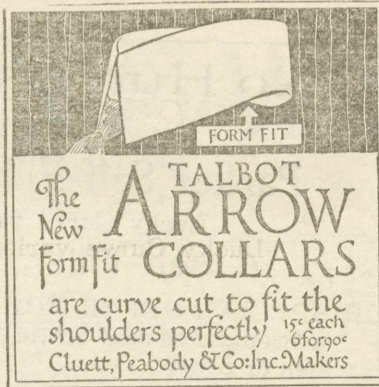

Announcement: The Y. W. C. A. would be very much pleased to have all the unpaid dues settled this week, since the association year ends this month and the treasurer's books must be closed.

On February 7th, the senior class chaperoned by Miss Seaman, held a banquet at Hershey Cafe. The banquet hall was "a thing of beauty and a joy fever." The tables were set in a circle around a beautiful fountain in which were ferns and gold fish while smilax, small palms and ferns very artistically decorated the table. The dinner of six courses carried out the idea of a joyforever and was concluded by the usual line of toasts, which were very clever. The majority of the class was there and all seemingly enjoyed themselves.

On Tuesday evening, February Sixth the Junior Class presented their play "Anne, of Old Salem" in Hershey Central Theatre, Hershey.

Though other attractions made audience rather small, what was lacking in size was made up in response every one being delighted with the production.

Great many have purposes; others have wishes.

Glee Club Tours York and Vicinity

The Men's Glee Club gave three concerts during last week. On Friday, Feb. 9, the club visited Dalls-town, where a large and enthusiastic audience greeted the boys. Everybody spoke well of the program rendered and the club was invited to come again.

Saturday found the club in Red Lion, where the concert was held in the new Sunday School room of the U. B. Church. A crowd of over 500 persons heard the concert, and were well pleased. The club remained in Red Lion over Sunday, Mr. Ramsey filling the pulpit in the U. B. church in the morning and Mr. Hallman in the evening. Special music was furnished by a quartet and by the club.

On Monday, York was visited, where again a good sized audience greeted the appearance of the fellows. All the concerts were very successful, both from the standpoint of the work done by the club, and the standpoint of numbers in attendance of the concerts.

The boys returned to school Tuesday afternoon. Needless to state, all enjoyed the trip, and the general hospitality of their hosts at the various places.

GIRLS LOSE TO YORK

The girls' basketball team lost a close game Thursday evening in York, 22 to 26, to the Bear Department Store girls.

The showing of our girls was creditable when we take into consideration that they were on a strange floor and played against opponents who greatly outweighed them. Helen Bubb, Mirab Gamble and Mark Engle were most effective in aggressive play, and Miss Williams did some commendable guarding which kept down the score of the opponents.

It is not every calamity that is a curse, and early adversity is often a blessing. Surmounted difficulties not only teach, but hearten us in our future struggles.

Varsity Defeats Delaware and Susquehanna

Another victory was added on Tuesday evening when our Varsity basketball quintet triumphed over Delaware College, 38 to 29.

Altho the score was close thruout the contest, the game seemed never to be in doubt, for the visiting team was composed of players who were too small and light to battle successfully with our comparatively heavy squad. Delaware, however, had two stars on their five, H. Horsey, the diminutive forward, who was all over the floor and contributed greatly to the favorable showing of his team, and Pierson, the hardworking forward. These two men scored 27 of the 29 points registered for their college.

Our team did not play their best game—perhaps the small attendance had something to do with it—but they played well enough to demonstrate their superior ability. Swartz and Captain Loomis played their usual steady game.

This game marked the re-opening of athletic relationship between Lebanon Valley and Delaware, and it is hoped that the colleges may be able to meet in other sports also, in the future. Line-up:

Lebanon Valley	Delaware
Keating.... forward	H. Horsey
Swartz..... forward	D. Horsey
Seltzer..... centre	Pierson
Loomis..... guard	Casey
Walter..... guard	Wilson

Field Goals—H. Horsey 5, D. Horsey, Pierson 4, Swartz 5, Keating 2, Walter 2, Loomis 3, Seltzer, Atticks.

Foul Goals—Lebanon Valley: Seltzer, 10 out of 16; Delaware: Pierson, 9 out of 14. Substitutions—Shetter for Keating; Loomis for Seltzer; Atticks for Loomis. Referee—Hollinger. Scorer—White.

The Varsity won its second game of the week in the Alumni Gymnasium Friday evening when Susquehanna University went down to defeat, 41 to 32.

The game was the fastest and most exciting staged on the home floor this year, and perhaps in years. The spectators are much indebted to the fine work of Referee Taggart, of Steelton, who kept the game going at top-notch speed from beginning to end, and the players responded with lightning floor-work and remarkable shooting. Never in a recent game were so many long shots attempted, and many of them were successful. When this style of game is attempted

Kalo. Gives Annual Masquerade Party

Saturday evening, the occasion for the annual Masquerade party given by the Kalozetean Literary Society was one of the gala times of the year.

This is an affair always anticipated with pleasure and was particularly so this year because a special effort was made to have as many masked as possible, an effort that was shown to be justified when the crowd assembled in Engle Hall at 7:30. Almost every person having in some way hidden his identity.

Costumes of all sorts and conditions representing innumerable phases of human life were in evidence, making truly a wonderful appearance as they marched behind the Annville band to the spacious hall above the Hippodrome Theatre. Here for a short time there was great merriment, each one attempting to penetrate the different disguises, this being terminated by the grand march before the judges, Mrs. Gosard, Miss Gruber and Prof. Wanner who found they had a most difficult decision to make. After careful consideration, however, Miss Adams as a "Muse" was given the prize for the best costumed lady and Mr. Greer as a "Cannibal" for the best costumed gentleman, honorable mention being given to the "Red Cross Corps" and to "General Washington."

After the awarding of prizes everyone unmasked, a process accompanied by many expressions of surprise and bewilderment.

A general good time followed during which the band did valiant service and excellent refreshments were served. The Kalo's throughout maintained their reputation as peerless hosts, making this one of the memorable times of this year.

MILITARY TRAINING

Military training the past week has continued to gain ground both in numbers and enthusiasm though conditions for drill were such as to test the courage of all.

Marked improvement is shown already, the fact that the College man learns much more rapidly than the average man who enlists, being very evident.

Plans are under way for securing uniform and guns that will be completed in the near future.

Good resolutions seldom fail of producing some good in the mind from which they spring.

Every duty we omit obscures some truth we should have known.

The editor solicits contributions and items of interest to the College from the students and Alumnae. All articles for publication should be given or sent to the editor not later than Saturday evening.

Positive knowledge in the academic work of College is not gained until we can definitely express our conceptions and make them a part of ourselves. If we cannot coherently and with clearness express our opinions, the fault lies not with the speech but with the idea. What is true of the intellectual, is also true of the spiritual. Positive Christian character demands more than a mere faith in a Spiritual overruling Providence. It demands expression. What does our religion amount to if we cannot or care not to let others partake of it? The greatest precept of the age, taking for granted the supremacy of the Divine faith is brotherhood, and this is the only channel into which our finite works can be directed. As the students' week of revival dawns, let us, if we have not the personal faith of a positive disciple of Christ, obtain it, and then show that we have it in terms of interest in the soul's salvation of our fellow students. Let us begin the revival now and end it up with the revival week, instead of waiting until then to begin. If you have no prayer list, make one. If you have never spoken to anyone about the salvation of their soul try it and the blessing will always be twofold. Let us revive the motto "L. V. for Christ," and then give its attainment conscious effort, and we shall have a revival in deed and in truth.

Tomorrow we commemorate the birthday of one of the world's greatest heroes, George Washington. For half a century after his death, Washington was regarded as a demigod, and even up to the present time no other American has won the universal love of the people as he did.

Wherein lay Washington's greatness?

His greatness consisted for the most part in his lofty motives, in his extraordinary sound judgement, and his unlimited courage when standing for a principle that he believed to be right. The candor and nobleness of his character have attracted the admiration of every people. "No nobler figure ever stood in the forefront of a nation's life," says a British historian. . . "there was little in his outward bearing to reveal the grandeur of soul which lifts his figure, with all the simply majesty of ancient stature, out of the smaller passions, the meaner impulses, of the world about him. . . Almost unconsciously men learned to . . . regard him with a reverence which still hushes us in the presence of his memory."

We are all devotees at the shrine of Washington. He has left a record that cannot fade, and his name will ever be dear in the hearts of men who have human rights and human liberties.

Those of us who have run our course at Lebanon Valley and are about to leave these old halls to engage with the world more fully, can not help but feel that we have been deprived of a fair chance to associate to the fullest and best advantage, with our fellow students. We would like to make an appeal therefore, hoping that the following classes may not be compelled to miss this, one of the greatest experiments of college life.

Some time ago efforts were made to organize two fraternities, which in a way were successful at least they had dreamed great things. One day these two, let us call them cliques, could not agree and they were called to judgement and requested to disband, which they meekly but reluctantly consented to do.

Today and every day since that occasion when the solemnity of this justly religious school was shaken up by the possibilities of that which might have been, we have felt the great need of a place to gather; where Plebe and Aristocrat, religious and sacrilegious, procrastinator and grind, alike might congregate and express their opinions, drinking in the personalities of all the students instead of only a select few.

Let us start something and let there be action of the real kind. Any matter so vastly important as this, can but call forth the best that is in every influential person who has Lebanon Valley's interests at heart. If in fifteen minutes at chapel, a stranger can raise more than a hundred dollars towards a fund with which to provide for a similar need of belligerent prisoners, why can not we do half as well to take care of our students. Is this not something about which to think?

THE CANOE

Creature of wave and sunlight,
Born of the woods and streams,
Bearer of grievous burdens,
Cradle of vagrant dreams,
Shaped by a naked savage,
Stripped for a savage day,
The white man tamed and took you
As comrade in his play.

From Cosmopolitan Magazine

By Herbert Kaufman.

A peasant came to the court of Shan, moaning: "Behold a woeful man!
These rags are all that I possess; my cupboard's filled with emptiness."
"Thou shalt have gold," the king replied. "A yamen and a barb to ride.
Ten dragon-robies, jades, jewels rare, and peacock feathers thou shalt wear;
A garden thine, on Yang-tse's bank, a score of wives, a prince's rank.
But thou must pay a proper price; half of thy riches will suffice.
Count well thy wealth, then speak," said Shan. "Agreed—I've nothing," grinned the man.
"Thou hast two sons; one must thou lose—one eye, one foot, one hand I choose.
What, ingrate! Dost thou dare refuse?
A moment since you wailed and whined of poverty, and now you find Yourself possessed of things to hold more precious far than rank or gold.
Begone, and to the people say how rich hath Shan made thee today."

Y. M. C. A.

The men of the college were given another rare treat last Sunday afternoon in the form of a most delightful message brought to us by Mr. C. F. Zimmerman, of Lebanon. It was an address to college men. The plain heart to heart talk made it "the best of the year." One of the chief points of the address was that all students should form the habit of striving toward excellence. His illustrations of men who had gone to college and their positions in life at the present time were most pathetic. No one ought to change the high ideals of his former days for many of the ideals that he may easily acquire at a college. The ideals of pipe smoking, making money, telling shady stories and loose living were strikingly brought home in concrete form.

Mr. S. D. Clark, superintendent of the Hershey Store Co., will address the men of the college at the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting this coming Sunday afternoon. All are most cordially invited to attend.

Rev. N. L. Linebaugh, pastor of our 1st church at Harrisburg, has been secured as the speaker for our "Week of Prayer" services which will be held next week, starting Monday evening and continuing five nights. Mr. Linebaugh's pleasing personality and his persistent hard work together with his upright life has made him an example that all young Christians might profitably follow. Try to hear him every evening during the week.

CLIO.

The Clionian Program was as usual interesting and with the exception of one musical number the program was entirely literary. Miss Richwine's piano solo was very well played. After the several literary papers and a debate "Resolved, That poverty causes more crime than wealth," a very clever sketch of one of our most serious campus cases was very vividly presented.

Miss Mary Haines, of Red Lion, spent Saturday at the college.
Miss Helen Bubb spent the week-end at Goucher College, as the guest of Miss Meryl Louser.
Miss Mary Wyand, '15, has returned to her home in Hagerstown after spending the past week as the guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bachman, on Maple street.
Miss Kathryn Brackenridge, of Harrisburg, was entertained over the week-end by Miss Violet Shirk.
Miss Louisa Williams visited at her home in York for a few days last week.
Miss Myrtle Snyder has returned to school after spending the week-end at her home in Robesonia.
Miss Virginia Smith visited her parents in Reading last week.
Dr. Galen Hain, of Harrisburg, was the guest of Miss Ellen Moyer on Sunday.

PHILO.

The first number on the program was a very comprehensive discussion of the importance the U-Boat bears in the present war by Mr. Potter.

The debate: "Resolved, That Pres. Wilson's Peace Program is feasible," affirmed by Messrs. Risser and Wine and denied by Messrs. Jacobwick and Williams, was very interesting. (The decision of the judges is censored in fear of Presidential disapproval.)

Mr. Ehrhart followed with a well-rendered vocal solo much enjoyed by all.

The sketch, which pictured an imaginary meeting of the Executive Board of L. V.'s trustees, was a "scream" from beginning to end and showed wonderful possibilities for future Trustee material.

The closing number was a paper by Mr. DeHoff on "Why the Allies Expect to Win." He explained fully the reasons they have for winning but neglected to state exactly how this winning should be done.

For Friday, Feb. 23, a program entirely impromptu will be given. Visitors cordially invited.

"Finding the Way" was the subject of the interesting meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on Sunday. Miss Kathryn Ruth, as leader, gave an extremely original view of her idea of finding the way to Bible Study. "We are very anxious to stand up for our country and flag, for which we should be willing to lay down our lives, but how many are there of us who would uphold the Bible as we do our flag?" Miss Heffelman also added to the interest of the meeting by reading selections from "Bible Study for Personal Spiritual Growth," by John R. Mott.

Atticks, especially, is in his element, as is shown by his total of four field goals from the guard position.

The Varsity played a fine, open style of play, often with most of their men posted along the walls, and much was accomplished with "Red" up the floor and Seltzer taking the guard duty temporarily.

Most of Susquehanna's effective work was done by their forward Middlesworth, who, during the course of the evening caged seven baskets from the floor. The visitors looked dangerous for a time, but toward the end could not keep up the pace. Lineup:

Susquehanna	Lebanon Valley
Middlesworth, forward	Keating
Shannon, forward	Swartz
Kirk, centre	Seltzer
Bouser, guard	Loomis
Calahan, guard	Atticks

Field Goals—Middlesworth 7, Swartz 5, Keating 4, Atticks 4, Seltzer 2, Shannon 2, Kirk, Bouser. Foul Goals—Lebanon Valley: Seltzer, 11 out of 18; Susquehanna: Middlesworth, 10 out of 14. Substitutions—Loomis for Seltzer, Shetter for Loomis. Referee—Taggart, Steelton. Scorer—White.

Boys Have Open House

As is an annual custom, the "boys" had open house for the "girls" on Thursday, Washington's Birthday. All over the Dorm there was flurry and hurry on the forenoon of that day. At one o'clock the grand affair began. Bunch by bunch, group by group, dozen by dozen, those fairer sex representatives strolled from their domiciles to inspect the abodes of their "big brothers, etc." From room to room, they scoured, barely covering the sixty rooms in the allotted time. All of them seemed delightfully surprised with the conditions as they found them existing among the men.

After the examination was over, at about three o'clock, the "girls" showed their appreciation by giving a tea for the "boys." As to this being well attended and enjoyed by each one present only the look of ability of expression commands a silence. The attractive decorations with the delightful refreshments and tea made the occasion one that will ever be cherished in the minds of those who had the pleasure to be present and enjoy it.

Y. M. C. A.

A helpful and inspiring message was brought to those present at Y. M. C. A. on Sunday when Mr. S. D. Clark, of Hershey, addressed—or rather as he stated it—had a heart to heart talk with the boys. Mr. Clark spoke from a wide experience as a business man and his advice and suggestions were well worth remembering. Psalms, 119:9, "Wherein shall a young man choose his ways? by taking heed thereto thy word," was the Scripture reference upon which he based his remarks.

He began by calling our attention to the age, of unequalled opportunities and possibilities, in which we were living. However, success, in any vocation is obtained only when we get down and work hard and diligently. Many illustrations, of our present day successful business men, were given as a proof of this statement. In addition to hard and diligent work, Mr. Clark emphasized one other necessary requirement for success—linking hands with Christ and thus keeping ourselves clean for the work that is before us.

In closing he made an appeal that we should not think of starting out in any vocation in life without taking Christ, and his plans for our lives, into account.

Varsity Games of The Past Week

The "Jinx" seemed to be with our basketball team last week when they journeyed to Bethlehem and Easton and were defeated by Moravian and Lafayette, respectively. The 48-29 defeat at Moravian would indicate that there was something radically wrong with this game, especially in view of the results of our home game with the same team. Part of the blame may be found in the fact that there ere thirty-nine fouls called on Lebanon Valley, while Moravian only committed eighteen. In addition to this handicap Seltzer was injured early in the contest and compelled to retire. Keating showed evidence of being in the game by scoring seven field goals while Walters aided materially by his foul shooting. Line up:—

Lebanon Valley	Moravian
Swartz ..... forward	Hagen
Keating ..... forward	Turner
Seltzer ..... centre	Allen
Shetter ..... guard	Knehl
Walters ..... guard	Wedman

Field goals—Swartz, 2; Keating, 7; Walters: Hagen, 3; Turner, 3; Allen, 7; Knehl. Foul goals—Walters, 10 out of 18; Hagen, 26 out of 39. Referee—Wakon.

The boys sprung a surprise on Lafayette who, with the expectation of an easy victory, run in a line-up that was composed mostly of Varsity Subs and Reserves. The result was a three point lead for our team at the end of the first half. In the second period Lafayette changed their line-up and the remainder of the game was a fight, on both sides, for victory, resulting in a two point defeat for us. In this game also Keating proved to be our big point-getter with Atticks our scoring guard, being a close second. Anderson and Weldon starred for Lafayette. Line-up:

Lebanon Valley	Lafayette
Shetter ..... forward	Bobby
W. Keating .. forward	Keating
Seltzer ..... center	Miller
Walters ..... guard	Leht
Atticks ..... guard	Hynson

Field goals—W. Keating, 6; Shetter, 1; Walters, 2; Atticks, 4; Keating, 2; Leht, 1; Anderson, 4; Weldon, 3; Paulson, 1; Saylor; Scott. Foul goals—Walters, 5 out of 10; Hynson, 3 out of 8; Anderson, 2 out of 6. Substitutions—Swartz for Shetter; Shetter for Seltzer; Anderson for Bobby; Weldon for Keating; Paulson for Miller; Saylor for Leht; Scott for Hynson. Referee—Snyder.

Girls Lose to Susquehanna

The Varsity Co-Eds were defeated by the S. U. Co-Eds in a decidedly interesting game on S.'s floor, Friday evening, February 23. The first half was played with girls' rules which was rather a handicap to our girls, but on account of the close guarding of Williams and Bubb, the first half ended with the score 12-9 in favor of L. V. The second half was played with boys' rules and was hotly contested to the end. When the whistle blew the score was tie. In the extra five minutes of play S. scored two field goals leaving the final score 23-19 in favor of S. U. Captain Engle starred for L. V., scoring all of the points for her team.

Lineup:

First Half

Engle ..... forward	Woodruff
Gamble ..... forward	Persing
Larew ..... J. Center	Schock
Rupp ..... S. Center	Leffler
Bubb ..... guard	Hohl
Williams ..... guard	Redrick

Second Half

Bubb ..... forward	Woodruff
Gamble ..... forward	L. Fetteroff
Engle ..... center	Schock
Williams ..... guard	F. Fetteroff
Rupp ..... guard	Rearick

Fields goals: Engle 7, Persing 4, F. Fetteroff, Woodruff, L. Fetteroff 3. Foul goals: Engle, 5 out of 13; Woodruff, 5 out of 11; Persing 0 out of 2. Substitutions: Persing for Woodruff. Referee: Peters.

Varsity Wins Last Home Game

In the last home game of this season Saturday afternoon our varsity basketball team easily defeated Moravian Seminary, 57 to 31.

With both Swartz and Seltzer out of the game on account of injuries an easy victory was not anticipated but with the team working as one man from the first whistle there was no real doubt as to the final outcome. The visitors only a few times showing themselves real contenders for the game.

Capt. Loomis, realizing this is to be his last appearance in L. V.'s cage, played an excellent game, scoring 15 points, while Keating's record of fourteen field goals shows him to have been up to his usual high standard of efficiency.

For the visitors, Allen, with six field goals to his credit, starred.

The editor solicits contributions and items of interest to the College from the students and Alumnae. All articles for publication should be given or sent to the editor not later than Saturday evening.

All Colleges have as their ultimate aim the education of the individual. Speaking of education in the fuller and wider scope of the term, we mean that process which "broadens the mind, disciplines the temper, corrects the manners and tastes, and molds the character of the individual."

The present age is called the age of thoroughness and efficiency. Nowhere should this be more sought after than in education; for education is the strongest pillar of our modern civilization. And yet as we examine the smaller institutions of learning we can see that the qualities of thoroughness and efficiency are scarcely exercised.

In years gone by persons went to college primarily to gain knowledge, and if, perchance, they received also that broadening out of culture that goes with college life, they were considered well educated. Times have changed since then, however, and today we find many persons who see only the effect made on these former individuals without seeing how they attained this "leading out" of their lives. And so we have students, and that in no small number, attempting to acquire this breadth without paying the real price of attaining it.

Especially is this true in small colleges. From the moment the student arrives at college as the greenest of the green until he leaves it as a finished product, he is continually left to understand that he must take part in the majority of undergraduate activities if he wishes to become a loyal or an ideal student. The youth in his ignorance assumes the responsibility of this false teaching and enters the various activities with vim and spirit. Class affairs are a great inspiration; the Christian association affords abundant room for the expression of his religious experience; athletic contests must be attended if he is to be considered as a student that has "college spirit;" star course entertainments and recitals must not be missed if he would become cultured; parties and hikes must be indulged in if he is not to become a social bore; yes, many more things this student MUST do for the sake of becoming the ideal student. In doing this, however, his college work is bound to suffer and thus we see that he negates the very purpose for which he has come to college. As a result of this course of action he may correct his manners, and he may improve his tastes but he will also come short sadly in respect to broadening and disciplining the mind and in moulding that perfect character which can be attained only thru earnest toil and difficult labor.

Considering this truth, we can readily see the cause of failure of so many college graduates. But the question is asked "do not the larger schools and universities have these undergraduate activities?" Yes, and many more, but the support of these legion of activities does not depend upon one individual or class of individuals. The interests of so large a student body are so versatile that there will be many students taking up each line of activity, and the responsibility of many activities does not rest upon any single person. The student, therefore, of the larger school not only educates himself by getting proper discipline from his books but he gets also that desirable cultural and broadening effect by being associated with a single undergraduate activity.

The effects of this false teaching are very obvious. The fact that these numerous affairs and occasions exist that cause students to miss the purpose of their coming to college is sufficient reason to term them "The Curse of the Small College." But how are we to rid ourselves of this curse? Three things ought to be done. The sooner the better! The college administration should impress indelibly upon the mind of the student that he has come to college to study and to learn; that this process is fundamental; and that the broadening process should grow out of this but when separated from it, is of minor importance. Secondly, the administration should see to it that only as rarely as possible should attractions be permitted to come to school that would tend to keep the students from their work, and those attractions that do occur should be arranged so as to interfere with as little as possible the work of the student. Thirdly, students should be prohibited from holding more than one major office, regulated by an up-to-date and efficient point-system.

PHILOKOSMIAN

Philo's impromptu program Friday evening gave an opportunity for those participating to show how great has been the benefit they have derived from Society work.

To deliver an essay or debate after careful preparation is a simple matter, but to speak or otherwise perform on the instant is entirely different.

The debate concerning the education of ministerial and lay students in separate institutions, Affirmative: Gemmil and Spessard, Negative: Risser and Dehuff, was specially good. The judges deciding in favor of the Affirmative.

Other numbers were: "My Opinion of Exams,"—Baker; vocal solo,—Williams; "Life Sketch of Washington,"—Snively; Duet—Shetter and Evans; Reading—McConel; Piano Solo—Wagner; "The Advance of Prohibition," Lefever; Oration—Zeigler; "The Progress of Military Training,"—Snoke.

FEB. 22.
A whole lot of boys out to breakfast, 'Tis Washington's Birthday, you know, Are they having a great celebration? They all seem to hurry so.
A tremendous task lies before them, And there's not one minute to play, They have work vast enough to astound them,
'Tis their annual cleaning day.
"Just lend me your broom for a minute,"
Is heard here and there 'cross the halls,
"And, give me that chair that you borrowed!"
The voice of another one calls.
The beds, are, indeed, quite astonished,
To find themselves made once a year,
And how strange it seems with the windows cleaned
The rooms have lost much of their drear.
The books and the papers and pencils
That were missing for many a day, Are rescued from nooks and from corners,
And arranged in an orderly way.
O Washington, thee do we honor, We celebrate truly thy birth,
O may not this dignified custom E'er perish from the face of the earth.

Reserves Win Three Games

The Reserves won a decisive game from the Enhaut Ex-high basketball team last Wednesday evening in the college gymnasium, 57 to 21.

The visiting team was completely outclassed, and after a few minutes of the contest had been played the only interest that remained in the game was to determine how high a score could be registered by the Reserves.

The Reserves played commendable basketball through-out the evening, and all took part in the scoring, forwards and guards alike. The teamwork was perhaps the best that has been exhibited by the second team this season.

Bartel alone, of the visiting team, seemed to be able to keep pace with his opponents. Line-up:

GLEE CLUB HAS SUCCESSFUL TRIP.

On Monday evening, Feb. 26, the Glee Club of the college gave their concert to what was conceded to be the largest audience which was ever present to hear the L. V. C. boys. The concert was held in the P. O. S. o fA. Hall and was given with the usual vim which characterizes the club. Lebanon papers declare it to be the best concert ever given in the city by the club.

Thursday afternoon, the boys left on their Lancaster County trip. The first place visited was Ephrata, the club travelling from Lebanon by trolley. In Ephrata, the largest crowd of the season welcomed the boys, and were thoroughly delighted and pleased with the concert as given.

The next day Lancaster was visited and the concert given in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium before a very appreciative audience. Every number on the program was given in such a way as to evoke hearty applause and encores were numerous.

Mt. Joy was the last place visited on the trip. The hall was filled with a capacity audience who did their share in applauding for the various numbers.

Several of the boys filled the pulpit in the U. B. church, while others furnished special music.

Everywhere the club goes, people remark the concert this year is better than any year they have heard the club. This surely speaks well both for the club and for the director.

Varsity Defeats Drexel But Loses to Temple University

When the whistle was sounded by the referee at Temple University on Saturday night which ended a keen battle, another basket ball season at Lebanon Valley passed into history.

The team, crippled by the loss of their veteran forward, Swartz, and their star center, Seltzer, started for Philadelphia on Friday morning, with a grim determination to end their season successfully.

The first game was played with the Drexel Institute. This game was full of thrills and many nervous moments. The contest was nip and tuck up until the last few minutes when two field goals by Keating and foul goals by Shetter cinched the game, score 39 to 30.

Keating and Atticks were the large scorers, with Capt. Loomis playing his usual steady game. Line-up:

GIRLS HAVE EASY TIME WITH BEAR'S D. S.

The Girls' Varsity won another game Thursday in the Alumni Gymnasium from the Bear Department Store girls 14 to 13.

As the score of the contest plainly indicates, the game was never in doubt, due to the general excellence of the Lebanon Valley quintet, and to the spectacular work of Miss Bubbs and Miss Engle. These two girls seemed to be able to cage goals from any angle, and when the time-keeper ended the game each had a total of nine baskets. Miss Rupp and Miss Houser each played one half at guard, and both did equally well.

The visitors showed lack of practice, but did not give up the struggle altho they were soon left far behind in points scored. Miss Mey-

Prof. M. Wood Gives Scientific Lecture

What may undisputedly be termed as the greatest scientific lecture and demonstration ever given on the local platform was none other than the performance by Montraville M. Wood and daughter on the Conservatory stage last Tuesday evening. Mr. Wood, due to his practical experience, some of which was with Mr. Thomas A. Edison, and due to his theoretical insight into Nature's intricacies and hidden wonders has proved himself almost as wonderful a wizzard as any of our foremost inventors. His demonstration of the ultra-violet ray, the wonders that can be performed with it, its nature and its effect were only a trifle short from being miraculous. Shall he ever accomplish his present feat, this is, of inventing a wall paper which will absorb light during the day and radiate the same at night and bringing it to a reasonable price even Henry Ford himself will be a figure of the past in the light of service to humanity.

As to the gyroscope, no less can be said than in respect to the ultra-violet ray. Some who are wise in the art were heard to say, "Well, he surely showed us some things that we never knew," and their curiosity was in some ways satiated in other ways favorably stimulated and aroused to inspection. We, however to whom the term "gyroscope" meant only one more word to our vocabulary in the form of "a whizzing

WEEK OF PRAYER.

During the week just passed the annual Week of Prayer Services were conducted by the Christian Associations of the college. Rev. N. L. Linebaugh, of our First Church at Harrisburg, brot us some highly inspirational messages. Each one was a masterpiece in biblical instruction, and no student that heard one or more of the addresses can be the same person for having heard him. The keynote of the discourse was that of personal work, that work to be done while it is day; for the night cometh when man can work no more (John 9:4).

Outline of addresses:—

Monday—A Great Redemption.

Tuesday—A Genuine Conversion.

Wednesday—A Strong Power.

Thursday—A True Servant.

Friday—A Lost Art.

The Christian Associations and the student body take this opportunity of again thanking Rev. Mr. Linebaugh for his most kind and benevolent services.

EDITORIAL.

In the issue of last week there has appeared in these columns an article, which the writer chose to term "The Curse of the Small College," in which were portrayed some of the so-called evils of our smaller institutions of learning. The fact that our colleges, both large and small are gradually evolving into a better organized social unit, and that in the process of this growth certain principles and habits of action must of necessity become reorganized, is readily conceded by students that are familiar with the relation of education to society. The fact also that this relation should be one in which the individual of society is "broadened mentally, disciplined temperamentally, corrected as to manners and tastes, and molded in terms of character," was never a point at issue in the history of education. The way in which this character was attained however differed with every age, and notwithstanding the prophesied limitations and eventual doom of the system with regards to individual culture and discipline, great characters have continued to grow out of the "old system" and will ever continue to do so. The limitations of our small colleges may seem plausible when viewed from the standpoint of those whose misuse of their opportunities have resulted in absolute failure, but it is surprising that the remedy should be sought in the system, especially since there are at the least as many that succeed under it as there are those that fail through its improper use. In spite of the "Curse," thoughtful people are ever seeing the wisdom of sending their children first to small colleges for the attainment of that culture and next to the larger college for higher specialization.

Were the article limited to the sphere of college limitations, its appearance might not be quite as faulty, but in it is a pronounced tendency which would revolutionize entire education and the very culture of which the author speaks so fondly would not only be a thing of the past, but its attainment would be immeasurably more difficult. Take for instance the allusion to the culture of the educated in "years gone by." Times have changed indeed, but in a direction not mentioned by the author. What was then a university education is now relegated to the departments of our grammar school. But how they could have received "that broadening out of culture that goes with college life," upon our grammar school basis, and denied themselves of the culture derived from the so called "Curses," is a matter of conjecture. How else could they have attained it? With the facilities of a grammar school these early pioneers are admittedly cultured, and we are also admittedly striving toward the same end. But the author would have us seek it in a plain materialistic fashion and come to school "to study and learn" taking as a standard this former culture. No one would deny that this forms a part of our college curriculum, but the author has overlooked the fact that intellectualism is something more than a crammed memory. Facts in the brain of a highbrow are of no more value than upon a bookshelf. It is character and culture for which we aspire, and for its attainment the writer would cut down the activities of college life and thereby virtually destroy the means whereby this culture was obtained "in years gone by." Furthermore, who is to be the judge, in deciding which activity is to be abandoned? Which of the groups of interest should be made to suffer as a result of the few that squander opportunity in broadening out and using that as a pretext for failure. Neither can we limit the "attractions" so that all the varied interests at school will still be kept on a par. To do so would practically mean their entire abandonment; a condition even more negative than the "course."

Besides this, the statement has been made that these attractions are attended because of a feeling of necessary support. To anyone acquainted with the facts, such a statement is regarded as a test of credulity. Look at the attendance at various attractions and notice the disappointed look upon the faces of managers, etc., and the answer comes clear—all the attractions seems poorly attended. But what of that? Then notice the personnel of the audiences and you have the solution—that students attend only such outside features as will lend to the formation of their individual character. The writer is well aware however that he speaks only for the majority, and that exceptions always appear.

But as to the solution: for that is as essential as the destructive process of tearing down. The fallacy of the solution by decreasing the attractions lies upon the false hypothesis that you can regenerate society by reorganizing the institutions. The recurrence of such teachings is but a sad history of the past and forms many a page of political blunders. You can't determine character by institutional reorganization any more than you can secure morality thru legislation. Herein lies one of the sad defects of reform in all ages. Rather than get to the cause of the deficiency we are temporarily satisfied by deferring the solution and merely altering the results. The solution to this problem lies not in diminishing his opportunities, but creating within each student a sense of responsibility attending each opportunity. The solution is unknowingly suggested by the writer of last week's article when the remark is incidentally made that students are unwilling to pay the price of success in college work. Life ever was and ever will be what each one makes it, and those that refuse to make it the best cannot have it made for them thru mere reorganization. The best that we can ever do is to create opportunity and direct its proper use and then character will be a matter left to the individual. But even this solution is somewhat theoretical. To become more concrete, the policy recently adopted by this institution is a step in the right direction. The opportunity being presented, a higher grade of work should be demanded, and those that refuse to seize their opportunity should concede their privileges to others that will. A higher grade of work being demanded, the student's sense of proportion will direct as to which of the "attractions" shall be attended and which ones will have to be missed. If efficiency can be demanded in the business world, we can demand the same thing in the collegiate world. The thorough student will of course not need such an incentive, but those that don't realize the efficacy of earnest toil and labor need not a diminished opportunity but a new sense of proportion which will arise from more stringent demands.

wheel" learned almost infinitely much in an infinitely short time.

The future of such prospects can only be guessed not calculated in mathematical figures. Some of us now see possibilities opened up in our own life that never appeared before; and, as to the possibilities in the lives of these two, we can only conjecture. However, we are all hoping to see them again on our stage and review for us the results of their unselfish labor.

ELECTION OF Y. W. C. A. OFFICERS.

The annual business meeting of the Y. W. C. A. will be held on Friday evening, March 9th, immediately after the session of the Clonian Literary Society. At this time the officers for the coming year will be elected. Since this is the most important meeting of the year all the girls are urged to be present.

Varsity Defeats Drexel But Loses to Temple University

Saturday evening the team played Temple University.

This game, according to a spectator, was the fastest and most exciting staged on that floor this year. The players of both teams displayed lightning floor work from beginning to end.

The first half ended in a tie score 12-12.

The second half began, the scoring continued evenly, then Temple made a substitution, this new man caged a few long shots which put his team at the large end of the score. The game ended 27 to 21.

Keating again displayed neat shooting ability. The close guarding of Temple's players was the feature of the game. Line-up.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Miss Ruth Huber, who has been confined to her room on account of illness is convalescing very rapidly.

Miss Edna Weidler and Miss Grace Snyder spent Sunday visiting friends in Lebanon.

Miss May Belle Adams spent Saturday afternoon in Lebanon.

Miss Hempt is spending several days at her home in Camp Hill.

Misses Esther Bordner and Rena Huff visited friends in Lebanon over the week-end.

Miss Ellen Moyer spent the week-end at her home in West Hanover.

Miss Verna Mutch has returned to school after spending the week-end at her home in Ephrata.

Misses Violet Shirk and Frankie Kline were the guests of Miss Marie Richwine at her home in Ephrata, where they attended the Men's Glee Club Concert.

Y. W. C. A.

The service of the Y. W. C. A. on Sunday afternoon was in the hands of one of the Advisory members of the Association. Miss Edna A. Seaman brought to the girls a splendid and helpful talk on the subject of "Womanliness." Another delightful feature of the afternoon, and one which was greatly appreciated by all the girls present, was a vocal solo by Miss Gertrude K. Schmidt. The Association feels very grateful to all the members of the Advisory Board for the interest they have shown in the work this year.

Y. M. C. A.

Prof. Grimm brought to the men of the College last Sunday a most practical and helpful talk on "Spiritual Leadership at L. V. C." The gist of the argument presented was that education is a process of self-realization. In this self-realization imitation is, without a doubt, the most potent factor. If this be true, then the spiritual leaders of the college should so conduct their lives so as to transmit to the needy ones the proper moral inspiration. Only when this comes to pass will the delinquent ones take "a brace" and get the proper perspective of things spiritual.

Reserves Keep Record Clean

The fast Reserve team added another victory to their season's string Saturday when they journeyed to Shamokin and defeated the high school of that city 34 to 26.

The game was clean and exciting thruout, and was witnessed by the largest crowd of spectators seen at a basket ball contest in Shamokin for years. At the end of the first half the score stood 12 to 14 against us, but the second part of the game shows a different state of affairs. Barnhart caged five field goals in as many minutes, and these points together with goals scored by Jaeger, Haines and Fishburn were enough to decide the game in favor of Lebanon Valley. Barnhart played one of his best contests of the year. Line-up:

MUSIC AT PRINCETON

Teaching college men how to listen to music is one of the aims of Princeton University. When these aims have been reached, Princeton will have the most distinctive school of music possessed by any American college. These aims have been inspired by Henry C. Frick, the multi-millionaire and member of Princeton board of trustees—first in his gift of the magnificent organ in Proctor Hall and later in his endowment of the music school. The man who has been chosen the University organist and director of music is Alexander Russel.

"Those who, when they first read of Princeton's new music school, thought that this was to be merely a stereotyped addition to our list of conservatories, were utterly mistaken. The purpose of the department will be to create what Mr. Russell calls 'positive music lovers'.

"It is in co-operating with under graduate activities that the director of music will help bring about the school of self-mastery that he has in mind. His word along the lines

REV. D. M. OYER—TRUSTEE

Rev. David M. Oyer, pastor of the Fourth U. B. church, York, Pa., of the class of 1901 was called from labor to reward on the twenty-second day of February. He had just closed a most gracious revival in which fifty-six souls were saved. A few days later he contracted pneumonia and being in a weakened condition was not able to throw it off.

He leaves a wife and two children, a boy and a girl, aged respectively 10 and 7 years. He was well prepared for the work of the ministry and was interested in every form of Church activity. He was for four years secretary of the Pennsylvania Annual Conference. He was always interested in Lebanon Valley College and for the last seven years served as an active and faithful member of the Board of Trustees.

While we cannot understand his passing away so early in life, yet we bow in humble submission to the Divine Will. The workers pass but the work abides. Our prayer is that God may raise up others to take his place and upon whom his mantle may fall.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to the members of the bereaved family whom we commend to our loving heavenly Father who never makes mistakes.

With the advent of spring weather attention is being turned toward the coming baseball season. For several weeks a large squad has been "working out" and "loosening up" in the gymnasium under the direction of Coach Guyer and Captain White, and a very successful season is being anticipated. A large squad of "L" men are back from last season, and added to these are many promising candidates who are sure to make a strong bid for the Varsity.

Manager Long has just announced his schedule, which is as follows:

April 7—Mercersburg at Mercersburg.

April 14—Temple U. at Lebanon.

April 17—Georgetown U. at Washington, D. C.

April 18—Mt. St. Josephs at Baltimore, Md.

April 19—W. Maryland at Westminster, Md.

April 20—Mt. St. Marys at Emmitsburg, Md.

April 21—Open, away.

April 27—Susquehanna at Annville.

April 28—Open, away.

May 4—Bucknell at Annville.

May 5—Muhlenberg at Allentown.

May 12—St. Francis at Lebanon.

May 19—Muhlenberg at Lebanon.

May 22—St. Francis at Loretto.

May 23—Juniata at Huntingdon.

May 24—Susquehanna at Selinsgrove.

May 25—Bloomsburg at Bloomsburg.

GIRLS LOSE TO MORAVIAN

The girls suffered their worst defeat of the season Saturday afternoon when they went down before the fast Moravian girls 30 to 12.

The game was played at Bethlehem and with girls' rules, ours which are practically strangle to our team, and this in part explains the poor showing of the Lebanon Valley representatives. During the first half Moravian had everything their own way and at the end of this period the score stood 24 to 2 against us. The second half of the game was played with Intercollegiate rules, and during this latter part of the contest we outplayed and outpointed our op-

The editor solicits contributions and items of interest to the College from the students and Alumnae. All articles for publication should be given or sent to the editor not later than Saturday evening.

In the past two weeks there have appeared in these columns two articles which have been the cause of considerable comment and discussion in the student body. One the first portraying what its author pleases to term "The Curse of the Small College", and the other, of last week purporting to answer and negate the principles of the first.

In comparing carefully these articles, it cannot but seem to me that the author of the "Answer", while giving us a remarkable play upon words, has carefully and assiduously avoided the point at issue.

In saying that the small college of today has too many, and too widely varied activities; and that these, activities are not sufficiently well distributed, the first article by no means conveyed the idea that the small college is a curse but that these evils comprise a very tangible curse.

In the "Answer" the Universities of old were likened to the grammar schools of today, but since the problem concerns small college activities in general, and those of L. V. particularly such a comparison carries no weight since the large majority of small colleges, our own included are products of the last hundred years or less.

In this article, also, the present system of unlimited activities was justified on the basis that "there are at the least as many that succeed under it as there are those that fail under its improper use." Is the standard of efficiency in education so low that we must be satisfied with fifty per-cent success?

A student comes to school with the purpose of being educated i. e. of forming correct habits of thought and while these habits may not consist in the acquisition and retention of facts they are without doubt better gained in the pursuit of the regular college work than from any outside source. Certainly some of the outside activities are beneficial but only to such a degree that they do not interfere with the student's outlined work.

Thus it cannot but appear that the plan of unlimited activity undivided and general, is a curse for the small college. As for its remedy, its nature is suggested naturally by the cause of the trouble. By attempting to imitate the Universities in the number and character of her activities it has been brought about, then let the small college submit to such limitations of these activities as the Universities impose.

It is interesting to note the stand taken by the various colleges and Universities in different parts of the country as regards the imminence of war and the part that would be played by each one should war actually come.

All are agreed that everything should be made subservient to the country's need, many have voluntarily taken up rigorous military training in order to be best fitted to fulfill this need and in general a wave of patriotism has swept over the schools that can mean nothing but a determination to rise to any situation that may be presented.

Yale has decided that with the outbreak of war she will drop all of her present athletics and will devote the entire time to military drill

At Toledo University. W. Scott Waring, Professor of economics was practically forced to resign his position because of certain radical ideas he had advanced on the question of submarine warfare. Similar conditions are found at other schools showing that the students are alive to the gravity of the situation and are forming the ideas and plans of action should the necessity arise.

Earl Augustus Spessard Discovers First Prothallia of Lycopodium Ever Found in America.

Another of Lebanon Valley's Alumni has become famous in the scientific world. This one is Earl Augustus Spessard of the class of 1911, who recently discovered the first and only Prothallia of Lycopodium ever found in America. Professor Chamberlain, of the University of Chicago, suggested to Mr. Spessard that he avail himself of the opportunity afforded by his location in a Lycopodium region in Michigan, to make a thorough search for Prothallia. Mr. Spessard set to work, spending approximately one hundred fifty days crawling over the ground among the dense beds of sporophytes. As his reward he discovered twenty-one prothallia. He will receive his Ph.D. degree from University of Chicago.

"If I should be a Settlement Worker" was the subject of the Sunday session of the Y. W. C. A. Ruth Haines, the leader, brought many interesting and helpful thoughts to the girls. Much interest was taken by the association as was shown by the number of girls who voluntarily took part in the meeting.

Y. W. C. A. ELECTS OFFICERS

At the regular monthly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on Friday evening the following officers were elected for the year 1917-18:

President—Dorothy Lorenz.
Vice President—Louisa Williams.
Treasurer—Edna Weidler.
Record. Secretary—Mable Moore.
Corres. Secretary—Myrtle Lefever.
Pianist—Esther Bordner.

The meeting on Sunday afternoon was led by Edgar Hastings whose theme was "The Power of Appropriation." By drawing a parallel between the lame man at the Gate Beautiful and the man who is spiritually lame, he showed how it is possible for anyone to be made whole if such one only appropriates the gifts that the Father has placed at our disposal. Do you want forgiveness, a clean heart, victory over self? Ask and it shall be given unto you. Christ is the source of all precious gifts.

Rev. Musselman Addresses Students

Almost as exciting, interesting and real as war itself were the incidents accompanying Rev. Musselman's home-coming from missionary service in Africa, as related by himself before the student body last Friday morning. According to his own words, he left Sierre Leone, Africa January 25, already eight months late. Instead of crossing directly, he had to go to England and thence to America due to his name, which scents of German ancestry, he had some serious, almost fatal delays and had to answer many questions. One thing that we especially welcomed was his statement that seamen are not as "rough" a class of people as we are inclined to think. Some of his most blessed fellowships were those with the captain of the ship who was in almost incessant prayer for the safety of his passengers. We are extremely glad that fortune so accompanied and directed Mr. Musselman and brought him in safety to his home. He almost made us envious when he related his experience for the fascination is extremely great. Three it all, however, can be seen the hand of God preserving the life of his servant for greater and nobler purposes.

Clío Gives Annual St. Patrick's Party

Saturday on the campus and about the town were visible evidences of St. Patrick's birthday. Scarcely a student could be seen who did not wear an emblem of allegiance or was not a walking constellation to do honor to this famous Irishman. Despite the fact that there was a basketball game played as late as four thirty, the decorating committee succeeded in turning the gymnasium, where the annual party was held, into a veritable Emerald Isle. Upon arrival each guest was adopted into a famous Irish family and vieing with each other in keeping alive the spirit of Old Ireland. Wit seems to be the prevailing characteristic of the Irish race and yet everyone was impressed with the sportsmanlike spirit that was manifested at the various meets. Long remembered will be the day as each family has a fortunate member who has in his possession some memento of the occasion in the shape of a pig, a hat or a pipe. There is much anxiety among the families, however, as the prize for the last event "The Lucky Chap" has not as yet been awarded.

Atticks Elected Basket Ball Captain

During the week the letter men of the basketball team met and elected Robert "Red" Atticks captain for next season. "Red" has been a member of the Varsity basketball team every year since he came to Lebanon Valley and his excellent playing at the guard position justly entitles him to the honor conferred upon him by his teammates.

"Red" has been one of our premier athletes for the last three years, making his "L" in football, basketball and baseball every season, and not only has he made his letter but he has been one of the strong units in Lebanon Valley teams and a man who has always commanded the respectful consideration of opposing contestants. "Bob" has been a popular player, he will be a popular captain, and we wish him the greatest success in the fulfillment of his appointed task.

At the meeting of the "L" men Ralph L. Sloat was also elected manager for the coming season, in accordance with the revised Constitution. Sloat was Assistant Manager this winter, and he carried on the duties of his office in such a manner as to merit his election to the managership. We know that Manager Sloat will do all in his power to give the basketball team of next year a schedule worthy of their prowess.

Glee Club Returns From Long Trip

Sophs. Victors in Inter-Class Contest

In one of the most exciting and hardfought interclass games in years the Sophomores triumphed over the Freshmen Monday evening in a double-header, the boys winning 40 to 30 and the girls, 10 to 4.

Both games were complete surprises to close followers of basketball at Lebanon Valley, for "on paper" the Freshmen teams looked to be easily the superiors of the 1919 representatives, but the Sophomores went into the contest with a vim and determination which could not be gainsaid. For weeks they had been diligently training, expending every effort which would give promise of the slightest improvement of their chances of victory, and they received just reward for their work. They did not have things their own way by any manner of means, for the Freshies were also out to win, and the games were much in doubt thruout the entire evening's entertainment. The fine teamwork of Shetter, Fulford and Mackert, aided

Girls Lose to Harrisburg High

In the deciding game of a series of three the Central High School girls decisively triumphed over our girls on Saturday afternoon in the Alumni Gymnasium, 26 to 17.

The first half was extremely close and interesting thruout, and ended with the score tied at 13 to 13. The total would favor our team for a minute or two and then the visitors would attain a slight advantage, all the time the result of the game being in doubt, but the second half of the contest tells a different story. Our girls could not keep up the pace and slowly but surely the visitors forged ahead until the game was safely theirs.

Captain Engle played her usual creditable game, and the guards Rupp and Houser did ample justice to their joint position. Miss Rote was again the star of the visiting quintet. Lineup:

Central H. S. Lebanon Valley
Rote ..... forward ..... Bubb
Smith ..... forward .... Gamble
Starry ..... centre ..... Engle
Richards .... guard .... Williams
Maurer ..... guard ..... Houser
Field goals—Bubb 3, Gamble, Engle 3, Rote 5, Smith 3, Starry 3.
Foul goals—Engle, 3 out of 9; Rote 4 out of 7. Substitutions—Rupp for Houser. Referee—Loomis. Scorer—Guyer.

The editor solicits contributions and items of interest to the College from the students and Alumnae. All articles for publication should be given or sent to the editor not later than Saturday evening.

It would seem that if a group of college students, as a social unit, should have one characteristic that would distinguish them from all other groups, it would be in their manner of judging their fellow students. Unfortunately, however, too many people jump at conclusions and form opinions on mere circumstantial evidence, without stopping to inquire deep enough to find the real truth. We do not seem able to get away from the old adage, "Once bad, always bad", and refuse to give the individual, in question, the benefit of any doubt or the chance to redeem himself. Moreover we fail to speak that word of encouragement that might possibly start a life all over again.

It is easy to jump at conclusions when facts are scarce and the view is taken from one's own angle of vision. Two and two do make four, but there is always a possibility that there has been added to the first and one subtracted from the second, which changes the sum materially.

Suspicion, cynicism and doubt are great factors in modern life. People doubt and question each other and impugn each other's motives, when how much easier it would be to accept people as you find them.

"Judge not lest ye be judged," is wisdom as well as religion. Even when all the evidence is against, and things look decidedly black for the accused, human love and human charity should assert themselves and make allowances.

The lack of faith you show in someone else is evidence against your self. If you suspect other people of wrong deeds and unworthy conduct, you suggest at once that you are capable of them. In most cases, motives that you believe other people to possess are wholly of your own creation.

Hasty judgement is never fair. Don't jump at conclusions. Such proceedings will either land you in the water of doubt, or cause you to strike and bruise yourself against the gangplank of misunderstanding but it will never bring you safely abroad the ship of justice.

Y. M. C. A.

Although the session of the Y. M. C. A. was one of the poorest attended this year, it was helpful to all present. Rufus Snyder, the leader, read the parable on the barren fig tree and based his remarks on this passage. He pointed out the fact that we must all necessarily bear fruit if we are to fulfill God's purpose in our lives. This demands individual effort and is not accomplished by merely following the crowd. When we fail to be fruitful we are like the fig tree spoken of in the parable and deserve to suffer the same fate.

Y. W. C. A.

Sunday afternoon the Y. M. C. A. had its annual Freshman meeting. The leader of the afternoon Miss Myrtle Lefever gave the Freshman's view of her first year at college and her impression of the Y. W. C. A. in general. Miss Beatrice Stereavy, Miss Verna Mutch and Miss Evelyn Snively spoke of other phases of college life. The music also was in the hands of the Freshmen. Miss Virginia Smith accompanied by Miss Jennie Sebastian sang "Crossing the Bar", and Miss Helen Heiney rendered a piano solo.

The best wishes of the members of the association go out to these new girls; and it is the sincere and earnest hope, especially of the Seniors, that when the time comes for these girls to take their places in Association work, that they all will be able to carry out the work to a greater degree than has ever been done before.

Within yourself lies the cause of whatever enters into your life in exact accord with what you would have it.

Life is not we may say, for mere passing pleasure, but for the highest unfoldment that one can attain to, the noblest character that one can grow, and for the greatest service that one can render to all mankind.

Social Notes

Miss Ruth Croman delightfully entertained a number of the college students on Friday evening in honor of her guest Miss Caroline Hill. Those present were: Misses Seaman, Caroline Hill, Ethel Lerew, Erdine Lerew, Ethel Rupp, Mildred Rupp, Evelyn Snively, Merab Gamble, Marguerite Engle, Myrtle Hawthorne, Esther Fink, Ruth Hughes, Messrs. Wine, Evans, White, R. Swartz, T. Adams, Larew, P. Rupp, R. Rupp, Snively, Loomis, Foreburg, Shetter, Beidle.

Mr. Abram M. Long has returned to school after visiting friends in Millersburg. While there Mr. Long spoke in the United Brethren church on "College Day."

Miss Ella Mutch is spending several days at her home in Ephrata.

Miss Kathryn Ruth is visiting at her home in Sinking Springs.

Miss Mary Bergdoll, or Robeson, visited friends at the college over the week-end.

Miss Erdine Lerew, of Dillsburg, is visiting her sister at North Hall.

Mr. Joseph Rutherford spent the week-end at his home in Royalton.

Mr. Wm. Swartz spent Sunday at his home in Moddetown.

Miss Kathryn Harris visited her parents at her home in Harrisburg.

Miss Mildred Rupp, of Oberlin, is visiting her sister, Miss Ethel Rupp, at North Hall.

Miss Caroline Hill, of Hughesville is the guest of Miss Ruth Croman.

The Eurydice Choral Club Concert

The annual concert of the Eurydice Choral Club will be given on Thursday evening March 29th. The club will be assisted this season by Vera Curtis, soprano who has been connected with the Metropolitan Opera Company for the past five seasons. Miss Curtis has received many favorable criticisms for her singing and becomes a favorite with her audience wherever she appears.

Aside from this attraction the club will have the assistance of Mr. R. Porter Campbell who will preside at the new organ for the production of the cantata "Pan on a Summer Day", which will be given with organ and piano accompaniment and under the direction of Miss Gertrude K. Schmidt, Miss Ora Bachman is the club accompanist.

Glee Club Trip

several cars of another train being off the track, but Tower City was reached in time for everyone to enjoy an excellent meal.

The concert, which had been promoted by Harry Katerman, '18' was a success in every possible way. The theater was filled with an enthusiastic audience, who enjoyed the program given. The next morning quite a few of the fellows visited the coal mines near the town, and were greatly interested in what they saw, although they were disappointed in the effort to go down the shaft into the mine.

Tuesday evening found the club in Lykens, where a crowd which filled the High School auditorium to its utmost capacity greeted them. Here again some of the boys visited the nearby mines and saw how coal is gotten from the earth.

Millersburg was visited on Wednesday. Immediately upon arriving here, Walter Deibler, '19 who had charge of the concert, took the boys to the High School building, where the club entertained the pupils for a short time. Again a capacity house greeted the boys, and everyone seemed well pleased with their efforts to entertain.

Then Shamokin! The audience here was the largest the club has sung to this season. The concert was held in the new High School auditorium, which proved to be an ideal place for entertainment purposes.

The last concert of the week was given at Sunbury, on Friday evening. Upon arriving in town, the fellows were taken to the U. B. Church, where a fine lunch was served, picnic style, in the banquet room. Did the boys enjoy it? Ask anyone. The concert was again a great success, and the people were more than pleased. Quite a few students from Bucknell and Susquehanna attended the concert.

A quartette of the boys stayed in Sunbury over Sunday and sang in church services there, while another quartette was in Millersburg on Sunday. Needless to say, all the fellows enjoyed the trip, but nevertheless they were anxious to return to old L. V.

The type of thought that we entertain both creates and draws conditions that crystallize about it, conditions exactly the same in nature as is the thought that gives them form. Thoughts are forces, and each creates of its kind, whether we realize it or not.

Look to the end, and resolve to make the service of Christ the first object in what remains in life, with indifference to the opinion of your fellow-men, but also without fear of it.

There is always a golden age, soon to be behind us, which, at every period of our life, is before us—just as tomorrow's yesterday is still today. So we may all take courage. It is never too late to mend.

Making up one's mind, even if it can only be to meet what comes courageously, is the secret of "taking heart"

Courage consists not in hazarding without fear, but being resolutely minded in a just cause. The brave man is not he who feels no fear, for that were stupid and irrational, but he whose noble soul subdues its fear and bravely dares the danger nature shrinks from.

If you mean to act nobly, and seek to know the best things that God has put within the reach of men, you must fix your mind on that end, and not what will happen to you because of it.

by Snavely and Peiffer, decided the contest.

The Freshmen girls would have won had not one single obstacle been in their pathway to victory. That "obstacle" was Helen Bubb, who, with the only field goals in the game caused the final score to favor the Sophs by just these six points which she gained from field. The contests are history now,—and already the Freshmen are saying, "Wait until the baseball game." Line-up:

1920	1919
Barnhart ... forward	Fulford
Haines ... forward	Peiffer
Seltzer ... centre	Mackert
Fishburn ... guard	Shetter
Groff ... guard	Snavely

Field goals—Fulford 5, Shetter 4, Haines 2, Groff 2, Barnhart, Peiffer, Mackert 2. Foul goals—Shetter, 16 out of 25; Gishburn, 20 out of 29. Substitutions—Baynes for Groff. Referee, Taggart. Scorer, White.

1919	1920
Fencil ... forward	Snavely
Fasnacht ... forward	Houser
Bubb ... centre	Lerew
Creighton ... guard	Croman
Moore ... guard	Rupp

Field goals—Bubb 3. Goals from foul—Houser, 1 out of 4; Croman, 3 out of 6; Bubb, 4 out of 9. Referee, Loomis. Scorer, White.

Coreds Have Open House

On Saturday night the one big event of the year, i. e. from the standpoint of interest and curiosity, was realized when our fair Coreds had "open house." Without exception the comments and criticisms of all the visitors were favorable and the girls are to be commended on their unsurpassed ability to keep house. The two hours allotted for the tour of the three domiciles seemed all too short but the program of the evening required that it should end at eight o'clock.

In response to the kind invitation of the girls, everybody assembled in the gymnasium and spent the remainder of the evening in having a time that was not less enjoyable than that which had gone before. They proved that they were as able entertainers as they were house-keepers and all present had a pleasant evening.

MEN GIVE THEIR HOME CONCERT

The home concert of the Men's Club was given Tuesday evening, March 20, in Engle Hall, to an exceptionally large and appreciative audience. The entire program was well rendered and enjoyed by every one, which was shown by the hearty applause. Mr. Fink, who is assisting the club this season as reader gave much pleasure with his selections. A new feature of the program this year was an operetta written by Prof. Sheldon. It contains several rousing choruses which were well given. The following is the programme:

Baseball Prospects

In less than two weeks the baseball season will be ushered in by the Lebanon Valley-Mercersburg game at Mercersburg, and every day the Campus or Athletic Field is the scene of active preparation for the coming contest.

On Monday the Freshmen were given a day off (?) in order to roll the athletic field and track and to otherwise put it in condition for use, a service for which the college is greatly indebted, and the baseball candidates are now practicing on the diamond. For nearly two weeks the men have been outside and a first class Varsity is being fast rounded into shape by the coach and captain.

This spring Lebanon Valley has been very fortunate in the number and quality of her baseball candidates, and taking into consideration the fact that McNelly and Buckwalter are the only men from last season's nine there is every reason to believe that the "National Game" will be played this spring to the glory of the Alma Mater. The greatest apparel problem at the present seems to be the catching department. "Bob" Atticks is the only veteran catcher at college and should he sustain an injury in the early part of the year someone must be coached to take his place.

Many of the new men look like fine material, and of course it is impossible to pick the wheat from the chaff in March, but among those who deserve mention as among the probable and the possible are "Art." Bayner, Ed. Anderson, "Hinkey" Haines, Adams, Fishburn, Stahl, Barnhart, Hummel, Forsburg and one or two others.

Again we mention the Freshies and thank them for their sacrifice for the college. Now it is up to the players to do their part for old L. V.

Do not forget the Eurydice Club Concert
to-morrow night, in Engle Conservatory.
Miss Vera Curtis of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Co. will be the special attraction.

Three Alumnae Speak in Chapel

Those who were present at chapel on Friday morning had the privilege of listening to inspiring and encouraging words from three old Alumnae of Lebanon Valley College. Dr. Faust, of the Class of 1889, who is at present a professor in the Bonebrake Theological Seminary spoke first. His address was followed by shorter talks from Mr. G. A. Richie, '13, and Mr. David Young, '15, both Seniors at the Seminary. All three men were here to arouse a general interest in Christian service and a special interest in the work for which our Seminary prepares men.

Dr. Faust, in his address, dealt with the question that confronts every young man and woman who think seriously about a life's work, and he asked the question, "Is it worth while for a young person to consider the question of being of special service in the Kingdom of God?" We have two standards to guide us, the absolute standard and the relative standard. The first is set by God, while the other is determined by our environment. Is your selection of a life work going to be made with an altruistic aim or merely thru a selfish desire? The call to any vocation, as Dr. Faust gave it, is thru the pressing need in any particular field of activity. He next distinguished between preference and obligation in choosing what one should do, and commended the latter as the better criterion by which to be guided. In closing he again asked the question with which he had began his talk and left it with the students as food for thought.

Mr. Richie and Mr. Young both gave interesting reminiscences of their days at Lebanon Valley, and also made some appropriate remarks, complementary to Dr. Faust's address.

Y. M. C. A.

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon, Harvey Geyer spoke on the subject of "Squandering Time." His thought was that many students waste too much time which could be used to better advantage. Many times, a person says, "It's only ten minutes until class time, I can't do anything in ten minutes." Yet ten minutes wasted six days a week means a waste of fifty-two hours a year, and how much we could do if we had fifty-two hours before us. Too many students squander time in doing things which are not conducive to helping them, but rather degrade them. If this time would be used in some useful way, how much better it would be.

HONESTY

One of the greatest assets to any human character is that quality or ability of being honest in at least three different phases—honesty of hand, honesty of lips and honesty of heart. These former two are really based on results of the latter, but are important enough to receive separate consideration.

To be honest of hand should receive our utmost effort. This is nothing more than the embodiment of the principle "Be to others as you'd have them be to you." You condemn and cruelly punish the man who with the revolver in hand waylays the traveler and robs him, but you say nothing of the employer who by paying a starving wage waylays the workman in his economic needs. You despise the safe cracker, but you praise the man who waters stocks and call him a "business man." I am merely suggesting that much of the high sounding and apparently "clever" business dealing are as synonymous to the most crooked deals as six is to half a dozen.

And, then, I need hardly discuss honesty of lips "when you are in doubt." Mark Twain used to say, "speak the truth." There are many people who mean to be honest but who are woefully prone to exaggerate. Every wreck kills someone, when he is merely hurt; every unfortunate one has committed a crime when he has merely been indiscreet.

They are quite confident someone is drunk when he is merely jolly, quite confident someone has dissipated when merely overworked. I tell you it is a habit that ought to be cured—it has lost battles, broken hearts, embittered life and engrossed mere venial faults to the size of impardonable sins.

The last but not least, the honesty of heart, is really the root and foundation of the former two, for "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh," Shakespeare merely echoed Jesus' words when he said "To thine own self be true and it shall follow as night the day that thou canst be false to no one else."

How many of us would appreciate being called vulgar or disrespectful and yet those terms apply to all of us. Every day we do things which are actually vulgar and disrespectful without realizing that they are so and unknowingly call down upon ourselves the censure of others. Perhaps you may ask in what way am I disrespectful? Why do I appear vulgar? For example listen to this bit of conversation:

"Oh, say Jack what do we have in Ed today?"

"Thirty pages?"

"Gee whiz I'll have to get to studying for prof's stiff and expects us to know every blame bit of it."

Or this one:

"Say, prof, won't you explain that again? It didn't sink in."

If we are going to be thoroughbred college men and women wouldn't it be well for us to begin now to be more respectful and address instructors as professors to do away with what we commonly call "slang" and in so doing become more familiar with the best of English? Yes "slang" is a little thing; but it is these little vulgarisms which will be noticeable when we leave college; these little signs of disrespect which will stamp us as unrefined.

Strangers will know nothing about the knowledge we have acquired in our four years at college nor will they care to know, unless they are first impressed by our refinement, by the respect we show our superiors. However little we may realize it, we are models for those younger than ourselves and why not strive to be an influence for good.

RESOLUTIONS

We, the faculty of Lebanon Valley College, wish to express our most sincere sympathy to Professor and Mrs. S. O. Grimm.

And in this their hour of bereavement, we commend them to the grace of our heavenly Father, who in his infinite wisdom, is able to sustain and comfort in every hour of sorrow and need.

HAVE YOU

placed your order for a Quittapahilla 1918? If not, will you kindly do so at once, if you desire a book. The final order will be sent to the printer in the near future. A general solicitation has been made but in view of the fact that some persons may have been missed by us, we are giving another opportunity for the placing of orders.

SOCIAL

Mrs. Marian Hempt visited at her home in Camp Hill.

Miss Marie Richwine spent the week end at her home in Ephrata.

Miss Violet Wolfe and Miss Ruth Huber spent Monday in Lebanon.

Miss Ruth Heffelman and Miss Katherine Dasher were the guests of friends in Cleona, on Sunday.

Miss Adams and Miss Schmidt enjoyed an automobile trip with friends on Sunday.

Miss Ruth Loser and Miss Merab Gamble visited friends in Lebanon on Sunday.

Miss Helen Brightbill entertained a number of friends at her home on Main street, on Saturday afternoon, at which time her engagement to Mr. Philo Statton was announced.

Mr. Abram Long was the guest of friends in Lebanon on Sunday.

Y. W. C. A.

In the Sunday meeting of the Y. W. C. A. the girls got a glimpse of what our association was doing during the summer. Miss Mildred Dunkle, the leader, first spoke of the eight weeks club she conducted in her home town, after which Miss Nettie Showers, Miss Carrie Miller and Miss Grace Snyder gave us a very interesting insight into the work they and their clubs had done. Our association has been very fortunate this year in having four of these eight weeks clubs to our credit, and we hope that during the coming summer we may greatly surpass this number. College girls do not realize what an influence they can exert over the younger girls, especially those of high school age. Great opportunities for service are open to all those who are willing to spend a very small part of their time in organizing eight weeks clubs in their home communities.

RESOLUTION

Whereas, it has pleased God in His infinite wisdom to call from this life our fellow Clonian, Elizabeth Jenkins, be it resolved;

That we extend our deepest sympathy to the members of the bereaved family whom we commend to our loving Heavenly Father who never makes mistakes.

That a copy of these resolutions be placed on the minutes of the Clonian Literary Society, a copy sent to the family, and that a copy be published in the College News

Miriam R. Oyer,
Ada M. Beidler
Marie B. Richwine.

Clio.

Clio programme for March 23 was, as you know, a comic one and perhaps may best be reported in the critic's own words.—The extraordinary "Philo" programme this evening by these illustrious experts possessing quick intellect and adroitness was overwhelming and vitalizing. The reading "Katerina" by "Fraulein" Bauder was transcendent, admirable and exquisite both in exhibition and accent. The vocal solo by "Gnadige Kindlein" Losien was sumptuous, glorious and eminent. The character of her rhythmic and melodic tones, the qualities of her voice and its prevailing effect was entrance and exhilarating. When Miss Showers had once advanced into the cupid realms, the God of love breathed forth very amiably, pleasingly and delightfully the subject which lay nearest to her heart. Remember—"They dream in courtship but in wedlock awake." The piano solo by our most distinguished musician "femina" Engle was amusing, diverting, and melodious. Her technique was good. Through the movement exercises she showed much skill and it was clearly observed she did not display a single trait of incompetency. The subject of "why," cause, reason, wherefore, this interrogative question was sifted, consumed and torn asunder in a vigorous sharp, severe, acute, shrewd and witty manner. The vocal quartette in its strain, style and movement was copious and superabundant. We are at a loss to know how "Sousa's band" has an actual being without them. The German dialogue by "Fraus" Ruth and Bachman was "vortrefflich." They conversed unreservedly. The triumph and mastery of Normandy was a systematic account. This nation sounds most homelike to Ada's ears. We are glad Miss Beidler still clings to Norman and we hope in the future she will be victorious. The editor's paper was modern, fresh, and bearing all "Lebanon Valley's" information. The chorus was stimulating. The critic has exhausted her stock of words and probably by vindication of brother Webster next week, this censuring might be more ably expounded and propounded.

Philo.

Philo's opening number Friday evening was a well prepared "Resume" of recent events of importance by Mr. Troup. This was followed by a paper on "Biology and the Nation's Food" by Mr. Sloat. This was a very interesting paper, some of the great problems of securing sufficient food for a nation such as the United States being discussed.

The debate was almost entirely impromptu the subject being whether or not railroad operating expenses should be separated between freight and passenger services. Affirmative, Ehrhart and Lefever; Negative, Dehuiff and Snoke. The affirmative winning.

A special musical feature, a vocal trio, by Messrs. Zeigler, Williams and Fink was given much applause.

"War and the Child" another subject of military type was discussed by Mr. Kratyer. Just how children should be made cognizant of the horrors of war and yet retain a strong patriotism is a rather formidable problem.

"Living Thots" by Editor Baker closed the program.

Kalc.

The first number of the program of the regular literary session last Friday evening was "National Comment" by M. Thornton. This was an extremely well selected collection of new items, many of which might be overlooked by the average reader of the newspapers.

C. B. Kleinfelter in his paper on the "Columbian Dispute" gave a clear, concise account of this complex and intricate situation in international affairs. The paper was well written and well prepared.

The question for debate "Resolved that Gov. Brumbaugh was justified in vetoing the Sproul Resolution," was one of interest to every inhabitant of the Keystone State, and was debated with earnestness on both sides, R. Mease and H. Zerbe defending the affirmative side and H. Sherk and P. Hilbert championing the negative.

After a spirited chorus by the Society, S. Dundore gave an interesting discussion on "Popular Education in America." The writer traced the rise of popular education in this country and gave some of the features of the system in vogue today.

The Society was favored by the presence of D. E. Young, '15, who gave a forceful and helpful address.

Lebanon Valley Humbles Temple

Temple evidently had open house for L. V. on Saturday, for our team certainly did go thru them, not stopping until they had reached the twelfth story, at the same time hoid-ing their opponents to their own basement. From the foregoing de-tails we gather that the score was 12-0 with L. V. on top. The boys played wonderfully well and too much credit cannot be given to them for the unity of their playing. The honors of the game were evenly divided among the players, all of the new men playing with the sta-bility of veterans. The game proved a very successful opening of the season, and it is to be hoped that the season may be a banner season for L. V.

Annual Conference of Student Y. M. C. A. Officers

The faculty and students of the college will entertain the 26th An-nual Conference, of the Student As-sociation Officers, which convenes Friday, April 27, to Sunday 29. This conference will be made up of forty to fifty Christian leaders of the As-sociations of Pennsylvania Colleges, who come together for the purpose of being instructed for their year's work. Among the leaders of the oc-casion are: J. Lovell Murry, Educa-tional Secretary, Student Volunteer Movement; Harrison Elliot, Bible Study Secretary, International Com-mittee; J. B. Carruthers, State Sec-retary of Penna.; Dr. G. D. Gos-sard; J. H. Ehlers, Student Field Secretary, Penna.; and W. E. Mil-ler, Student Field Secretary, Middle Atlantic States.

The students, and faculty are cordially invited to attend these in-spiring meetings and especially the Sunday afternoon session of the conference.

The delegates will be entertained in the rooms of the dormitory and every student will help in giving them the true Lebanon Valley spir-it in this fellowship with us.

In next week's issue a complete program for every meeting of the conference will be given.

PATRIOTIC MASS MEETING

As another evidence of the wave of patriotic enthusiasm which is sweeping over the colleges of the country causing definite steps for preparedness to be taken, a mass meeting was called in the college chapel on Wednesday evening. It's purpose was to obtain school senti-ment concerning preparations at our own school.

Patriotic songs preceded Prof. Kirkland's plea for action in prepa-ration for national service. Or-ganization among the colleges has been steadily advancing and L. V. aims to be in line with the rest. It was urged that the men prepare by

Kalo, Celebrates 40th Anniversary

On Friday evening, April 13th, the Kalozetean Literary Society cele-brated its fortieth anniversary in a very pleasing manner. There were two parts to the festivities, an in-terlectual and musical feast in Engle Hall, and later a reception in the Alumni gymnasium.

Both places were tastefully decor-ated with Kalo's red and old gold with also a timely display of Old Glory.

Each number of the program was splendidly rendered and with the re-ception that followed proved that Kalo is maintaining, individually, and collectively, her high intellec-tual and hospitable standard.

The program follows:---

March, The World's Progress ..... Victor Herbert.
Invocation .... Prof. A. E. Shroyer
Overture, Felicia ... R. Greenwald
President's Address, Abram M. Long Piano Solo, Theme and Final (Symphonic Etudes) ..... Schumann.
J. Frederic Arnold
Oration ..... The Climax of Will
R. Walp Williams
Quartette
a. As the Dawn .... Otto Cantor
b. Heroes of the Times .....
Adam Geibel
Kalo Quartette.
Oration ..... The New Civilization
G. W. Hallman.
Reading Courtship of Mrs. Corney,
(Selected from Oliver Twist)
Ammon Boltz.
Chorus, To Thee O Country, .....
Julius Eichberg
Kalo Chorus.
Concert, One Fleeting Hour .....
Dorothy Lee

Among the number of Alumni who made of Kalo's Anniversary an opportunity to renew old acquain-tances were Misses Viola Gruber, '16, Josephine Mathias, '16, Esther Moyer '16; Messrs. J. Maurice Ly-ster '15, Victor Heffelfinger '14, Sankey Ernst '16, John Long '16, Jo-seph Hollinger '16, Alucia Shonk '16 Robert Hartz '16, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Landis, both of '14.

EDITORIAL

This edition of the News is the initial effort of a new and practically inexperienced staff. We feel deeply the responsibility that is ours; we know a school paper should be a true criterion of the school's life and it is toward that end we mean to exert our utmost efforts.

Politically we are neutral; nationally we uphold Democracy; and always, we stand for a bigger, better, and happier Lebanon Valley.

Certainly we shall make mistakes, they occur in the best-regulated "families" and in anticipation of ours we crave your greatest leniency of judgment.

Remember, our interests are your interests, the presentation of material to be published is by no means limited to members of the staff and any time you have something of interest, be willing to share it with your neighbors by writing it out and handing it to any member of the staff. It will always be gratefully received.

AMONG THE COLLEGES

Ursinus is in the midst of a campaign to raise $500 for the war prisoners in Europe. It is conducted by the Y. M. C. A. cabinet and is a part of the national work of the Y. M. C. A. in caring for prisoners thru John R. Mott. Already $150,000 has been contributed by the college students of America.

Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Johns Hopkins have offered their complete equipments to the government as training camps for reserve officers.

Lawrence College, Wisconsin, students are devoting three evenings per week to systematic military drill in the local armory. The drill is not compulsory but is participated in by practically all the students.

The University of Penna. was the first to organize its men with regards to their greatest possible aid to their country, other schools are taking advantage of her example and the result promises to be one of the greatest aids in locating material needed.

The University of Wisconsin has announced that commencement will be held May 1st and that the remainder of the school year will be devoted to military maneuvers for the men, and Red Cross work for the ladies.

The men at Whitehead hall of Oberlin have decided to appear in the old-fashioned shiny celluloid collars. The men hope to cut down expenses considerably in this way. A small sponge is said to cut down laundry bills.

Among the other colleges that have adopted military drill are Franklin & Marshall, who has cancelled her athletic schedules; Swarthmore and Haverford the Quaker colleges, the latter having appropriated five thousand dollars for equipment; Muhlenburg, compulsory drill; Susquehanna University, Ursinus and Dickinson.

The Annual May Day exercises given under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. will be held this year on Saturday, May 5th.

Y. W. C. A.

"The Red Cross Movement" was the subject of a most interesting discussion at the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on Sunday. Miss Ruth Hughes as the leader gave a most clear view of the origin, aim and work of the Red Cross Society.

"In ministering to the needs of the body we often minister to the needs and wounds of the soul in bringing news of the Great Physician."

A solo by Miss Colt added to the interest of the meeting.

Y. M. C. A.

"Faith" was the subject of an interesting discussion at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday.

Mr. Mark Wingerd was the leader. He defined "Faith" in its various forms. His most important point was, that we should not only have Faith in Christ and in ourselves, but we must have faith in others.

Mr. Edwin Zeigler, the retiring President of the Y. M. C. A., gave a brief outline of the last year's work and success.

Mr. William Martin, the present President, gave an outline of the work that is to be followed during the coming year.

THE DAY'S RESULT

Is anybody happier because you passed his way?
Does any one remember that you spoke to him today?
This day is almost over and its toiling time is thru;
Is there any one to utter now a kindly word of you?

Did you give a cheerful greeting to the friend who came along?
Or a churlish sort of "howdy" and then vanish in the throng?
Were you selfish pure and simple, as you rushed along your way.
Or is some one mighty grateful for a deed you did today?

Can you say tonight, in parting with the day that's slipping fast,
That you helped a single brother of the many that you passed?
Is a single heart rejoicing over what you did or said?
Does a man whose hopes were fading now with courage look ahead.

Did you waste the day or use it, was it well or poorly spent?
Did you leave a trail of kindness or a scar of discontent?
As you close your eyes in slumber do you think that God would say
You have earned one more tomorrow by the work you did today?

Edgar A. Guest in the Detroit Free Press.

SOCIAL NOTES

The following visitors attended the Fortieth Anniversary Exercises of the Kalozetean Literary Society.

Miss Pearl Brehm, Oberlin as the guest of Miss Louisa Williams, Miss Margaret Dunn, Lansdowne as the guest of Miss Elen Moyer. Miss Kathryn Adams, Sunbury as the guest of Miss Larew. Mr. and Mrs. Nissley, Mt. Joy as the guest of their son Raymond Nissley. Miss Sara McDowell, Chambersburg, as the guest of Miss Ruth Huber. Mr. Charles Thomas, Waynesboro, as the guest of Mr. Myrl Brown. Miss Laura Long as the guest of her brother Mr. Abram Long.

The engagement of Miss Edna Seaman, Prof. of English at Lebanon Valley College to the Rev. Robert F. Kline, rector of St. John's Memorial church, Ashland, Pa. was announced at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. George Hummel, Allentown, Pa.

The announcement above came as a surprise, but we are always glad for something new, and this is "new".

Through the columns of the "News" the students wish to extend their most hearty congratulations in wishing to Miss Seaman every joy and happiness life affords.

training here as far as possible so that they may take their places as college men should, leaders in the work of building up a strong army from undeveloped material. The work of the women was emphasized strongly and the establishment of a Red Cross society was advocated.

Coach Guyer declared himself in favor of military training here, but advocated the maintenance of our athletics as a means of keeping the men in the best possible physical condition. Several of the men gave their views on the subject and acting upon one of their suggestions a petition for a system of military training to be established as a part of collegiate work has been handed to the faculty. Accepting the challenge of one of the men at the meeting, the faculty declared itself in favor of the movement and pledged their full support to it at the chapel services on the following morning.

Judging from the general sentiment, L. V. will soon take her place among the colleges which are taking a practical step in the upholding of the President's action.

MISS MACLAREN PRESENTS LAST STAR COURSE NUMBER.

The last of the series of Star Course entertainments of the year was presented in the college chapel on Saturday evening, April 14th, when Miss Gay Zenola Maclaren read to an appreciative audience the play entitled "Bought and Paid For".

GAY ZENOLA MAC LAREN.

The play consisted of four acts and from the start the plot proved fascinating and was closely followed by the audience. Miss Maclaren's character impersonation was of the highest type and her power of vocal expression was almost that of a ventriloquist. Miss Maclaren's work evoked the frequent and hearty applause of the audience. Everyone present will agree that in this number the students and friends of the college were permitted to hear a gifted artist seldom equalled on the star course programs

EURYDICE CLUB CONCERT

The Annual Concert of the Eurydice Choral Club was given Thursday evening, March 29, in Engle Hall. The club was assisted by Miss Vera Curtis, Soprano, of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

To Miss Schmidt, Director, the girls of the Club, and to Miss Curtis great praise should be given for their very able production.

A repetition of the program was given in Palmyra Monday evening, April 2nd. Large audiences heard both productions.

Education does for genius what the grindstone does for the scythe, if made of good steel grinding brings it to the edge; but if the scythe is good for nothing, the more you grind the duller it becomes.

Autos and Railroads.

In a considerable number of annual reports of railroad presidents in the last two years mention has been made of inroads which automobiles are making on railroad passenger business. There is another aspect, however, of the development of the automobile and automobile truck which may turn out to be of considerable advantage to railroad development. The use of the automobile and the automobile truck is acting as a preventive of branch line railroad building, thus conserving capital for betterments to existing lines. A good road is built by the state or county, and this road, with the development of the automobile truck, acts as a feeder for the railroads which it crosses and, moreover, a feeder built with the public's capital and not the railroad company's capital. Unprofitable branch line mileage has been the old man of the sea on the back of many a railroad in this country. A good state or county road crossing a railroad will be a feeder to it for forty to fifty miles on either side of the track. At the present time there are many rural communities which are sending freight and passengers over forty miles or more of good road to the nearest railroad by automobile—as much traffic as the railroad could hope to get over a branch line, the interest charges on which would be great enough to eat up nearly all the profit on the line haul.—Railway Gazette.

Gasoline Switching Locomotive.

The gasoline switching locomotive designed for an Erie railroad freight yard in Chicago has a hauling capacity of 500 tons, carrying 35 gallons of gasoline, and weighs 44,000 pounds in working condition. It has a total length of 18-2-3 feet, with a wheel base of 6½ feet. Its four cylinders are 9 inches in diameter with 16-inch stroke and the driving wheels are 42 inches in diameter. Both magnets and battery ignition are provided. It has chain drive, speeds of three and one-eighth and eight miles an hour, and uses multiple disks for the main clutch and jaw clutches for the transmission. The locomotive has electric self-starter and headlight, and various safety devices.

Varsity Wins Three and Loses One

On their Southern trip the wearers of the White and Blue were the possessors of a jinx which they invariably left on their hosts in all cases but one, and in that, they almost "put it over" on them, because they bagged three games of the four played.

The first game played was with Mount St. Josephs. White hurled for the White and Blue and succeeded in striking out sixteen men. During the course of the game Keating and Haines faced "St. Joe's" pitcher and defied him to "shoot 'em over," which he did, greatly to his grief for "Billie" and "Hink" clouted the ball for timely gains. The game ended with the score 6-5 with St. Joseph leading.

The second game, played with Western Maryland was easy "pick-ins". Brown filled the box, and that very ably for he held his opponents to two runs, while L. V. ran up a score of six. The final score was 6-2 in Lebanon Valley's favor. Haines and Zeigler starred.

The next place visited was Mount St. Mary's. Here again L. V. unloaded her jinx on her opponents, and took the game by four runs, whitewashing St. Mary's. "Gus" Zeigler pitched in his usual masterful style and held his enemy flat. The game was featured by Lebanon Valley's superior base running. Final score 4-0.

The last visit was paid to Mercersburg and here L. V. won a hard fought battle. "Carty" Swartz was Lebanon Valley's tosser, and pitched a homer in this game, and Keating, J. Zeigler and Kerman helped much to run up L. V.'s score. The final score was 4-3.

SCRUBS PLAY FIRST GAME

Saturday afternoon came, and the grandstand was full of students eager to see the Scrubs "beat up" Lebanon High. To make a long story short "Jupe Pluvius" interfered with his rain barrel and cut the game short in the third inning with the score 3-0, the Scrubs having the long end of the affair. The battery Groube and Simmondet held their end, as well as Fishburn, Barnhart and Shettle.

Faculty Recital

A rare treat was given Annville and Lebanon Valley College on April 17, at Engle Hall, when the Faculty of the Conservatory gave a recital which has never been equalled at this College. A large audience found much to applaud in the rendering of the following program:

Y. M. C. A. Conference

The Christian Associations are awaiting the arrival of the delegates from the Universities, Colleges and Normal Schools of Penna. who assemble here this week for a Conference of three days. The opening session of the conference convenes Friday evening and, as the program indicates, the meetings will be held throughout Saturday and Sunday.

The students are cordially invited to attend these meetings and be benefitted by the instructions given by the student leaders in Christian work, who shall be present. Special emphasis is given the Sunday afternoon session—the culminating meeting of the conference—at which time J. Lowell Murry, Educational Secretary, Student Volunteer Movement, will address the faculty, students, and friends of the college. His subject will be "The Bearing of the European War on the World Program of Christianity."

The Associations ask the co-operation of every student in the entertainment of these delegates. The impression of Lebanon Valley College which they receive while here will be given by the student body at large, so get acquainted and have

Students Parade at Lebanon

On Thursday afternoon, April 19th, the students of L. V. were given an opportunity to show their patriotism in a way they may never again have. It was the occasion of Lebanon County renewing her pledge to her country and was held in the city of Lebanon where patriotic decorations were placed in every possible place inspiring the thousands gathered from all parts of the county to patriotic thoughts.

The main feature of the demonstration was, of course, the parade; a parade in which it is estimated ten thousand people marched and which required two hours to pass a given spot.

It was in this parade that Lebanon Valley demonstrated her true spirit of loyalty. Over two hundred students were in line, led by the college band of fifteen pieces and headed by a large transparency bearing the words, "Lebanon Valley College. We are ready to serve our Country."

In numbers, the boys and girls were about equally divided. The girls wearing caps of red, white and blue and marching in a formation that represented an American flag. Their appearance was ever the occasion for applause.

The boys marched in a company of squads and right well did they display evidence of the military training they have been taking. It was universally conceded that their marching was second only to that of Company H, of Lebanon, which has seen service on the border. This success is very gratifying and should inspire each one to harder work for a greater degree of perfection.

Public school children from all over the county were in line as well as various Patriotic, industrial and fraternal organizations. A remarkable showing was made by Civil War veterans and veterans of foreign wars; the number of foreign-born men who paraded to show their loyalty to the country of their adoption showed that this class can be relied upon in a National necessity.

When the parade ended all of the bands were massed and in the presence of thousands standing with heads bared played "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner," strains that could not help but fill each hearer with emotion.

EDITORIAL

Penn State students are agitating a movement to adopt the "saving daylight" plan in vogue in some European countries at the present time. By it each one sets his watch one hour ahead of the actual time and then forgets all about it, if possible. In school this would mean rising one hour earlier each morning and going through the entire day one hour ahead of the regular schedule. The student then, of course, is expected to retire an hour earlier each evening, the benefit resulting in the greater efficiency of the morning work and the added time in the evening for healthful recreation.

Whether or not such a plan is feasible for Lebanon Valley is hard to say, but a consideration of the number of lights in the Men's Dormitory until midnight and after each night surely argues for some change, individually or collectively.

Another argument is the fact that the end of this school year is only about eight short weeks in the future. It is a well known axiom that Spring time is not student time, but unfortunately Faculties disregard seasonal changes and have the same requirements in Spring as in winter.

You may or may not be behind in your work at this time, probably you are and should you be the best thing for you to do is to start "Saving daylight," officially or unofficially and catch up with your schedule, finish the year satisfactorily and you can go to vacation or war with a clear conscience.

Practically all of the officers in the school company are attempting to secure places in one of the various training camps for reserve officers. These camps are opened May 12th and continue for a period of three months and enlistment in one carries practically the same obligation as enlistment in the National Guard since each one promises to respond to any National call.

The plan of the Government is to give this three months training to thirty thousand men and at the end of that time select the ten thousand who are best fitted for commissions. It will be a "survival of the fittest" and should guarantee an excellent corps of reserve officers.

The Lebanon Valley men are not certain of securing places but are anxiously waiting news from the War Department that will decide their fate.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Miss Kathryn Dasher visited her home in Harrisburg over the week end.

Miss Madeline Kemp was the guest of Miss Esther Bordner.

Mr. Yetter entertained a number of his friends at a theatre party on Thursday after the parade.

Miss Marian Hempt visited Miss Lingenfelder at her home in Philadelphia.

Misses Dasher and Heffelman "took in" a very thrilling romance at the "movies" in Lebanon.

Prof. Seaman attended the Episcopal church at Lebanon on Sunday.

The intermediate social of the S. S. had a representation of L. V. people both among those on the program and those in the audience. Mr. McConel, '17, gave several selected readings, Mr. Bachman, '20, played a violin solo and the "Old Story Quartette" consisting of Messrs. Ramsey, '19, Deibler, '19, Walters, '18, Hilbert, '19, furnished several selections. Following the program games livened up the crowd and of course the eats were forced upon everyone. Needless to say everyone enjoyed the evening with the Intermediates.

Prof. Kirkland Called Home

On Sunday April 22nd, Professor Kirkland received news of the death of his father and at once left for his home in Haheville, N. C. to attend the funeral.

Mr. Kirkland was a retired minister and for some time has been very seriously ill having suffered a paralytic stroke a short time ago.

Through the news the students wish to extend their greatest sympathy to Professor Kirkland and his family in their sorrow.

At the Annual May Day election Miss Pauline Clark of Hershey was chosen as May Queen. Miss Clark's attendants will be chosen later.

Every preparation is being made by those in charge and the hearty co-operation of all taking part is urged in order to make the May Day exercises a success.

Y. W. C. A.

At a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. the leader, Miss Elena Secrist, gave a most interesting discussion on "Self Control." Discussions as to the different phases of "Self Control" were presented by a number of the girls.

The most important point was that above every thing we should control our tongues in trying to speak the best of our associates instead of giving way to the tendency of fault finding.

Every one found the meeting most helpful.

Y. M. C. A.

The regular Y. M. C. A. service Sunday afternoon was led by the new President W. N. Martin who made the meeting a very interesting one.

Mr. Martin outlined the work for the coming year and in doing so developed the theme that Y. M. C. A. men should not wait for the week of prayer but should continually, by means of closer, more intimate friendships with their fellow students, try to raise their plane of living.

ALUMNI

Two of our recent alumni, Messrs. Wm. Mickey, '16, and John Larew, '15, are making good at Harvard. Mr. Mickey is taking a course in the Graduate School of Business Administration, and was recently elected Vice President of the Harvard Business Men's Club, being the only man from an eastern school who got a position. He has passed an examination for service in the Coast Defense Squadron, and began his duties on Monday.

Mr. Larew has just completed his course for a Master's degree. He is now in the service of the Hull Shipbuilding Co., Boston Navy Yard, where he entered with the rank of Ensign. Both Mr. Mickey and Mr. Larew spent a short time with friends at school on Thursday before assuming their new duties.

Dr. Floyd Shaeffer, '10, just recently completed his post-graduate work at John Hopkins' University and a period of hospital internment lasting twenty-seven months. In this capacity he served as an assistant to Dr. Deever, who is one of the best surgeons of the present time.

CLIONIAN

The Editor of the Olive Branch informed the Society that Spring is here. That was indeed a self evident fact for it seemed that many wished to enjoy the free out-of-doors rather than the excellent musical programme that was rendered. Those, however, who were present had a musical treat. The music, both vocal and instrumental, was extremely good and was a pleasant diversion from the usual literary number. The papers of the retiring president and the retiring critic were greatly enjoyed by the Society and were a source of great information as well as entertainment. A word of praise must be given to the new Editor who presented a very clever edition to the much cherished Olive Branch.

KALUZETEAN.

One of the most instructive and enthusiastic sessions of the year, well characterized that of last Friday. The numbers showed preparation and tho't and each speaker was alive with his subject. The progress of the present Russian Revolution—read by Mr. Hallman gave an account of some of the plots of the present upheaval. Its reference to the plots of some of the aristocracy and the patriotism of the few who aided in the establishment of the right of the people brought to mind the great significance of this revolt in the history of the world.

Mr. Greer's account of the life of one of our greatest citizens and patriots, Daniel Webster, was detailed and interspersed with numerous incidents which characterized him very well. The vocal solo by Mr. L. Walters was much appreciated judging by the applause which brought forth a timely encore and scored an instant hit. A topic which at present is in the back ground of interest but which is of vital importance to international life, that of the Fallacies of modern socialism, was ably discussed by Mr. Nissley. The fallacies were well defined and the points advanced went far toward their proof as such.

The debate, "Resolved that a system of compulsory military training be instituted in the United States," was the most enthusiastic of the year. Each speaker was full of his subject and firmly believed the side he championed. P. E. V. Shannon and R. N. Keim upheld the affirmative while A. H. Light and G. W. Hallman defended the negatives. The discussion showed deep thought and conviction on each side. The decision of the judges was in the negative but the house after spirited general debate voted affirmative though not unanimously. The Examiner by the new editor was a treat as usual and its humor both in prose and poetry did much toward making the program complete. We extend to all a hearty invitation to enjoy an evening with us.

The latest course added to the curriculum of the Conservatory of Music of Marquette University is that of Ukelele playing.

PHILOKOSMIAN

The Philokosmian Literary Society held its regular meeting on Friday night in Philo Hall. The first number was an Impromptu by Mr. Fink on "What I Need Most." He showed that what he needed most, all of us need, "Money." The debate: Resolved, That Teachers in Primary Grades Should Receive Remuneration on a Par With Those of Secondary Grades, was very interesting and spicy. The Affirmative was upheld by Messrs. Snook and Gemmill, the Negative by Messrs. Risser and Deibler. The Affirmative won. A quartette consisting of Messrs. Her-ring, Heberlig, M. Wingerd and R. Wingerd next entertained the society. Mr. Katerman then gave a very instructive and interesting extemporaneous speech on "Good Teeth." The program was brought to a close by a paper on Obesity by Mr. M. Wingerd (who) he informed his hearers as to the origin, the benefits, and the harmful effects of Obesity.

This recital served as a dedication of the new Three-Manual Pipe Organ, the gift of Hiram Steinmetz, a loyal Alumnus, who formally presented the organ to his Alma Mater in a few well chosen remarks in Chapel services Wednesday morning.

Mr. Steinmetz is strong in his declarations of loyalty to Lebanon Valley, and he has surely proven he is in earnest by his spirit of giving, a spirit every student and Alumnus should applaud.

After a series of tryouts which were in some respects grilling, the relay team has been selected. It comprises the following men, who finished in the order in which they are named, Holden, McLaughlin, Isaacs, Williams, and Kennedy. This team will represent Lebanon Valley at the University of Pennsylvania annual relay meet.

For the past few weeks the other track men have been practicing at the shot put discuss throw, high jump, broad jump and pole vault. Horstick, Donohue and Mackert are doing splendid work along these lines.

Lebanon Valley 9, Susquehanna 1

On Friday afternoon the wearers of the White and the Blue added another victory to its credit. The game opened with Susquehanna on the aggressive but in their half of the inning they were unable to accomplish anything against "Gus" Zeigler's whirlwind hurling. In L. V.'s half of the first inning Keating succeeding in getting on first, and scored on Swartzes two bagger. "Gus" then faced the pitcher and slammed the ball among the automobiles in center field for a home run. The total number of runs for the inning being three. And so the game went merrily on in the same "lopsided" fashion until the fourth inning when Susquehanna's pitcher suddenly grew exceedingly tired and straightway was recommended for the bench. The new pitcher showed signs of "rapidly becoming no better" for in the seventh inning Gus laced out another home run making his total number of homers for this season, three. The final score was 9-1, they having managed to get a run over in the eighth. Looking upon the team from the student's viewpoint it is a model one. With each additional game the play takes on more and more of the big league "stuff", and its system is being reduced to a veritable human machine. Friday's game witnessed sensational playing by "Gus" Zeigler who always comes to the rescue as a pinch-hitter, Keating whose heavy clouts are the usual features of all his games, Anderson, Kerman and Brown who replaced Zeigler on the mound in the sixth and upheld his own to perfection. For Susquehanna Shannon and Clark were the mainstays; Shannon scoring their only run and Clark doing excellent work on first.

COMMENCEMENT PLAY

The Shakespearean play to be given June 13th under the direction of Miss May Belle Adams will be the "Comedy of Errors." The farcical plot turns upon the resemblance of twin brothers in whose service are two clownish servants also counterparts of each other. The parts of the twin brothers will be taken by David Fink and E. Harold White and the parts of the servants by Charles Horstick and Daniel Walter. It promises to be a very interesting play, so mark your calendar and plan to hear it.

Students Improve Athletic Field

With the possibility that they may be at any time called from school to do intensified farming the boys of the Senior and Sophomore classes were very much elated last Wednesday when they were given an opportunity to do work of a nature similar to that.

They were excused from all classes on the condition that they would do actual manual labor on the Athletic field and, actually, they responded with a will.

The remains of the old fence were entirely cleared away and in their stead new posts were placed at regular intervals, geometrically exact, and were then whitewashed. In addition to this all of the rubbish on the field was removed, the field presenting a much better appearance since it has been rejuvenated.

In spite of the many attractions on the field while they were working (such as the championship quarter-mile faculty race) the Seniors and Sophs almost completed the work. However, the finishing touches were left for the men of the Junior class who were excused from classes Friday for that purpose. Now that the field is in perfect order and we have such an excellent team to use it the only thing lacking is a modern, up-to-date grandstand. Suppose some kind-hearted alumnus or group of alumni should decide to fulfill our need and make that stand a realization. Wouldn't that person or group be famous in L. V.'s history?

OUR TRACK TEAM TAKES FOURTH PLACE AT PENN RELAYS

On Saturday our relay team composed of McLaughlin, Williams, Isaacs and Holden, was defeated in the Penn relays after a hard fought contest. At the outset of the contest Holden took the lead and finished first in his quarter by a five lead. He gave the baton to Williams who ran an excellent quarter and who increased the lead to fifteen yards. Isaacs was the next runner, but three of the various teams succeeded in gaining on him and McLaughlin. The race was hotly contested thruout and our runners are to be complimented on their excellent exhibition in the face of heavy odds. There were five entries in this event finishing in the following order: Delaware, Maryland State, Rhode Island, Lebanon Valley and St. John's.

Conference a Great Success

Friday evening marked the opening of the 26th annual conference of Penna. student association officers, conceded by several of the conference leaders to be the best held within the last seven years. The delegates were undoubtedly a select group of men representing the colleges of the state. The sessions were characterized by cooperation on the part of all present which pointed most surely to great help for all.

Our president, Dr. Gossard, made the address at this opening session in a sincere and convincing manner, laying down the principles of successful college life. Student problem discussions were carried on for a time and were continued at the Saturday morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Addresses by the conference leaders interspersed these discussions and many helpful hints were given the delegates. The reports of the various schools were encouraging as to work conducted during the past year. The sincerity of purpose of the presidents was expressed when they gave their decision to go back to their respective schools with more enthusiasm and determination to carry out the program of Christ for the individual, the school, and the world.

It was the general consensus of opinion that the conference was exceptional in that practically all the schools of the state were represented, and for its deep sincerity. This may be attributed to the spirit of warfare prevailing thru our country and the world which makes probable the enlistment of college men and so their stepping out into the real struggle of the great conflict. This cloud in the near future did not stir the men one particle from their determination to keep the organization intact to the end so that the kingdom of God might not suffer in the hearts and lives of men.

Leaders during the conference sessions were J. Lovell Murray, N. Y., Educational Sec'y of the Student Volunteer movement; J. B. Carruthers, Harrisburg, State Sec'y of Penna.; Dr. G. D. Gossard, Pres. L. V. C.; Rev. S. W. Herman, Harrisburg, Zion Lutheran church; David R. Porter, N. Y., Executive Sec'y of the National committee; Richard H. ## EDITORIAL

Since Congress has passed the conscription bill, we know that many of the men at L. V. will be effected by it. Some will leave within a few weeks. We know that many of us will go; then why not be a little prepared before we do go? Our faculty wants our college to line up with the other colleges. Then why does it not institute Compulsory Drill?

We are supposed to have drill twice a week and we do "sometimes." The results in the present state of affairs are not sufficient. The more efficient we are, the more prepared we are, the better the service we can render our country. What we need is Military Drill, not twice a week but every day. The results in this case would soon be apparent.

The time for the holding of the drill is the chief objection. It has been customary for the faculty to shorten the length of the class period in the afternoon during the latter part of our school year. Then why not shorten all the periods and give an hour each day for drill? Military drill will in the near future become compulsory. Why not steal a march on the rest and begin at once? We need the drill; we will have to have it; so why not begin it now?

Some may object because of religious scruples. That may to them seem a sufficient reason. However if they are conscripted, they must go whether they believe in it or not. The exercises, the ability to obey commands promptly and accurately and the helpful physical work will do them good and may at some future date be of great service. But to me, I can see no harm in going out into the open for the purpose of drilling and for the purpose of participating in the calisthenics given us.

The time for action is at hand, If we believe in preparedness, let us get busy. In this case, deeds count, not words.

Now that the Athletic Field has been cleaned and presents such an excellent appearance what would be the matter with an extension of the movement to include our campus and tennis courts?

This season of the year the campus has its greatest chance of being beautiful; indeed at present it is beautiful but it would undoubtedly be much more so were all of the unsightly bits of paper, weeds and other refuse to be removed.

Then, too, the backstops of the tennis courts would appreciate a little attention. Not only would some paint and repair work add to their longevity but would also greatly enhance their beauty.

It has been rumored that this year's Freshmen are lacking in "pep." Here is an excellent chance for them to disprove that rumor and, at the same time, beautify the campus.

Conference a Great Success

Harrisburg, Student Field Sec'y of Penna.

The addresses by David R. Porter on Sunday morning in the U. B. church, and by J. Lovell Murray at the closing session in the afternoon were especially interesting. The former brought vividly to mind the ruin and hardship in the warring countries, staggering one with the enormous figures he gave and tried to make us realize. Significant among his statements was the fact that of all the world organizations formed before the outbreak of war, the world student organization is the only one which has not been torn asunder and that it holds the power for welding again, after peace is declared, international ties.

Mr. Murray brought forcefully the great task of Christianity occasioned by the war. He outlined the great opportunities which it opens to the Christian student world. The singing of the "Old Story" quartette added inspiration to this service and strengthened by song the words of the speaker.

Many expressions of appreciation for the hospitality of the faculty and student body were heard as was also the sincerity of the students in the work. On the other hand we, too, have enjoyed the fellowship with the delegates and the privilege of joining them in their Christian work.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Shock, Mount Zion, Pa., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Margaret Catharine, to Boaz G. Light.

Mr. Light is an Alumnus of L. V. class of '13 and is at present engaged in the coal business at Lebanon where the happy couple will be at home, 1124 Chestnut street after June 1st.

DELEGATES' RECEPTION

Following the opening session of the Y. M. C. A. Presidents' conference last Friday evening, a very pleasant social time was spent in the college gymnasium. Arranged by the joint cabinets of the Christian Associations as a means of getting the delegates acquainted more quickly with each other and with our own students, it went far in the accomplishment of this achievement. The gym was decorated for the occasion with pennants of the colleges represented at the convention and the delegates were welcomed by a long receiving line of L. V. association members and the members of the Faculty.

Our girls proved themselves to be excellent entertainers even tho attention had to be divided due to the increase in the number of men at the function. Everyone seemed to be enjoying it all immensely when someone changed the whole program by introducing light refreshments. Of course they were readily accepted and only served to make the evening more agreeable.

SOCIAL NOTES

Miss Helen Hiney was the guest of Miss Elen Moyer over the weekend. Miss Hiney "aided" the latter in purchasing a new Packard Twin Six car.

Mr. Lou McCarty made a "flying trip" through the Lehigh Valley in his aeroplane and was the guest of his brother Francis McCarty.

Misses Zeitlin and Smith were the guests of Miss Kathryn Barto at Lawn.

Misses Colt and Beidler were a great help to the Social Committees of the Christian Associations in entertaining a number of the conference delegates.

Miss Kathryn Harris spent the week-end in Harrisburg.

Myrl Brown spent the week-end in Harrisburg.

The Men's Quartet rendered special music at all of the church services Sunday.

Mrs. A. E. Williams, Mr. Geo. Williams and J. Rodney Williams, were the guests of Louisa and Reuben Williams Thursday, April 26th.

Miss Marguerite Engle visited friends in Harrisburg over Sunday.

Mr. Francis Snively visited in Harrisburg Sunday.

FOUR BIRTHDAYS

On Wednesday evening, April 25th, Professor Shroyer's home was the scene of a very pretty birthday celebration. Miss Grace Snyder, Miss Miriam Keiper, Mr. Paul Hilbert and Mr. Walter Deibler, in honor of their respective birthdays gave a dinner to several of their friends chaperoned by Mrs. A. E. Shroyer. A most delicious three course dinner was served and the guests wished their hosts and hostesses many happy returns of the day. Covers were laid for the following, Miss Snyder, Miss Keiper, Miss Bachman, Miss Lutz, Miss Secrist, Miss Weidler, Mr. Hilbert, Mr. Martin, Mr. Walter, Mr. Castetter, Mr. Ramsey and Mr. Deibler.

KALOZETEAN

Kalo's regular meeting on Friday last was one of interest and entertainment. A. Boltz in his paper, "The Struggle for Democracy," gave a splendid presentation of truths in justification of the steps taken by our government in the world struggle. The spirited singing of "America" prepared splendidly for H. M. Ramsey's paper, "Prohibition and the War." His treatment of the subject was clear and the points which pointed quite surely to prohibition for the course of the war seemed to say, "What is good for our country in time of war should be good in times of peace." Optimism was the keynote of the paper "Progress of the World," by O. P. Greenawalt. The reading by D. Walter was finely interpreted and proved to be all that "True love knows no obstacles." Vigorous applause elicited an encore of very timely nature. R. Snyder in "Japan and America" presented a fine discussion of the probability of danger to our country from a nation not larger than our state of Texas and situated several thousand miles across the Pacific. The singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" closed the evening's program appropriately, dealing as it did with national and international questions.

CLIO-PHILO JOINT SESSION

On Friday evening in Philo Hall the Clionian and Philokosmian Societies celebrated their second joint session of the year.

In spite of the fact that the meeting was called early because of the reception later to the Y. M. C. A. delegates the hall was crowded with a large and interested audience.

The first number on the program was a piano duet by Misses Zoll and Keiper who pleased all with their playing.

Following this was a Parody contest. Misses Williams and Secrist, Messrs. Horstick and Shettle participating. All of the parodies given were excellent though that of Mr. Horstick was chosen for first prize.

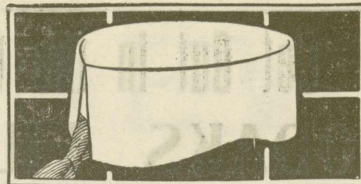

"The Effect of the War on American Economics" was the subject of a paper written by Mr. Snoke for the next number. From his viewpoint "Business cannot be as usual during war time, but it can and will be good under the circumstances."

A mixed octette from both societies next gave a most pleasing number followed by an equally pleasing encore.

Miss Gemmil then read a paper on "The Teaching of Liberty." She showed how it is possible to produce a liberty-loving nation by circulating into the minds of children the true ideas of Democracy.

During Miss Gemmil's reading representatives of each society were excused to prepare for a sketch. A sketch right "up to the minute" in which patriotism, L. V.-ism and humorism were freely mixed and which kept its hearers laughing from beginning to end.

The Olive Branch and Living Thots was edited jointly for this occasion and was read by Miss Boudier. It was an excellent edition containing many humorous personalities. The meeting was closed by a patriotic chorus of both societies.

Varsity Narrowly Loses to Lehigh

On Wednesday afternoon Lehigh nosed out Lebanon Valley by the close score of 5 to 4. The game was hard fought from the beginning until the end was reached, and it seemed as though L. V. would come out on top, but by a sudden effort the Brown and White forged ahead and clinched the game at almost the last stage of the game. Gus Zeigler was in possession of the mound, and was up to his old time three-fingered "Ike" stunts with the horse-hide. It appears as though Gus' hair raisers and earthly comets are a feature to be expected at every one of his games. Anderson stepped off a few paces around the sacks for a total of two runs. The remaining two were the results of efforts on the part of White and "Gus" Zeigler.

It must be remembered that to face a team of Lehigh's calibre meant something to our team, as they had already met and defeated U. of P.'s strong nine. That both teams played well is attested by the fact that such a close score was maintained throughout the game.

RAIN HALTS BUCKNELL GAME

TRACK TEAM LOSES TO CARLISLE INDIANS

Saturday afternoon witnessed another of those battles between a hostile tribe of redskins and our defenders of school honor and prestige. The engagement was staged on the Indian's own hunting ground. Our track team journeying to that point had every good intention of scalping their opponents, but they themselves were relieved of their mattress material. However be the result as it may, the individual members of the team are to be complimented on their efforts, which were not in vain in all events, as they secured first place in several events. The following are the results:

100 yard dash—1st, Wilber, Carlisle; 2nd, Holden, L. V.; 3rd, McLaughlin, L. V.; time 10.2.

Broad jump—1st, Haines, L. V.; 2nd, Keotah, Carlisle; 3rd, Donohue, L. V.; distance 18 feet 10 inches.

120 high hurdles—1st, May, Carlisle; 2nd, Keotah, Carlisle; 3rd, Horstick, L. V.; time, 17 seconds.

One mile—1st, Warrington, Carlisle; 2nd, Davis, Carlisle; 3rd, Potter, L. V.; time 4.44.

Shot put—1st, Mackert, L. V.; 2nd, Jaeger, L. V.; 3rd, Flinchum, Carlisle; distance, 37 feet.

Professor Reitzel Speaks in Chapel

The talk in Chapel Friday morning, given by Professor Reitzel, of the Wharton School, University of Penna., gave the students present a much clearer realization of agricultural conditions and their bearing on the United States at war.

Professor Reitzel, as a member of the Pennsylvania Commission of Public Service, having made an intensive study of the present situation in Pennsylvania, Lebanon County in particular, can be taken as an authority on these conditions.

His views, on the whole, were such that should awaken all to an immediate attempt to better the present prospect which, at best, can not be at all optimistic. The wheat crop promises to be the greatest source of trouble since it is expected to be about 40 per cent. below normal with little chance for increase. To alleviate this shortage so caused Professor Reitzel advocates "more corn." His main plea being that farmers should be persuaded to plant every available foot of ground with corn. In addition he pleads for large crops of potatoes, chickens and hogs. Chickens particularly because they are the quickest meat crop possible.

The solution of the problem of larger crops by placing college men and women on the farms seems inadequate when viewed in the light of the farmers' time-honored aversion to the college person, but that aversion has been proven to be short-lived when the farmer is shown that the college person is actuated by truly patriotic motives and that he or she is willing to do anything possible to relieve the conditions.

The promise of full credit for the entire year's work, provided that the preceding work has been satisfactory, and the knowledge that the person on a farm is as truly patriotic as the man in the trench should call forth an even greater number than the ones that have already signified their desire to help.

Philo Celebrates 50th Anniversary

On Friday evening, May 4, under most unfavorable weather condition the Philokosmian Literary Society celebrated its fiftieth anniversary with a host of friends old and new. Engle Hall was tastefully bedecked with palms as well as with the pale blue and old gold of Philo. The program was well balanced with musical and literary renditions featured by the flute and violin duett with organ accompaniment. All the participants acquitted themselves in a manner very creditable to the work of the Society and attested to the merit of the Society in the training of our men. Following the program the guests enjoyed the reception held in the blue and gold arbored gymnasium at which the Philo orchestra furnished the music.

The program follows:-

EDITORIAL

Probably never in the history of this institution has there been such a searching of consciences as there is today for never have we faced a crisis such as we face today. Never has there been asked of the student body what is being asked today. We are searching our own consciences asking ourselves, "What is my specific duty toward my country, our country at this time." Happily the question is not "Shall I serve my country" for there is no trace of doubt in the mind and spirit of every true American as to whether he wills to serve his country or not. There is not one of us who would not be willing to sacrifice his life fighting for his country. But we can not all go to front to fight and because of this fact we are apt to feel that we are unfortunately ineligible for service toward our great land. We as students and in fact as a nation have been lethargic in our efforts and our inclinations and our conception of duty to our country, excluding the idea of actual fighting, has been somewhat vague. We did not realize the significance and meaning of duty. Too long we have been content to drift along with the current of event enjoying the goods the gods have provided, patiently enduring the ills of life without bothering to differentiate those susceptible of remedy from those inevitable and irremediable. This habit of shutting our eyes to things disagreeable, of shirking a plain duty has become so ingrained as to form part of the national character. Had it not been for the convulsion racking Europe, its throes affecting all Christendom and arousing even us Americans to thot and action we should doubtless have continued to jog along the easy road of careless indifference ignoring the vital issues now forced upon us and thanking God in our happy-go-lucky fashion that while things might have been better they are no worse. Now that our eyes have been opened we should determinedly but not feverishly do our little part which probably costs us little and yet accomplishes much for the nation. While the men can not all be officers or even privates in the army yet the fact remains that they have a specific duty which is just as important if not vastly more so than going into the army or navy. In following our patriotism let us not lose sight of the less conspicuous phases of preparation for war and the successful culmination of it. Let those who are not fortunate enough to have the opportunity to go to the front, not chafe or rave but get busy at home as the Germans did. We should not hesitate to go to the farm if that is where we are most needed even if the compensation is not phenomenally high. If the call be in some other field of economic importance then let us answer the call in that field like true Americans.

PARTIES

The Juniors at the "Bastile," College Avenue gave a "charming" party Saturday evening. Various games were played—the booby prize being awarded to those lingering at the "old maids" table. At ten o'clock a very appetizing supper was served. Those present were:

Misses Katerman, Colt, Jackowick, Deman, Beidler and Carter. Messrs. Potter, Katerman, Spessard Jackowick and Berger.

On Saturday evening a very unique party was held in the "gym" by some of the North Hall girls in honor of their visitors. The evening was spent in playing old fashioned games into which each and all entered with spirit. After refreshments were served the party entered into a final game of Bings.

Those present were: Misses Goodyear, McDonald, Dowdell, Koppenhaver, Rupp, Landis, Hager, Hemp Gamble, Loser, Engle, Hughes, Sebastian, Hawthorne, Snavelly, Larew, Rupp, Fink. Messrs. Guyer, Rev. Snavelly, Loser, Wagner, R. Swartz, R. Rupp, P. Rupp, Wine, Stumbaugh, Bachman, Snavelly, Shetter, M. Morrison, Adams, Evans, J. Ziegler, Stahl Atticks. The evening was enjoyed by all.

Y. W. C. A.

Browning's "Pippa Passes" was the subject of a most interesting discussion at the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Prof. Adams as leader gave a most helpful address, the theme being "The little things in life." A special feature of the program was a vocal solo by Miss Oyer. The meeting was a helpful one and enjoyed by all.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. service Sunday afternoon was led by Mr. C. Kratzer who gave a most interesting and inspiring address on the subject of "Faith".

Revs. Snavelly and Zug, as well as some of the students helped make the meeting a success by contributing talks relative to the subject.

RESOLUTIONS

Lebanon Valley College,
Annville, Pa.,
May 1, 1917.

Whereas, it has pleased God in His infinite wisdom to call from this earth the Father of our brother, George E. Troup, we, the Philokosmian Literary Society, set forth the following resolutions:

Be it Resolved, That we express our deepest sympathy to our brother and his family in this their time of bereavement.

Furthermore, be it Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be placed on the minutes of the Philokosmian Literary Society, a copy sent to the family of the deceased and a copy be published in the "College News."

ALUMNI

Lebanon Valley is the Alma Mater of many men of prominence and note who today are making good in world's activities. It is the purpose of the College News from time to time to publish accounts of the lives of some of her most meritorious products and show how they have risen, step by step, in a series of geometric progressions, as it were, to the highest rungs of the ladder of fame and usefulness.

We have chosen for this week Winton James Baltzell '84, a man of unquestionable literary merit and talent, and a contemporary American composer, teacher and editor. Mr. Baltzell demands our respectful attention not only because of the position he commands in the musical world to-day, but also because from a literary standpoint he doubtless ranks as L. V.'s greatest genius. He was born near Harrisburg, 1864, where he attended public school. He continued his education in the liberal arts at Lebanon Valley College, graduating in the class of '84. He holds the degree of Bachelor of music from the University of Pennsylvania. His musical training was received at the New England Conservatory, Boston; under Dr. H. A. Clarke in Philadelphia; and in London he studied with Dr. T. F. Bridge and William Shakespeare. He taught singing and theory in Reading, Pennsylvania, and had charge of the Department of Music at Lebanon Valley College, at Albright Collegiate Institute, Myerstown, Pennsylvania, and at Ohio Wesleyan University, respectively. Mr. Baltzell has served as musical critic with the publishing house of Theodore Presser and as editor of The Etude. At present he is editor of The Musician, a monthly publication of excellence; and musical critic with the Oliver Ditson Company, Boston. He is the author of a number of songs and other works. In 1906 he published the text-book, a complete history of music, which is studied at present in our own Conservatory of music. Rupert Hughes, in his "Contemporary American Composers", speaks in high praise of the published and unpublished music of Mr. Baltzell, mentioning, among other pieces, the part song, "Life Is A Flower"; the song, "Desire"; the setting to E. C. Stedman's "Thou Art Mine"; and a series of songs to words by Richard Watson Tildes. Mr. Baltzell's unfinished work remains yet to stand the test of time. The future alone will disclose what the final appraisal of the man and his work will be.

MUSIC NOTES

AMONG OTHER COLLEGES

"Wireless News from other Universities" is a department recently established by the daily paper of the University of Wisconsin. One of the staff interested in wireless telegraphy has established communication with several of the middle western universities and it seems probable that his idea may be carried out by other colleges, in possession of apparatus for telegraphy, in the near future.

Yale University recently dedicated a $500,000.00 pipe organ which is claimed to be the largest in America and the third largest in the world.

A recent census of the Senior Class at Yale showed the cost of the most economical student to be $550 for the entire course while that of the most extravagant totaled $15,500. This amount it was said did not include summer vacations and several minor expenses such as motor cars.

Athletics of the Past Week

On Saturday Manager Stumbaugh led his hostile Scrubs into the regions of Palmyra, and there waged a gallant conflict, more gallant since it was a losing battle.

The Palmyra A. C. team is one any town can be well proud of and one by whom the Scrubs need not care to be beaten.

"Pop" Wrightstone pitched an excellent game, only permitting six scattered hits. He was ably supported by Kernon, who caught well and by Jaeger in left field who played a star game. Isenberger, who pitched for Palmyra did their best work. Score:—

FRESHMEN 8—LEBANON H. S. 2

The Freshmen, after challenging the Sophs. to the annual Fresh-Soph. baseball game, evidently decided a little practice would be an excellent thing. Accordingly a game with Lebanon H. S. for last Thursday and when the game was completed the Freshmen had proved that they have no mean team. The final score being 8-2 in favor of the Freshmen.

An interesting contest can be expected when the Sophomores meet the Freshmen because the Soph. team has also proved it can play ball.

Miss Dare Gives First Sr. Recital

Miss Rachael Dare, pianist, was a delight in her Senior recital, Tuesday evening, May 15, in Engle Hall. She was assisted by Miss Madeline Harrison, soprano, and Miss Violet K. Mark, reader, who also did creditable work. The following program being rendered:

1. a. Preamble (Sixth Violin-Sonata), J. S. Bach; b. Sonata Op. 81 a. Adagio, Andante, Vivacissimamente.
  2. Songs a. Rose, Softly Blooming, L. Spohr; b. Oh Fleet, Little Fairy, Sibella, Miss Harrison.
  3. a. Bird as Prophet Op 82, Schumann; b. Scherzo in E, Chopin.
  4. Reading "The Fiddle Told," Franklin, Miss Mark.
  5. a. Reverie, Debussy; b. Dance, Debussy; c. Spinning Song ("Flying Dutchman"), Wagner-Liszt.
- Do not forget Mr. P. M. Linebaugh's Senior organ recital, Tuesday evening, May 29, and the joint recital by Miss Ethel Strickler, contralto, and Miss Kathryn Harris, reader, Thursday evening, May 31.

BOTANY CLASS HIKES TO MT. GRETNA

On Saturday morning about five o'clock, certain people were rushing around as though they had been summoned to a battle front. Such, however, was not the case, it was merely the occasion of the annual Botanical expedition to Mt. Gretna, taken by the members of the Botany group and any others who wished to go with them.

Chef seemed to realize the importance of the occasion for he appeared in person and served a sumptuous breakfast in time to permit the hikers to leave at 5:30. Some were yet not quite awake but a few rods at the heels of Professor Arndt, who was leader and pacemaker, served to waken these completely.

Many stops were made along the way in order to analyze some of the most interesting of the specimens found and so much of interest was found that no one thought of the hike as anything but a pleasure jaunt. Mt. Gretna being reached before anyone was aware of it.

A record was kept of all the species found, excepting of the various violets, and at the end of the trip was found to number sixty-two.

Mention should be made of the lunch that had been prepared and sent ahead as "dry goods." Prof. Arndt was asked to base his grading

Conference at Mt. Gretna

Another successful cabinet conference was held by the Y. W. C. A. at Mt. Gretna over the week-end. "Aikenside" and "Benevola" were the cottages used by the cabinet members and their guests, Miss Ruth Lee Pearson, Student Secretary of the East Central Field of the National Y. W. C. A., and Miss May Belle Adams, advisory member of the Y. W. C. A.

The cabinet conference is a miniature summer conference and is especially helpful to the girls. Saturday afternoon was devoted to a technical meeting in which all the committee chairmen gave their plans for the year's work and received suggestions from Miss Pearson and the former chairmen of the committees. At this meeting every phase of Association work was discussed and solutions to the problems that the association at L. V. has to face were worked out. The aim of the cabinet is for more sincere and earnest work. In the evening a vesper service was held in one of the boat landings at Lake Conewago. This meeting was in charge of Miss Pearson who gave an interesting talk on "Leadership." She said every college girl should prepare herself to be a leader, for leaders are needed in every part of the world and the colleges must supply this need. On Sunday morning Miss Pearson talked on "The Work of the Committees to Carry out the Purpose of the Association." Each committee has its work to do to make the association a success.

The Sunday evening service was in charge of Miss Adams who read "The Transformation of Lochlan Campbell" taken from Ian Maclaren's work "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush." This quaint Scotch story was of great interest to all the girls and this the last meeting of the conference seemed to come to an end entirely too soon.

Saturday evening was left for a general good time and the good time was much in evidence for no house-party at Gretna could be a success without everyone having a good time. The girls showed their ability, not only as Y. W. C. A. workers and as girls capable of enjoying all the charms of Gretna, but they also showed that they would be capable of being members of the commissary department if there should not be room for them in the Red Cross department.

The following girls attended the conference: Ruth Heffelman, Kath-

EDITORIAL

While in College more than any other time previous in his life a man forms the habits that are to guide his conduct in after life. Habits, whether good or bad, formed at this period are sure to influence and, to a certain extent, shape the destiny of the individual when he meets the actual difficulties after school days are over.

One of the most potent factors in the success of a person is the presence or absence of the habit of punctuality. The man who is always on time can always be relied upon, not only for his presence but for the character of his work, while it is just as true that the man who never keeps an appointment on time is the man who performs his duties at that appointment with the same ratio of carelessness.

Particularly when in College is a man liable to form the habit of unpunctuality. Just recall to how many meetings you have gone, whether of committees, classes, societies, or of athletic practice, that every one supposed to be present was present at the stated time, and you will see the truth of the statement.

Examine your own record and see if you have been accustomed to getting to classes or to the dining hall several minutes late and see if frequently it has been entirely unnecessary, merely a habit. If such has been the case stop a minute and think what are the possibilities of a continuance of such action.

FELLOWS IN CAMP WORKING HARD

Reports from the fellows at Fort Niagara and from Rarig who is at Fort Madison, say that all are having a wonderful time, working hard and all the time. The only difficulty being to keep warm.

Risser and Wenrich are in Company 12, Field Artillery, "bunking" together. Herring is in Company 13 and Mackert Co. 14, Field Artillery. Professor Kirkland is in Company 2, Infantry.

All are so far well and enjoying the work. Each day begins at 5:30 and ends at 10:30 and usually no time is lost in getting to sleep when 10:30 arrives.

SOCIAL NOTES

Misses Mary Schach, Frankie Kline, Mary Creighton, Violet Shirk, and Marie Richwine "hiked" to the latter's home in Ephrata on Saturday where they spent a most enjoyable week end.

Miss Helen Hoover was the guest of Miss Elizabeth Woomer, Sunday.

Miss Ruth Loser spent the week end at her home in Progress.

Misses Snively, Bauder and Sebastian enjoyed a "hike" to Hershey on Saturday.

Miss Carrie Miller visited friends in Lebanon on Saturday.

Misses Smith and Zeiblin spent the week end in Hummelstown.

Miss Myrtle Hawthorne visited her home Saturday.

RECEPTION.

The Y. W. C. A. was especially privileged this week by the visit of the Student Secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Ruth Pearson. On Monday evening an informal reception was tendered her in Clio Hall where Miss Pearson who has traveled extensively entertained the girls with a most interesting account of her travels and the workings of the Y. W. C. A. in the foreign cities. Her ability as a teller of stories was shown by the interest of the girls manifested during the entire evening. Refreshments were served and all those present enjoyed the evening very much.

OLD NEWS STAFF CELEBRATES

On Thursday evening the "old" news staff, composed of Misses Oyer, Dasher and Showers, and Messrs. Loomis, Wagner, Walters and Snoke, accompanied by Professor Grimm hiked to the Water Works Hotel. Here a most delicious chicken and waffle supper was served, informally. To say the supper was enjoyed is insufficient. The walk had sharpened all appetites so that each one performed his duty manfully, and then some.

Alumni

Dr. Wm. H. Washinger, '91, Supt. of the Pennsylvania Conference was recently elected to the bishopric of the U. B. Church by the General Conference held at Wichita, Kansas. The esteem at which his fellow ministers hold him and the record of his past history show well that this honor was most befittingly conferred on one who truly merited it. Dr. Washinger while in school in 1890 organized the Derry Street Church, Harrisburg. From 1891 to 1894 he served a most successful pastorate at Otterbein, Harrisburg. From 1894 to 1902 he ministered to the First Church, Chambersburg, which was built during his long term there. In 1902 at the annual Conference held in the Third Church, York, he was elected presiding elder, and since that time has continued in that office. His term as Superintendent of the Conference is a record of advancement and unparalleled success. He has had a very vital relation and connection with the Quincy Orphanage, and with Lebanon Valley College, where he has served on the Trustee and Executive Boards, respectively. The News is glad to hear of an alumnus who has received the highest office in the gift of the Church, and extends to him their heartiest wishes for success.

Announcements sent out the past week by Mr. and Mrs. David B. Pugh, of Pittsburgh, contain the following:

We've something more precious

Than rubies or gold.

It's a dear little girl,

That's come to our fold.

Mr. Pugh was a member of the 1916 class and is at present teaching in Pittsburgh. Congratulations, Dave!

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The first tennis tournament of the season was held last week when L. V. sent a two-man team to South Bethlehem to play Moravian College.

Weather conditions were unfortunate, a high wind blowing all the time and in consequence L. V. lost both singles and doubles.

The score:

SINGLES

Allen, Moravian, 1st set, 6; White, L. V., 2. 2nd set, Allen, 6; White, 4.

1st set, Hoffman, Moravian, 5; Fink, L. V., 7. 2nd set, Hoffman, 7; Fink, 5. 3rd set, Hoffman, 6; Fink, 0.

DOUBLES

1st set, Allen and Hoffman, Moravian, 6; White and Fink, L. V., 2. 2nd set, Allen and Hoffman, 6; White and Fink, 2.

The next tournament is one with Dickinson College at Carlisle, June 1st.

"What is so rare as a contribution in the Thielensian box?" This from Thiel college. So students must be about of one type all over, for we could say the same of the "News" box.

CLIONIAN.

Attendance has much to do with the success of a literary session but on Friday evening even though many of the girls were away a very good program was given. Jokes are always enjoyed and Miriam Lenhart in her paper "May Jokes" called forth much laughter. Anna Fasnacht gave many interesting current events, interesting because of the wave of excitement over the country. The piano solo by Ruth Hoffman demanded an encore but society had to be satisfied with just one good performance. Ruth Bender's paper "The Harvest of the Night" told of the Red Cross and Ambulance work done in France. It told how the soldiers wounded at the front during the day are treated at night. "Jack" the reading given by Myrtle Hawthorne was very well given.

KALOZETEAN

A war program was the interesting subject of readings and debate on Friday night. Mr. Nissley gave a broad view of the war as a whole and its relation to industrial and civil American life. His paper "America and the World War" was full of national and world interest. Mr. Allen in "Can Man Abolish War?" saw a bright future in the efforts of establishing world peace. The keynote to this end, he emphasized, is that of brotherly love and compromise.

The debate, "Resolved that all able bodied male students of Lebanon Valley College should enlist in the United States army to propagate the interests of Humanity," was upheld by Messrs. Klinefelter and Isaacs while Messrs. Ramsey and Hilbert defended the negative. By a great flow of rhetorical language the affirmative leaders did much in securing a decision from the judges. Misinterpretation of the question led to a spirited discussion following which the house voted negatively.

"PHILOKOSMIAN"

On Friday night the Philokosmian Literary Society was host to the Seniors, an annual custom. Practically all of the Seniors were present and enjoyed the excellent program prepared in their honor.

Greetings in the name of the Society were given by Mr. Snoke. Then Mr. Zeigler sang "Blow, Blow Thou Winter Wind" most delightfully and gave as an encore "Just a-wearing for you." Mr. Katerman followed with a reading, "Socks for John Randall," much appreciated and with "Cohen at the Telephone" as an encore.

The audience had by this time gotten such a taste for encores that Mr. Jackowick was compelled to present one after his piano solo. "1917" Future by Mr. Gemmil, was of a prophetic nature. Should each member of the Senior Class fulfill his destiny as outlined by Mr. Gemmil, the world's history will be strongly affected. The closing number was a paper by Mr. M. Wingerd labeled "Chips." It was distinctly humorous and at the same time contained many valuable thoughts.

After the literary program all were invited to remain for a social hour during which delicious refreshments were served.

GLEE CLUB AWARDS PINS.

At a special meeting of the Glee Club on Monday morning pins were awarded to the men having served the specified time. A new system has been inaugurated whereby third year men receive a gold "L"; second year, silver; first year, bronze. The pins are all made in the style of regulation gold pin and are very neat in appearance.

AMONG THE COLLEGES

Knitting "bees" promise to be the entertainment of college girls at Grove City. They have organized a Red Cross society and with the help of faculty women are knitting vests, scarfs, and wristlets for the submarine men.

Fourteen of the social affairs at Wellesley have been abolished by a vote of the student body. Such as the Junior dance, play, and May Fete were among those affected.

The campaign being made to raise money for a greater college at Whittier, California, is carried on by means of "movies." Pictures of the life on the campus and surroundings have been taken and shown in the vicinity of the college.

A new intercollegiate magazine devoted to the recording and perpetuating of the brighter side of student life has been published in New York. It's name is "The Imp" and is similar to "Life," "Judge," and "Puck" only more so. Fifty-four institutions of higher education are represented in the new journal.

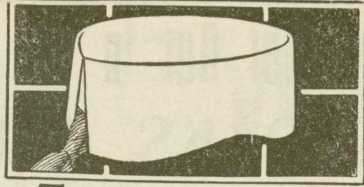

Baker college has substituted the serviceable khaki suit for citizen's clothes. It has brought about a great spirit of democracy among the students and faculty. All are American citizens eager to do their duty.

Several middle-western colleges have instituted a course in kitchen gardening. The women are here taught the most practical and necessary parts for successful and economical gardening.

"PLEASE"

A maiden entered the midnight car
And firmly grasped the strap,
And every time they hit a curve
She sat in a different lap.
The hill grew higher, the turns grew worse

At last she gasped with a smile,
"Will someone kindly tell me, please,
How many laps to the mile?"

Scrub Team

Loses Two

On Friday afternoon the Scrubs managed to play a full game of nine innings with no intervention of rain. This was so unusual an occurrence as to rattle these peerless players and the game was lost to their opponents, Lebanon High School, by a 12-10 score.

As the score indicates, the game was a "swatfest," Spielman and Barnhart of L. V. and Miller, of Lebanon, knocking out home runs.

While the Scrubs hit equally as well as their opponents costly errors at crucial moments caused them to lose the game.

Dunmoyer, Wrightstone and Simondet made up the L. V. battery and did efficient work.

ELIZABETHTOWN 10; SCRUBS 9.

Again on Saturday the Scrubs suffered defeat, this time at the hands of the strong Elizabethtown A. C. team.

Captain Gruber and Simondet were the battery in this game and were compelled to work hard because the opposing team had its "batting eye" right with it.

Greenawalt with three hits outshone his teammates in batting.

While these two games may not seem encouraging the Scrubs should not be censured. They were their first attempts and good team-work was impossible.

Weather conditions too were unfavorable being much better suited to football than to baseball.

VARSITY SCHEDULE TO BE CONTINUED.

Though some varsity players have left school and quite a number of games have been cancelled by opposing teams, Coach Guyer proposes to continue the varsity schedule as far as possible.

THE EXODUS OF L. V. MEN.

The past two weeks have seen a steady exodus of men from L. V. The war situation has been responsible for the greatest number of departures. If the present rate of departures continue there will not be many men here by the first of June.

The faculty has lost one of its members in the person of Prof. R. McD. Kirkland who has entered the Officers' Reserve Camp at Fort Niagara.

Juniors Give

Music Recital

The Juniors in Music gave their recital in Engle Hall, Thursday evening, May 10, to a large and appreciative audience. The entire program was well rendered and enjoyed by everyone, which was shown by the hearty applause. The following is the program:

PART I

1. Piano and Organ—Nachtgesang, Jungmann, Mrs. Olt and Miss Dare.
2. Piano—Ballade in A flat, Chopin, Miss Rhoads.
3. Songs—a. "Dein Bildniss wunderselig," Schumann; b. Staenchen, Strauss, Miss Oyer.
4. Organ—Caprice in B flat, Guilman, Miss Richwine.
5. Piano—a. Romance, Op 28 No. 2, Schumann; b. Polonaise, Op 9, Paderewski, Mr. Greer.
6. Songs—a. "Er der Herrlichste," Schumann; b. "Koom, las uns spielen," Bleichman, Miss Kettering.
7. Two Pianos—Impromptu, Op 66, Reinecke, Miss Rhoads and Mrs. Olt.

PART II

1. Organ—Processional March ("Die Meistersinger") Wagner, Miss Dare.
  2. Piano—Polichinelle, Op. 3 No. 4, Rachmaninoff, Miss Richwine.
  3. Songs—a. "Hush thee, my baby" Smetana; b. Butterflies, Seiler, Miss Oyer.
  4. Organ—Paeon, Matthews, Miss Rhoads.
  5. Piano—a. Debut and Serenade, Poldini; b. En Automne, Moszkowski, Mrs. Olt.
  6. Songs—a. Art, Fox; b. April, April, Florida, Miss Kettering.
  7. Two Pianos—Concerto in D major (First Movement), Mozart, Miss Richwine and Mr. Greer.
- Miss Fleeda Kettering will give her Senior Piano Recital Tuesday evening, May 22. All are invited to attend.

HOUSE PARTY AT MT. GRETN.

One of the interesting features of the past week-end was a house party at the "Bonnie Brier," Mt. Gretna. The time was spent in hiking through the "mount" and in rowing upon the lake.

Ideal weather contributed greatly to the success of the party which consisted of Misses Streavy, Bergdoll, Bossard, Rupp and Hughes; Messrs. Hummel, Loomis, Wagner, Swartz, Ebersole and Fink.

Miss Clara Rupp, of Harrisburg, chaperoned the crowd.

Queen of May

Is Crowned

In spite of the cold wind and the threatening clouds good King Sol shone forth long enough to show favor to the Queen of May who was crowned last Saturday afternoon on the College Campus. The May Day exercise is the prettiest event of the whole college year and this year all who witnessed the procession will say that it was as pretty if not prettier than in previous years.

Miss Pauline Clark, the May Queen, was much admired as she stepped from her flower-adorned cart and, having been crowned with the crown, the gift of the Senior class, proceeded to her throne attended by Miss Nettie Showers, her maid of honor and her six attendants, Miss Ruth Huber, Miss Louise Henry, Miss Esther Baehman, Miss Elizabeth Woomer, Miss Violet Wolfe and Miss Hilda Colt.

The Queen was then presented with a sceptre by the members of the Junior class. The Sophomore class showed their honor to the Queen of May by presenting her with an orb while the Freshman class presented the Queen's footstool.

The Queen and her attendants as well as the large crowd of spectators were entertained by a little operetta given by the children of the public school under the direction of Miss Miriam Oyer. The operetta was "Mother Goose and Her Garden." Mother Goose and all her children, Boy Blue, Bo Peep, Jack and Jill, Mary, Mary Quite Contrary, Jack Horner, Golden Hair, Tommy Tucker and Red Riding Hood were in the garden among their flowers. Groups of children represented flowers, each group singing a little song about their flower. It was quite effective when the children representing bees, sunbeams, raindrops, and butterflies fluttered about the children who were the flowers in the garden.

The folk dances given by the girls of the Freshmen and Sophomore classes were very well executed while the aesthetic dance deserves special mention. The girls in this dance wore Grecian costumes and danced quite gracefully before the Queen. The winding of the May pole however was the climax to the entertainment furnished by the Queen's merry-makers. No May Day exercise would be complete without the May pole dance and as the gayly colored Lebanon High School, by a 12-10 every one was filled with the desire to follow the admonition of their Queen to be good and kind to every one and spread abroad good fellowship which is the teaching of Spring.

EDITORIAL

The miniature cemetery which greeted the student body on Thursday morning, carried out in a substantial way the idea that has no doubt run through the minds of many of us concerning the condition of the campus. At this time of the year when nature is doing her best to make it beautiful we should certainly not find it so difficult to aid her in the task.

Scattered broadcast is all sorts of rubbish from paper to tin cans which certainly should have no place on the campus. Reference was made some time ago to the condition of the tennis backstops. Time and elbow grease was expended last year in putting up these aids to tennis which weathering has caused to need attention. Certain members of the Freshman class were much insulted when reference was made to their lack of "pep" but the class has made no effort yet toward its vindication. Let's have some of the old "L. V. pep" demonstrated in a "campus clean up."

With the call to the colors coming strongly to our student body in so much that a goodly number of our men have entered active service, both in the officers training camp and in the ranks of the regular army and realizing that in the near future it is likely to be even more urgent, the idea has sprung up that the work here is of small value and that the sooner we close up academic work the better. The plea for farm laborers gave strength to this idea and while in some respects it is very necessary that men leave, we must not forget that for many of us these may be our last days of college instruction.

If called into the service, we will probably say good bye to college days for when we return to civil life it will mean a struggle for life's necessities. Then, as now, trained men will be at premium for without training none can hope to be efficient. We must not forget that present duty well done means more than the promise of grasping larger opportunities for service in the future. Never was the saying, "A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush", truer than in this connection.

Whatever work we then go into at the close of school we can do with the knowledge that we have not shirked the little things and can feel more confident of being able to carry to a successful finish larger tasks. Let us then make use of the few weeks remaining and fill them with work well-done, not for the credit secured by it but in order to furnish the greatest good when called upon to serve country.

SOCIAL NOTES

Miss Lottie Guyer, of Shippensburg, was the guest of her brother, Coach Guyer, for the May Day exercises. On Saturday evening coach gave a most delightful party in her honor to about seventy students and faculty members.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Oyer and daughter, Barbara, of Shippensburg, were the guests of Miss Miriam Oyer for the Junior Recital.

Other visitors for the recital were, Mrs. Rhoads, Chambersburg, guest of Miss Irma Rhoads, and Mrs. Greer, York, guest of Goodrich Greer.

Misses Marion and Dorothy Heffleman, also Miss Good, of New Cumberland, were May Day guests of Miss Ruth Heffleman.

Miss Louisa William entertained Miss Mary Dreibelblis, of Lehigh; Miss Helen Bubb entertained Miss Myrtle Bryan, of Clearfield; and Miss Reno Hoff entertained her brother of Mt. Wolf, over the past week-end. In Dillsburg several days last week.

QUARTETTE DISBANDS.

Due to the departure of Mr. Deibler, the "Old Story Quartette" has discontinued engagement indefinitely. A very enjoyable Mother's Day service was participated in with Rev. Hallman at Union Deposit and the only regret was that it would be the last for at least some time. During the past year the quartette has visited many of the churches in the community and carried L. V. spirit and enthusiasm with it everywhere.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS.

The present school year is almost completed, in fact, school may be closed in several weeks. Before the close of school we would like to have all of our advertisements paid up in full. If yours has not been paid you would favor us greatly by remitting at once so that we can close the year with clean accounts.

JOINT SESSION.

The Student Volunteers had charge of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. joint session Sunday. Miss Ruth Heffleman opened the meeting. W. W. McCone spoke on the "Opportunity of investing one's life in the Foreign Mission Field." Rufus Lefever then showed the "Need for College Men and Women." The meeting was largely attended.

The Student Volunteer Band has fourteen members who have volunteered to go to the foreign field. A meeting is held each Sunday morning after breakfast at which different missionary fields are studied. Mr. W. N. Martin is president of the organization.

To become a student volunteer one must sign a pledge that "It is my purpose if God permit, to become a foreign missionary." At the same time the new member arranges his preparation so that he will be best fitted for the work.

The Student Volunteers never sends out any missionaries but acts as a recruiting agency.

Miss Ethel Larew visited her home

CORNWALL TRIP.

On Tuesday a large party made up of students and others, under the leadership of Professor Wanner, made the annual trip to the Cornwall Ore banks.

This trip is made particularly for the benefit of those enrolled in the Geology course, giving them the opportunity to study first hand the Cornwall Iron formations which are among the best known. Others, however, to a limited number, are allowed to accompany these and usually enjoy it greatly, both from the educational and outing standpoint.

Contrary to custom, the weatherman did not interfere in the least with this year's expedition, giving a day ideal that will long be remembered by those making the trip.

U. B. GENERAL CONFERENCE AT WICHITA, KAN.

The twenty-seventh General Conference of the United Brethren Church is in session at Wichita, Kansas, from May 10th to 20th.

It is at this Conference that the Bishops and general officers of the church are elected and vital church problems are discussed.

The conference representing 700,000 people, has drawn up resolutions advocating a system of national prohibition and has sent them to the President of the United States. Bishop Weekly, Bishop of this district has handed his resignation to the conference.

AMONG OTHER COLLEGES

Lawrence College, Wisconsin, has conceived the idea of cooperating with the government by compiling all possible information of her alumni, faculty and students. Blanks are to be filled out which will give the name, age, weight, height, abilities and general disposition of each one.

CLIO-KALO JOINT SESSION

The Clionian and Kalozetean Literary Societies celebrated their second joint session of the year on Friday evening. Kalo Hall was filled almost to capacity with members of the two societies as well as many visitors. The program, in charge of the officers of Clio, was one of high merit throughout, eliciting vigorous applause at the conclusion of each number.

The piano duet by Messrs. P. Hilbert and L. Walters brought an encore which by means of its patriotic strain brought each one to his feet. Mr. Mease read a newsy paper concerning events of significance of the past few days. The selected reading by Miss Secrist was finely interpreted and dealing as it did with war scenes sprinkled with romance was much appreciated. The mixed quartet consisting of the Misses Merle Saylor and Sadie Houser, Messrs. Homer Ramsey and Raymond Keim pleased with several well rendered selections. Mr. Dundore gave in his oration the principles of thought and action of "The Man of the Hour." Miss Haines favored with an interesting review of "The Conquest."

The Sketch presented by Miss Hoover and her "All Star" cast was full of college life and did not fail to liven up with humor the entire audience. The Clionian was as usual full of fun and gentle knocks and, read by Miss Boulder, lost none of its sweetness. After the singing of America the session adjourned.

The Exodus of L. V. Men

Herring, DeHuff, Lerew, Fulford, Foltz Morri on and Wenrick. H. Blauch, and M. Light have enlisted in the regular army.

To help increase the amount of food the following men have gone on farms: Deibler, S'eat, Baker, Imboden, Rareig and Ness.

E. Haro'd White and Charles E. Loomis have enlisted in a Hospital Corps and are expecting to be called any minute.

The patriotic examples of these men speak well for Lebanon Valley's spirit and shows that her students are not behindhand in serving their country. Those who remain should remember that they also are serving by completing as well as possible the year's work. Once broken off a college life is seldom resumed and each should attempt to make the most of the present.

ALUMNI

In the commencement exercises held last week at Bonebrake Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio, three alumni members of Lebanon Valley were graduated.

They were: Mrs. G. A. Richie, '14; Mr. G. A. Richie, '13, and Mr. David E. Young, '15.

In addition to these quite a few others of our Alumni of more recent years taking work there among whom are C. Guy Steinbach, J. Stewart Innerst both of '16, and Lester Zug, '15.

THE PRICE.

How much do you want to succeed?

How eager are you to be great?

Are you willing to study and read,

To work and with patience to wait;

Are you willing to pass up the joys

That tempt you and coax you to-day;

To turn a deaf ear to the boys

Who would lure you to join in their play?

Are you willing to pay in distress

And denial the price of success?

How strong are your dream and desire

To stand at the head of your clan?

Are you willing to stick when you tire

And play the part of a man?

When the struggle grows bitter and hot

And your muscles are weary and sore

Will you quit with the little you've got

Or stay there and battle for more?

Oh, we all can be brave at the start,
But the finish is proof of the heart.

If you're willing temptation to shun,

To be deaf to the pleasures that call,

If you'll stand to a task till it's done

And get up again when you fall,

If undaunted you'll suffer a blow,

And still keep yourself in control,

Now lose the ambition to know,

The joy of your self-chosen goal,

Beyond doubt you shall reach it some day.

But all this is the price you must pay.

SENSE AND NONSENSE.

Advice is still cheap, it being the only thing not affected by the present high prices.

Tim:—"Why do you think you will have trouble in keeping your engagement a secret?"

Kin:—"I had to tell her, didn't I?"

Amateur:—"Is it all right to feed hogs corn in the ear?"

Wag:—"No! put it in the trough and let them help themselves."

L. Walters:—"What do they call the official poet in England, some special name?"

"And what did you do," his brother was asked.

"Lent mine to Daniel."

So even in Daniel's time people "went broke."

AMONG THE COLLEGES.

The University of Wisconsin has established a school of intensive military training for the remainder of the year. Four hours of drill and three of lecture per day constitute the required work which is designed to fit the men for the post of Lieutenant. The faculty has organized a company of its own and is engaging in work similar to that of the students.

Ursinus Y. W. C. A. is arranging for a course in first aid work consisting of two hours of lecture and drill in the fundamentals of first aid. A trained nurse has volunteered her services as instructor and enthusiasm among the girls is high.

Susquehanna University expects soon to have full military equipment for her company which drills each evening.

The Ursinus Weekly has decided to omit from its pages resolutions of sympathy upon the deaths of relatives of students. Lack of space and of general interest is given as the reason.
